JEWISH CHURCH LEADERS FACE DEATH IN RUSSIA

Rabbis Ask U. S. to Stop Executions.

Indignation Grows

Here are some of the day's high lights in Russia's war against religion:

WARSAW—Rabbis appeal to United States to save more than 20 Jewish leaders from execution in Russia.

BERLIN—Jews plan great protest.

LONDON—Soviet campaign bitterly censured in house of lords. Salvation Army appeals for world-wide prayers.

MOSCOW—Russia warns Britain to keep hands off soviets' private affairs. Refuses to change religious policy. Two more churches closed in Siberia.

BUCHAREST—Rumania uneasy over new Russian military movements.

WARSAW, Poland, Feb. 20.—[Jewish Telegraphic Agency.]—Rabbi Israel Schapiro, known as the Grodsiske rabbi, has received a report that the soviet government is preparing to execute the leaders of the Minsk Jewish community, arrested last Saturday by Russian secret police on a charge of counter-revolutionary actions.

On hearing the report a delegation of rabbis called on the American consul here and asked him to intervene. As a sign of mourning, all of the rabbis rent their clothing. Special prayers have been arranged for the doomed leaders.

A similar report has been received by Rabbi Chaim Czer Grodzenenski of Vilna, who has sent a number of telegrams to Jewish leaders and rabbis in all parts of the world asking them to intervene to prevent the executions.

Berlin Jews Plan Protest.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Reports that about twenty Jewish rabbis, teachers, and elders, in addition to several bankers and business men, have been arrested at Minsk were received here by Chief Rabbi Hillesheimer-Kalisch. They were said to have been charged with having sent letters to the rabbis of Jewish congregations abroad imploring aid, especially for the support of religious schools in soviet Russia. Some of those arrested were reported to have been sentenced to death.

Berlin Jews are planning a protest. The soviet embassy here today denied knowledge of the arrests.

DENOUNCED BY LORDS

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Indictment of the soviet war on religion and its international propaganda activities took up most of the house of lords session today. Lord Birkenhead plied the government with searching questions in an attempt to obtain full information on what has passed between the government and the soviet ambassador concerning the position of religious organizations in Russia and the soviet propaganda pledge.

Lord Birkenhead characterized the statement issued in the name of Metropolitan Sergius as "an impudent and clumsy forgery," arguing that Great Britain's attitude to crimes and religious persecution abroad was in every sense a political matter. He termed the regicidal murders of the Russian royal palace and a later episode in Greece, after which Great Britain severed diplomatic relations with those nations.

"If that course commended itself to the British government in cases of isolated events that outraged humanity, it must apply to the scheme or campaign carried out with unpitying cruelty against every religious community in Russia," Lord Birkenhead urged.

Soviet propaganda abroad, he insisted, has intensified in the last year, especially in India.

Lord Parmoor, the government spokesman, admitted there had been a technical "breach of the soviet's propaganda pledge."

WARNS BRITAIN

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Feb. 20. — Moscow dispatches have again turned the blame on the British, and today the Russian press complains that Great Britain is meddling in Russia's interior affairs by supporting the attacks of the British clergy against the bolshevists for persecuting religions in Russia.

Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson has been informed that any protest

NELSON MORRIS BARES THOUSANDS SPENT ON WIFE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 20.—The details of Nelson Morris' troubled and costly romance with Jeanne Aubert, the French music hall star, were told to the tribunal of the Seine today when the Chicago millionaire's appeal against the court order compelling him to pay $1,000 per month separation allowance to his wife came up.

The court was told how Mr. Morris had bought the actress a $50,000 home at Le Vesinet, paid $12,000 in incidental bills, given her $140,000 in jewels, bought her mother a $3,400 house, paid thousands to her creditors, and sent her a cool $40,000 whilst she stayed on the Riviera. But when she spent $16,000 in two months he became impatient and closed her account at the bank.

The defense argued that Mlle. Aubert, who became famous during the war, had been ardently courted by Mr. Morris but that she was torn between her art and her heart. She was unable to resist the call of the stage but still needed money and could not have her allowance cut. Judgment will be given in a fortnight.

BRITISH WOMEN FIGHT FOR EQUAL RIGHTS 'TO HANG'

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Great Britain is having a great controversy over propriety of capital punishment where women are concerned, with many leading feminists contending, as one of the sisterhood put it, "Women have as much right to be hanged as men."

Dr. Methven, governor of Maidstone prison, recently urged that women be exempted from the death penalty in murder cases.

He immediately aroused the antagonism of the Women's Freedom league, whose secretary, Miss Underwood, said in effect she was strongly opposed to capital punishment, but she "would be hanged" rather than agree to exemption of women while men were not exempt.

WOMAN BREAKS RECORD; LOOPS LOOP 46 TIMES

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Miss Mildred Kauffman of Kansas City established a new world's record for women at Lambert St. Louis field today when she looped the loop 46 times. Her feat was witnessed by C. F. Schroy of Pittsburg, a member of the contest board of the National Aeronautic association.

Miss Kauffman, a licensed transport pilot, used an American Eagle biplane, and climed to an 8,000 foot altitude before she started to loop. Haze at 1,500 feet caused Schroy to end his count of 46 loops, although Miss Kauffman reported she made a total of 57 before landing. She was up 16 minutes.

The previous record of 41 loops was held by Miss Mildred Steinaff of Akron, Ohio.

Mother Saves Heiress from Bigamy Tangle

George Howell, 26 years old, son of a couple formerly prominent in north shore society, was in a cell at the detective bureau last night, charged with bigamy and renounced by the New York heiress with whom he eloped in Los Angeles a month ago.

Howell, having run an $800 stake up to $40,000 in stock speculation, lost it all in the crash last fall and went to California to join his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howell, formerly of Glencoe. At the Ambassador hotel in Los Angeles he met Miss Marjorie Heisenbuttel, 21 years old.

Girl Is $670,000 Heiress.

The girl was staying there with her mother, Mrs. Max Strauss, 450 Park avenue, New York. Mrs. Strauss had divorced Marjorie's father, Frederick Heisenbuttel, a tobacco manufacturer, and married Max Strauss, trader on the New York Stock exchange for Lowry & Co. Miss Heisenbuttel inherited $670,000 from her grandmother.

Howell told her to call him "Sandy" and in the third week of their acquaintanceship he persuaded her to elope to Santa Monica, where a Methodist minister married them. Knowing nothing of the ceremony, Mrs. Strauss decided a week ago that it was time she and Marjorie were returning to New York.

Howell, who was penniless, came along to Chicago on money given him by his bride, the police were told. They arrived here Tuesday morning and Mrs. Strauss had reservations for the Twentieth Century Limited, leaving for New York at 12:40 p. m. She and her daughter left for the La Salle street station while Howell, after decorously shaking hands with his bride, went elsewhere.

Couple Flee from Mother.

Two minutes before time for departure of the Century Howell appeared in the trainshed. The girl saw him, jumped off the train, and scampered with him down the platform to a waiting taxi, with Mrs. Strauss in laborious pursuit, a suitcase in either hand.

Howell and the girl whisked away in the cab, leaving Mrs. Strauss at the curb. She went to police headquarters and signed a complaint charging the young man with kidnaping. Then she consulted a telephone directory, vaguely recalling that Howell, when her daughter was not present, had mentioned having once been married to a Chicago girl named Kahnweiler.

Finds First Wife by Phone.

By telephone Mrs. Strauss found Alex Kahnweiler, an insurance broker living at 8142 Ingleside avenue, who informed her that his daughter, Artelis, had married Howell four years ago and separated from him after five months, but was still his legal wife.

Meanwhile detectives had traced the elopers to a rooming house at 545 Aldine avenue, where Howell spent his last $8 for a week's rent.

Howell turned white and Miss Heisenbuttel burst into tears when the detectives entered their room. Mr. Kahnweiler was waiting at the detective bureau and, when Howell arrived, signed a complaint charging him with bigamy. Miss Heisenbuttel was escorted to her mother's room at the Hotel La Salle.

She Spurns Him Forever.

"Sandy never told me he was married," she tearfully informed her mother. "Now that I know the sort he is, I'll never see him again."

From his cell, early this morning, Howell issued notes to the girl, pledging his love and promising to have his marriage with Miss Kahnweiler annulled. Reporters to whom he entrusted the notes for delivery, were denied admittance by Mrs. Strauss, who said she and her daughter were "all broken up over this dreadful thing."

Wreck Office in Family Row; Husband, Wife Held

Robert E. Dixon, 36 years old, an advertising salesman for the Pictorial bureau, and his wife, Pearl, 24 years old, were held at the detective bureau last night on charges of disorderly conduct, made against each other, after they had wrecked Dixon's office at 304 West Washington street in a domestic brawl. Sergt. Dan Kenney and his squad found chairs broken, furniture overturned, and the water cooler smashed as evidence of the intensity of the Dixons' quarrel. Both were badly bruised and their clothing torn. Mrs. Dixon said her husband accused her of infidelity after calling her to his office from their home at 1453 Elmdale avenue.

GOAL IS RAISED TO $74,000,000 IN TAX DRIVE

Funds Pour In for Finance Relief.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The $50,000,000 taxpayers' trust to pull the local governments out of the financial mire appears reasonably certain of consummation. So hopeful was the outlook at 3 p. m. yesterday that the loop banks raised the goal to $74,000,000, the amount the city, county, school board and sanitary district say they urgently need to operate until July 1.

To increase the effort to lift the local governments out of difficulties for the first half of the year, the banks announced they will contribute $25,000,000 if an aggregate of $74,000,000 is raised. Further, the banks agreed to contribute one-third of the sum subscribed if the aggregate is more than $50,000,000.

Myers Praises Efforts.

The trust plan was so favorably received every place presented yesterday that Lewis E. Myers, financier, contractor, member of the school board and leader in the movement, said last night:

"The raising of $50,000,000 is assured. My guess is that the $50,000,000 will be subscribed by Saturday noon, but if not, surely on Monday. It is only a matter of the time required to see the large property owners who would like to keep the governments operating. It looks so certain to me that I would be willing to underwrite it, if my underwriting were acceptable."

Mr. Myers has worked hard and believes that success is near. He is not feeling well and will probably go south soon to recuperate.

Expect Pay on Tuesday.

Pay day for the 43,836 city, county and school employés, who have $11,909,430 coming in overdue salaries, will probably start on Tuesday, although it may be a day or so later.

In the absence of Silas H. Strawn from the city yesterday the solicitation of subscriptions was carried on under Harold Beacom and Paul H. Moore, attorneys in his office. They received subscriptions as follows: $450,000 from the Union Stock Yards company, $150,000 from the Central Manufacturing district, $250,000 from Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co.; $100,000 from the Illinois Central, $50,000 from H. H. Porter personally, and $250,000 from Montgomery Ward & Co. Marshall Field & Co. had already bought $500,000 worth of tax warrants and indicated that it may subscribe to the trust also.

Robert F. Carr subscribed for $100,000. A meeting was held with representatives of the International Harvester company, the gas, Edison, and telephone companies, from which an aggregate subscription of more than $9,000,000 is expected today.

Alton Railway Lines Up.

The Chicago and Alton railroad will subscribe for about $1,000,000 participation in the trust. Representatives of all of the railroads entering Chicago, except the Wabash, Great Western, Nickel Plate and Big Four, met yesterday and promised to submit their subscriptions today. They are expected to come forward with a sum between $10,000,000 and $11,000,000. The members of the Building Managers' association, from which an aggregate of $9,500,000 is expected, will start handing in their subscriptions today.

The manufacturers, who have indicated that they will sign for nearly $6,000,000, will also send in their agreements today. Actual and prospective, there is a total of $37,350,000 which seems to be headed for the taxpayers' trust today or tomorrow. Messrs. Beacom and Moore hope to have the full $50,000,000 by Saturday noon.

Name Corporate Trustee.

When subscriptions for the $50,000,000 have been obtained the trust will be formed. The Continental Illinois bank, which was suggested as trustee at the Strawn massmeeting of large property holders Wednesday, suggested yesterday that an outside corporation not interested in any way in tax anticipation warrants be made the corporate trustee. The Chicago Title and Trust company was selected yesterday and will probably be formally approved today. When the $50,000,000 is pledged the trust will be signed by Mr. Carr, Rufus C. Dawes, Mr. Myers, George O. Fairweather, and Mr. Strawn.

The city, county, school board, and drainage board will be asked exactly how much money they need at once. When that is done the subscribers to

TELLING POINTS AGAINST DRY ACT MADE BY SHAW

Following are telling points made by Ralph M. Shaw of Chicago in his statement at the house hearing on prohibition:

Every one knows that it (the dry law) is flagrantly violated all over the land.

There is no moral obloquy attached to the violations of this law. In private, people applaud its violation.

This is the only law that I know of where appropriations are deliberately permitted for the purpose of bribing people to violate it in order that the victims may be punished for its violations by the government which bribed them.

If you wanted to lessen the offense of gluttony, would you prohibit all food?

People simply won't tolerate it, and they despise and loathe the majority which has fastened it upon them. They will resort to almost any method to avoid it.

If any one wants to understand the increase of crime and the breaking down of law enforcement, there is no occasion for having investigating committees. All they have to do is to point to the eighteenth amendment. . . . It is directly responsible for the whole thing.

That law is bound to disappear in one way or another as sure as the tides of the ocean are bound to ebb and flow.

Hymns and Hugs Mingle in Brandon Suit

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—A log fire blazed cheerily in the Brandon apartment. Outside it was bitter cold, but inside there was music and shadows dancing on the hearth. A woman knelt on a tiny silken hassock beside an easy chair in which a stout, middle aged gentleman sat. She prayed to him as "an angel sent from heaven to comfort her."

That is Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon visualizing. Mrs. Brandon attributes "her moments of great achievement" to her ability to visualize. Today in Supreme court, on the fourth day of her suit for $574,165 for breach of promise and business fraud, she demonstrated to the satisfaction of a grinning jury her "concentrated power of visuality."

The "man from heaven" taking his ease in the easy chair was George J. Gillespie, president of the board of water supply, more recently described by Mrs. Brandon as a "synthetic saint." Under the guiding hand of Theodore Kiendl, Gillespie's attorney, Mrs. Brandon continued to visualize.

That Holy Evening.

"I had a dinner engagement that night, but I didn't keep it," testified the triangle woman. "I sat there by his side and he said to me: 'You will have to yield to me before I go.' Gillespie told me that, and I did.

"'I'm trusting my honor to you,' he said, 'and you will have to trust your honor to me.'

"He was as God to me. A holy man. 'I'll follow you to the end of the world,' I told him.' Then he took my hand and led me into another room."

"The next that I remember," said the creator of the triangle-bound crimson letter, "I was telling Gillespie good-by just before dawn."

Lawyer Kiendl and a lot of other people in the courtroom wanted the

RURAL WITNESS FINDS OUTLETS FOR CROPS GONE

Other Leaders Flay Volsteadism.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—"Farming in this country has been ruined, I think, by prohibition. It has taken away our barley, rye and corn markets and given us a wheat surplus. It has turned many farms into distilleries. We have suffered more than the cities."

Delivered with blunt simplicity by Pierce Blewett, a North Dakota farmer, this indictment of the 18th amendment fell with stunning effect upon the ears of the congressmen, many of them from dry rural districts, who compose the house judiciary committee, at today's hearing on pending wet legislation. Mr. Blewett was the next to last witness who appeared.

All day the committee had listened to brilliant and at times stirring anti-prohibition testimony presented by a new series of lawyers, educators, civic and industrial leaders from the great urban centers, among them Ralph M. Shaw, Chicago attorney; Benedict Crowell of Cleveland, former assistant secretary of war; W. L. Chenery, editor of Colliers; Frederick Coudert, New York attorney; Marion Eppley of Newport, R. I., scientist; Samuel Harden Church of Pittsburgh, president of Carnegie Institute, and former Senator George H. Williams of St. Louis. The committee heard one after another of these men condemn the dry law as a monstrous and tragic joke.

Makes Them Sit Up.

But to the dry committeeman, smug in the assurance of huge dry and largely rural majorities in congress, all this, as indicated by their questions, was merely more propaganda from the wet and wicked cities—until Farmer Blewett took the stand. The committee members shuffled in their seats and sat up as Representative J. Charles Linthicum [Dem., Md.], wet master of ceremonies, introduced Mr. Blewett as "a successful farmer," who had come to Washington at his own expense from Jamestown, N. D. They sat stiffer as he started to talk.

"After these eloquent speeches what I have to say may sound out of place," he began, "but I felt it my duty to come here and express the farm point of view on the prohibition question.

"The farmers, I believe, are coming to realize that this law is hurting them just like it is hurting all other classes in the country. They are beginning to understand that the lack of their old outlets for barley, rye, and corn, which formerly took up the slack and the overproduction of wheat, hits their pocketbooks. They know that productivity of their soil is poorer when the crops are diminished.

Wet Victory Predicted.

"North Dakota, for example, did not realize the ill effects of prohibition until the federal law went into effect. But at a referendum recently the drys had a majority of only 6,000, despite state-wide campaigning by the Anti-Saloon league. Next time the wets will win."

In the small towns of the rural districts, Mr. Blewett declared, the evils of prohibition have extended. Farmers distill great quantities of liquor and fruit wines for disposal at the nearest communities. A booze seller, he says, has worked on the streets of Jamestown for years, "and every preacher, housewife and officer of the law knows him."

As mayor of Jamestown, Blewett said, he tried to enforce prohibition, but his under cover agents drank up the evidence. He brought new ones from Chicago, and they did the same thing. So he gave it up.

Money Flows Over Border.

"Our North Dakota money is flowing over the border into Canada," he continued, "and none of that money ever comes back. Over the line the Canadians do a big booze business and good American money, much of it from the pockets of our farmers, pays the bill."

Mr. Blewett's testimony was brief and to the point. None of the dry committee members sought to question him, being content, apparently, to let the farm topic drop with no more discussion. He took his seat amid loud applause from the audience.

At the close of the session today the committee adjourned until next Wednesday, when the hearings will be resumed. Wednesday and Thursday of each week are being devoted to the hearings and this was the second week. Next Wednesday the wets will continue their testimony, with several more Chicago witnesses likely to testify if Representatives Adolph Sabath and James Igoe [Dem., Ill.] can round them up over the week-end. Several who were invited, including Chief of Police Russell and State's Attorney Swanson, have been unable to come.

Senate Quiz Likely.

While the house hearings held the spotlight today, new attention was focused upon the prospect of a much longer and more sweeping investigation of prohibition enforcement by a senate committee, when Chairman George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] of the senate judiciary committee, predicted adoption of his resolution calling for such an inquiry. The Norris resolution, a substitute for the Wheeler resolution, pending in the committee, would provide for a probe into all phases of alleged prohibition corruption and crime.

Senator Norris stated that he is confident that, even though his committee rejects his resolution, he believes there will be enough votes to put it over on the senate floor.

Norris announced further that during the last few days he has accumulated a mass of evidence on prohibition conditions, "sufficient to blow off the lid." He indicated that this evidence may be given a preliminary hearing when the committee meets next Monday.

Shaw Flays Dry Law.

Attorney Shaw of Chicago was the second witness to appear before the house committee at its session this morning. Mr. Shaw, a member of the law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, is a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. He is the only Chicagoan who has so far testified.

Shaw held the strictest attention as he delivered his arguments in a forceful voice. He was immediately subjected to cross-examination as he finished by Representative C. G. Bachman [Rep., W. Va.] and Richard Yates [Rep., Ill.], both drys.

"You have a prohibition law in Illinois, don't you?" demanded Bachman. "Why don't you repeal it?"

"Why doesn't congress repeal its dry laws?" retorted Shaw, adding that Illinois had voted wet at a referendum.

"Isn't it true that many voters refrained from voting at the last referendum?" Yates asked him.

Claim Made By Losers.

Shaw replied that "such was the claim of the losers."

"Regardless of votes, is there not universal disregard for the prohibition law in your state?"

"Certainly—just as there is everywhere," Shaw answered. "It's universal."

Representative Earl C. Michener [Rep., Mich.], seeking to show Shaw always to have been a wet, asked him if he "always has been fundamentally opposed to prohibition."

The attorney's reply was that he "always has been opposed to enforcing temperance by law."

Dr. Church of Pittsburgh proved a feature witness because of his authorship of the recent proposal for formation of a new liberal party to combat the "anti" organizations. He bitterly arraigned the reform groups, of which, he said, "prohibition is the favorite child, but in the brood are dancing, betting, love making in the movies, Sunday pleasure, and all the rest."

"The people are now convinced that the Democratic and Republican parties have now amalgamated into one prohibition party," he declared. "I propose a new party, dedicating itself to the divorcement of government from religion — a party which, in Washington's words, will raise a standard to which the brave and honest can repair."

Among other things Dr. Church said he would banish from Washington all political preachers.

"There are seventy million people in this country without church affiliations," he said. "They are forced to sit still and feel the chains of bigotry put on them by a small, hypocritical, minority of preachers—egotistical bigots, who leave their cheerless pulpits and come to Washington to help enact laws to shackle the morals of their fellow men.

Would "Denounce" Jesus.

"Why, if Jesus were to return today and restate his views, he would at once be apprehended by prohibition spies, denounced by the Anti-Saloon league, condemned by the W. C. T. U., accused by the Methodist board, prosecuted by the Lord's Day alliance, and convicted by the attorney general."

Former Senator Williams and Attorney Coudert argued against the 18th amendment from the legal and constitutional point of view, both declaring that it is repugnant to free Americans, in violation of the traditions of a liberty loving people and entirely unenforced and unenforceable. They delved into history for examples of similar laws which always have been overthrown by the people.

Mr. Chenery explained that Collier's, the magazine which he edits, originally campaigned against saloons and was sympathetic to prohibition. But after sending trained investigators into various dry states from which they made "perfectly appalling" reports, he said, the magazine took up the cause of repeal. Everywhere, he explained, the investigators found "alcohol abundant and alcoholic hospitality hard to avoid."

"Everybody Drinking Poison."

Worse than that, he added, "everybody now is drinking poison."

Similar testimony came from Mr. Crowell of Cleveland who quoted statistics showing an "astounding increase in the number of arrests for intoxication in that city since prohibition." The people of Cleveland are so aroused, he said, that they will be satisfied with nothing less than a flat repeal of the 18th amendment.

"In 1920," he said, "the people of Cleveland were for law enforcements. The press was dry. Today the people are overwhelmingly wet and the press is wet. They are disgusted with the steady increase in drinking and especially the debauchery of our young people."

Speaking as a scientist, Dr. Epply declared that the people of his state, Rhode Island, are drinking now "the poorest forms of drink that the world has ever devised." He said physician friends had informed him that deaths from chronic disease, such as cirrhosis of the liver, have mounted due to the use of bad gin.

Ralph M. Shaw Tells Why Dry Law Never Can Be Enforced in United States

I am here at the request of the chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Every one knows that it is flagrantly violated all over the land, in every city, village, and hamlet by people of all ranks and classes in society.

There is no moral obloquy attached to the violations of this law. In private people applaud its violation, sneer at it with derision, boast of their ability to violate it whenever they want to, regard it with contempt, and talk about the law as a mere illustration of the hypocrisy of the American people, who seem to care only for appearances and not for the truth.

It is a monstrous law. This is the only law that I know of where appropriations are deliberately permitted for the purpose of bribing people to violate it in order that the victims may be punished for its violations by the government which bribed them.

What would be said of law where the officers charged with its enforcement deliberately winked at appropriations or expenditures made for the purpose of seducing young women to the end that after such women had yielded to temptation they might be punished for their immorality?

Why Prohibit All Drinks?

If you wanted to lessen the offense of gluttony, would you prohibit all food? If you wished to diminish rape, would you emasculate all men? Why, merely because you wish to diminish intemperance, should you prohibit all beverages?

. . . I respectfully submit that it would be impossible to portray in language the contempt with which the ordinary American citizen who is not a fanatic, or who would not lose his job if the law were changed, has for the people, both voters and legislators, who continue to impose this law upon others and who in their own private lives never hesitate to violate it whenever they have a chance.

May Be a Few Exceptions.

There may be some exception, but I have met very few men who even claim to fall within the exception.

It cannot be denied that prior to the passage of the 18th amendment the cause of temperance was rapidly spreading. In those days young women resented the visits or the attentions of inebriated men, even his own fellows ostracized him if the offense was flagrant, but nowadays the taboo is gone. It is expected that at all social engagements, where two or three are gathered together, both the adults and the young of both sexes will have their flasks, and drinking to an excess is expected, not criticized.

Statements of this character, though broad in their generalizations, are so true that every one who seeks to discover the truth rather than to hypocritically delude and fool themselves know that they are true. If they do not, it is because they are unwilling to learn the truth.

Divide Society in Three Classes.

For the purposes of consideration of this question, I divide society into three classes:

A. The fanatics. Such people couldn't distinguish a logical fallacy or recognize a philosophical truth if they met one. They could not distinguish a dream from a fact.

B. The politicians and job hunters, who vote to further what they conceive to be their personal selfish interests irrespective of the fact that it breeds disaster for the country.

C. The large number of first class citizens of all ranks who want decent laws to obey; want to obey decent laws; pay their taxes, attend to their own business; do not meddle with the private business of others, and who love their country better than their pocketbooks or their bigotry.

It is to the first two classes that these remarks are addressed. The difficulty in discussing or giving evidence on this problem is that the subject is so big no one knows where to begin or where to stop.

I have said that it is known that the law has not been enforced; that it is not being enforced, and I am here to assert that no power on earth can ever possibly enforce it.

Unless a law has back of it a deep rooted custom of society, developed over long periods of time, it simply cannot be enforced. Philosophers know this to be true; students of society know it; every one who thinks knows it except those who are blinded by some personal selfish interest or have some fanatical complex which incapacitates them from thinking intelligently.

Now, those conditions obtain with respect to this law. True, the constitution of the United States was amended in accordance with the provisions incorporated therein for its technical amendment. Incidentally, it might be argued in passing that, in approving technical compliance with the requirements of the constitution for amendment, the Supreme court of the United States in the only decision made by that court on an important subject was unable to give any legal reason for its conclusion.

It would be equally true, if following constitutional forms, a constitutional amendment should be adopted to destroy the freedom of religion, and require all Protestants to become subscribers to the Catholic faith, or all Catholics to the Protestant faith. Such an amendment would then have been adopted in accordance with forms of law, but what chance would you have of enforcing it?

What Chance to Enforce Law.

Likewise, if constitutional amendments were adopted in accordance with the constitutional prescription abolishing the republic and establishing an absolute monarchy, what chance would you have of enforcing it without resort to arms?

As a matter of fact I have often asked why the almost insane insistance of those who support these infamous laws that the constitutional amendment is an absolute mandate compelling congress to enforce it.

Precisely the same language exists at the end of the 14th amendment and the 15th amendment, but I have seen no insistence upon some of the clerical supporters of this law who hail from the south that there is a mandate imposed upon congress to pass appropriate legislation necessary for the enforcement of these two amendments. If these gentlemen supported such legislation in their southern homes they would be hurled from the Tarpeian rock. They simply dare not do it. If not necessary for them, why for this?

Establish Rule of Conduct.

Now what did the 18th amendment do? It purported to establish a rule of conduct for the personal private life of the individual.

Now, a rule of conduct by which a group of individuals attempt to determine for another individual what he shall think, or what he shall eat, or what he shall drink, or the God to whom he shall pray, is pure despotism, unless it is backed up by such unanimous approval as makes its violator practically a social outcast. . . .

Such a law can no more be enforced than the commands of Caesar could be enforced when he ordered the early Christians to stop worshiping the god of the Jews.

People simply won't tolerate it, and they despise and loathe the majority which has fastened it upon them. They will resort to almost any method to avoid it. They will conceal information as to its violations and help those who are engaged in its violation in the success of their efforts.

Lose Enormous Revenue.

Now, the result of this law is manifested in what it is doing to the American people today. For the first time in the history of the civilized world organized violators of the law are being financed to the nth degree. Amazing as it may be, it is being financed by organized society.

The enormous revenues which were formerly paid to the government and the state in the shape of stamp and other taxes are now being paid to the underworld, who owe no allegiance to any state or any officials. They are super governors of our great cities. They control them. Organized society, resenting invasion of the liberty of the individual, is willing to pay any price to destroy the invasion, not so much because organized society wants what it pays for, but in order to show those who have trampled upon the spirit of liberty that they can't possibly succeed.

Debauch Judges, Legislators.

The result is that millions and millions of dollars are pouring into the coffers of the underworld, and making it so powerful financially that it is able to debauch prosecutors, judges, legislators, and all the instrumentalities of government.

If any one wants to understand the increase of crime and the breaking down of law enforcement, there is no occasion for having investigating committees. All they have to do is to point to the 18th amendment and the legislation passed in its support. It is directly responsible for the whole thing.

That the law is bound to disappear in one way or another is as sure as that the tides of the ocean are bound to ebb and flow. The great occasion for anxiety is, how shall it disappear? Shall it disappear because organized criminals, under the protection of its fostering care, have destroyed society, or will society be sane enough to free itself from the hypocrisy and bigotry of those who are incapable of intelligent thinking, in time to save itself from the breakdown that will otherwise inevitably occur?

GIRL OF 14 IS LEFT ESTATE OF OVER 4 MILLION

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—A fourteen year old girl was left over $4,000,000 of the $4,590,028 estate of Lysander W. Lawrence, wealthy stationer, it was learned today when a transfer tax appraisal of the Lawrence estate was filed in Kings county. She is Elois Staats, daughter of Mrs. Rowena Lawrence Roberts. Lawrence adopted Mrs. Roberts in 1898, when she was orphaned. Mrs. Roberts also shares in the estate during her lifetime.

EDITOR DARES GOV. GREEN TO FACE LIGGETT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—G. D. Eaton, editor of Plain Talk magazine, made public tonight a communication he has forwarded to the house judiciary committee repeating charges made before that group against Gov. Fred W. Green of Michigan and four Circuit court judges of Detroit.

The charges were made by W. W. Liggett, a writer for the magazine, and related to the alleged absence of the officials at a party at which Liggett said liquor was served. Gov. Green has denied the charges.

The editor said he was ready to go before the committee, or to recall Liggett to testify again concerning the charges, explaining they were present to swear to the details about the party "and apparently Gov. Green is not prepared to offer defense in the same manner."

...RRY W. CHASE ...ADE PRESIDENT ...F U. OF ILLINOIS

...rolina Educator Will Succeed Kinley.

...Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, president of the University of North Carolina, was elected president of the University of Illinois yesterday by the university board of trustees, meeting in Urbana. At the same time Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina announced that Dr. Chase had resigned his post there to accept the position at Illinois, as the successor of Dr. Harry Kinley, president of the university for the last ten years.

The selection of Dr. Chase was made from a list of more than 100 prominent educators who had been considered by a trustees' committee, headed by George A. Barr of Joliet, and committees of the faculty and the alumni of the University of Illinois. The three committees have been seeking an outside man for the presidency since early June when Dr. Kinley announced that he would retire, having reached the age limit of 65 years.

To Take Office in Summer.

Dr. Chase will assume his duties as soon as he can be relieved of his work at Chapel Hill, the seat of the University of North Carolina. This will probably be late in the summer, before the opening of the fall semester, it was said.

The new president, who will be 47 years old in April, has had a distinguished career as an outstanding college president in the south, because of his seven years' work at North Carolina. He is a native of Groveland, Mass. He received his A. B. and A. M. degrees at Dartmouth college and his doctor's degree in 1910 at Clark university, where he spent his last year of graduate work as director of the clinic for abnormal children.

Following his graduation, he went to North Carolina as professor of philosophy of education and has been associated with that university ever since. He served as acting dean of the college of liberal arts for a short time and as chairman of the faculty until his election to the presidency in 1919.

Directs Large Building Program.

It has been during his administration as president that the University of North Carolina has had its greatest material growth. The registration has risen from 1,000 to more than 3,000 students and a building program, including an expenditure of more than $4,000,000, has been carried out. The annual appropriations for maintenance of the university have increased more than 400 per cent during that time.

Dr. Chase has emphasized that the university of today has a greater mission than teaching, pointing out that research and direct service to the people of the state, through extension work, are equally important. In the south he has been regarded as a crusader for intellectual freedom, holding that it is more important to teach students how to think than what to think. He was largely instrumental in the defeat of the first anti-evolution bill in the North Carolina legislature in 1925.

While an advocate of freedom of thought and discussion, he has opposed what he terms "intellectual dilettantism."

His Wife a Midwesterner.

Dr. Chase is married and has one daughter, Elizabeth, 15 years old. His wife was formerly Miss Lucetta Crum of Logansport, Ind., and for a time lived at Macomb and Sycamore, Ill., where her father, the Rev. George Crum, held pastorates.

Dr. Chase was president of the National Association of State Universities last year and has been secretary-treasurer of the association since 1922. He is a member of the American Psychological association, the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology, and the National Society of College Teachers of Education. He is a trustee of the general education board of New York and of the Rosenwald fund of Chicago.

Dr. Kinley, whom he will succeed, has been connected with the University of Illinois since 1893, when he went there from the University of Wisconsin as professor of economics. He was dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences, director of the courses in commerce and later dean of the graduate school, serving as vice president of the university from 1914 to 1919.

...AIL MAN, GIRL; ...E ADMITS 50 OIL ...TATION HOLDUPS

...With the arrest last night of Francis Hoffman, 26 years old, of the Dartmoor hotel, 4700 North Racine avenue, and his accomplice, Lois Cohen, 17 years old, 3115 Sunnyside avenue, Summerdale police solved more than 50 recent oil station robberies which believed they had a clew to the identity of the "strip" bandits who have been robbing taxicab drivers of their revenues.

Hoffman, a railroad barber, was arrested at the hotel by Sergt. Adolph Ruhe and Policemen J. Steffen and Thomas Carmody and confessed that he had specialized in robbing oil stations and that the Cohen girl had been his accomplice since Jan. 1. The police arrested the girl a few minutes later at her home. Hoffman said he and the girl always had hired a taxi to carry them around in search of oil stations to rob.

He gave the police the names of another man and a girl with whom he sometimes worked and they were being sought last night in the belief that they were the "strip" bandits.

ADMITS KILLING 9 MEN TO SEE POISONS WORK

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—James Baker, 25 years old, was arrested here early today and is being held for New York City officers as a fugitive from justice.

Today he admitted the killing of nine men in various parts of the world because of a desire to observe the workings of certain poisons. He is wanted in New York for the killing on Dec. 28, 1928, of Harry S. Gaw, night watchman of the Guggenheim laboratory. He is a former employé of the laboratory.

Baker gave a detailed account of the slaying of Gaw and of a holdup of two truck drivers on the same night, that corresponds to the New York police records of the crime. Detroit police said that if it were not for this corroboration they would be inclined to doubt his story.

"A Funny Sort of Satisfaction."

The young man was calm, almost boastful, as he told how he poisoned a ship's crew while bound for Venezuela and killed other men in Texas, India and the Philippine islands.

"I was always interested in poisons and usually carried some around with me," he related. "In 1924 I was in Houston, Tex. I happened into a sailor's restaurant and sat down beside a man. He had a cup of coffee in front of him. While he was looking away I had a sudden impulse to put some poison in the coffee. He died almost at once."

"After that I used to get impulses to poison people; no one in particular, but just any one who happened to be near me. I don't know why I did it, except that I liked to watch the effects of different kinds of poison. It gave me a funny sort of satisfaction.

"I poisoned a man in Hamburg, Germany, in the spring of 1926, and a Hindu in Bombay in 1927.

"Shortly after that I sailed from Bayonne, N. J., for Venezuela on an oil boat called the Gulfport. I put some poison in the coffee one day and the whole crew got sick. Three of them died.

"In the spring of 1928 I was in Iloilo, in the Phillipine Islands. I poisoned a man in a restaurant there.

Disappointed at Laboratory.

"Later in 1928 I got a job as assistant chemist at the Guggenheim laboratory in New York. I expected to get a chance to go to South America for the company. I didn't, so I quit in November.

"I went to the laboratory after midnight on Dec. 27. There was a new watchman there, but he let me in. He was drinking some coffee, and I put some poison in it when he wasn't looking. He drank it. I stayed there until he was dead.

"When I started to leave two truck drivers came to the laboratory. I recognized them and let them in. Then I held them up and tied them. I was going to kill them, but one said he had a wife and some small children, so I took their money and left. I caught a subway for Jersey City. In the spring I came to Detroit and got the job on the farm.

"In 1923 I killed Cyril Parks, a Warren, O., farmer. He beat me and I shot him."

When Baker was arrested he had a .38 caliber, nickel plated revolver with nine notches cut in the handle.

Ohio Death Not Recorded.

Warren, O., Feb. 20.—(AP)—County Coroner J. C. Henshaw said today he found no record in his files of the death of any man in this vicinity by the name of Cyril Parks, who James Baker has confessed killing.

Houston Murder Not Listed.

Houston, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Police here said today they were unable to find any record of the death of a man named Honeycut, whom James Baker, under arrest in Detroit, confessed having poisoned in a seamen's restaurant in 1924.

BYFIELD STILL IN COMA; CONDITION IS "UNCHANGED"

The condition of Eugene Byfield, vice president of the Hotel Sherman company who suffered a brain concussion in a fall from his polo pony at the Chicago Riding club on Tuesday evening, was reported as unchanged last night at the Passavant Memorial hospital. At midnight Mr. Byfield had been unconscious for 54 hours.

"Mr. Byfield spent a bad day and we are worried," said the patient's cousin, Dr. Arthur Byfield. "He had difficulty with his breathing, a condition usually attending long spells of coma. Toward evening his breathing became easier. There are cases on record where a patient has survived five or six days of coma, hence there is no cause for immediate alarm."

Dr. Loyal Davis, brain specialist of the Passavant hospital staff, is associated with Dr. Byfield on the case.

SPRING WEATHER SPREADS WARMTH OVER ENTIRE U. S.

That pleasant affliction—spring fever—was evident everywhere in Chicago yesterday as the temperature climbed from a balmy minimum of 49 degrees at 8 a. m. to an April altitude of 63 degrees, a maximum maintained from 1 p. m., to 5 o'clock last evening.

With nightfall there was only a scant decline from the mark which exceeded all records for warmth on Feb. 20. The previous high reading was observed on Feb. 20, 1907, when a maximum of 54 degrees was attained.

The weather man, J. R. Lloyd, issued a pleasant prediction for continued mild weather today, albeit a little unsettled, with rain probable tonight. Tomorrow, he said, the southwest wind, which has wafted all this vernal weather to the central states, might shift to a chillier quarter and the thermometer might shrink within range of the 27 degrees, which is normal for this season.

An outline of the evidence against Congressman Stanley H. Kunz and his son, Stanley H. Jr., who are charged with obtaining money under false pretenses and with operating a confidence game, brought the name of Edward Denemark, civil service commissioner, into the trial yesterday. After a hearing in chambers, Judge Harry M. Fisher postponed the trial until Monday so that the jurors would not be locked up over Saturday and Sunday.

The congressman, in formal morning attire, and his son, who has held public positions for twenty years, pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday morning. The indictment accused them of obtaining $400 from Walter Trochowski on their promise to get him on the police force.

Offers to Let Judge Decide.

Attorney Eugene L. McGarry asked the state to waive the felony charge and said he would then submit the case to Judge Fisher rather than to a jury. Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin refused to do this, but dismissed the conspiracy charge against the defendants, leaving them to face counts in the indictment on which they can be sent to the penitentiary, if convicted, for from one to fourteen years.

The lawyers went into Judge Fisher's chambers to argue and it was there that Lavin revealed his evidence.

"Congressman Kunz and his son promised to get Trochowski a job on the police force for $400," Lavin said. "They told Trochowski they would have to give the money to Edward Denemark, who would see to it that Trochowski passed the examination. They called Denemark on the telephone in his presence.

Money Is Returned.

"Later when Trochowski didn't pass the examination and demanded his money back, Congressman Kunz said the money was given to Denemark and that they would go with Trochowski to get the money back. They went to Denemark's office and later to a hotel but didn't find Denemark. Later the money was returned to Trochowski, who was requested to sign a document indicating that the $400 was a loan."

JACK GILBERT AND JIM TULLY BURY HATCHET

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Jack Gilbert, actor, and Jim Tully, author, who waged a fist fight in Wilson Mizner's café ten day ago, were reconciled by mutual friends who got the pair together in Herman Mankiewicz's apartment last night.

"A silly business," Gilbert said of the row in which Gilbert was floored by Tully.

"I'm sorry if something I wrote about you had the effect of starting it all," Tully countered.

COURT FREES SIX GUN CAPTIVES OF SWANSON POLICE

City Force Sends Gunman to Bridewell Cell.

BULLETIN.

The police in the sixteen hours from 8 a. m. yesterday to midnight arrested 790 persons in their campaign against hoodlums. Evidence that the criminals are disarming was seen in the fact that only one of the suspects was carrying a pistol. Of the 790 held, 53 had criminal records. Nine robberies were reported in Chicago during the day.

Six prisoners and five pistols were presented in the South State street court yesterday by State's Attorney Swanson's police, who started out Wednesday night to back up the prosecutor's assertion that the regular police were arresting only the small fry and not the real criminals. But when the state's attorney's raiders had offered their evidence the six prisoners walked out free and grinning.

Swanson's police told the court they had arrested the men at 4958 South Hermitage avenue, a place which, they said, was a hangout for Joe Saltis and his gang. They had found the pistols at the same place, they testified. The prisoners, however, said they were unacquainted with the pistols. Then the prosecutor's detectives said they hadn't looked for finger prints and could not prove that the prisoners owned the guns or had them "within easy reach."

Six Prisoners Are Freed.

Therefore J. C. Kluczynski, owner of the raided place, which he called a soft drink parlor; Felix Prybysky, bartender; Stanley Novinski, John Shea, Louis Konifield, and Charles Jakviski were duly discharged by the court. Swanson's detectives said these arrests and a brush with a gang who shot at them from an automobile constituted their night's work.

The police were getting different results. George E. Mootz, 21 years old, one of the first to be arrested and indicted in the campaign against gunmen, was sentenced to nine months in the Bridewell when Judge Harry B. Miller found him guilty of carying a concealed weapon. Mootz was carrying a loaded revolver and a sharpened table knife. He said he had not worked since two weeks before Christmas.

Two Held Under $160,000 Bond.

Judge Francis Borrelli of the Felony court fixed bonds of $80,000 each for Fred Stone, 3714 Lake Park avenue, and James McAuliffe, 3800 Lake Park avenue, when he held them to the grand jury on robbery charges.

Frank Foster, gunman and lieutenant of Bugs Moran, was arrested at Randolph and La Salle streets. He said he had just returned from Florida, thinking the drive against his kind had ended.

Deportation proceedings were started against Joseph Puccello, 44 years old, 944 West Harrison street, who was arrested on Tuesday when found carrying a revolver. He has been in this country twenty years without becoming naturalized and has served one prison sentence, the authorities said.

Swanson Issues Egan Denial.

State's Attorney Swanson, angered at the statement of Chief of Detectives Egan that he, Egan, was doing his part in arresting criminals and it was not his fault if Swanson couldn't convict them, had his secretary call Egan on the telephone and he later made the announcement that Egan denied having criticised Swanson.

Police Commissioner Russell gave out a statement showing that a considerable portion of Chicago's crime is committed by hoodlums from other cities passing through this city. He cited several cases to prove his contention and he directed that in the future a complete history be taken from all persons arrested.

This is in anticipation of the wants of the Chicago Association of Commerce, the executive committee of which will meet today to discuss plans for crime suppression and the restoration of Chicago's good name. Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the association, said the so-called secret committee of six will report today on what it believes should be undertaken by the association.

Committee Assured of Funds.

"Any advance statements on what the committee will report are only guesses," Col. Randolph said. "The report has not been written. Undoubtedly the committee will continue its functions and if the report is approved we are assured of unlimited funds to carry out any program recommended."

Col. Randolph said the business men would not undertake to aid in the enforcement of prohibition and they were not opposing union labor. He intimated, however, that they are determined to end racketeering and he talked of getting "evidence" as contrasted with suspicion or belief, and presenting the evidence to the state's attorney.

In answer to a complaint from Commissioner Russell that business men never tell what they know about bombings or shakedowns, Col. Randolph said: "There must be somebody who knows and can tell." Talk of a general espionage system to be fostered by the association brought only a smile from Col. Randolph.

Engineer Cites 300% Increase in Loop Traffic as Bridge Issue

Pointing to the "apparent injustice" of the present bridge closed hours which have been decreased rather than lengthened during the last seventeen years, City Traffic Engineer Leslie J. Sorenson yesterday addressed a long communication to Attorney Benjamin F. Goldstein, special assistant corporation counsel, appointed to advise the city council bridge committee.

"It seems intolerable that a decrease from five to four and one-half closed hours, as shown by Mr. Sorenson's report, should be sanctioned in opposition to the demands," said Mr. Goldstein, "and when you consider that river traffic has decreased over the period, the decrease is inconceivable." Loop traffic has increased 300 per cent in 17 years, exclusive of buses.

Property Owners Protest.

Simultaneous with the Sorenson communication, Mr. Goldstein received another protest from President Karl Eitel of the Bismarck Hotel company, who spoke in behalf of the La Salle Street Property Owners' association. He referred to the disastrous stoppage of traffic by promiscuous bridge openings and said that the navigation interests are making no more use of the Chicago river now than they did fifty years ago.

Mr. Sorenson gathered comparative traffic figures over the period from July, 1915, to May, 1929, and discovered these facts:

1. A volume check of street traffic on July 24, 1915, over the old Rush street bridge showed a total of 11,194 vehicles between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. This figure is considered high due to the sinking of the steamer Eastland that morning.

2. A typical business day in May, 1929, found 46,957 vehicles, exclusive of passenger buses, passing over the Michigan bridge under the same period, or an increase of more than 300 per cent.

Compare Closed Hours.

3. The closed hours in July, 1915, were from 6:30 to 9 a. m. and from 4 to 6:30 p. m., a total of five hours.

4. In 1929, and at the present time, the closed hours are from 7 to 9:30 a. m. and from 4:30 to 6:30 p. m., a total of only four and one-half hours.

5. Judged from the recorded number of bridge openings during 1915 as compared with the number in 1929, it appears that the water traffic in 1929 did not exceed that in 1915. In fact, figures show that in May, 1916, the openings were somewhat greater than in May, 1929.

Traffic Must Move.

In his protest to Mr. Goldstein, Mr. Eitel cited the $20,000,000 cost of Wacker drive, the benefits of which cannot be fully realized, he said, unless the arteries leading to it are widened, thus creating a free flow of traffic from these streets onto the drive and beyond.

"It is hard to conceive how anybody can justify an expenditure of these many millions to remedy conditions during the business day from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. when there is control of traffic over the bridges only at certain hours. The balance of the time there is neither a free flow of traffic nor is there any control over the delays which are accomplished by the river traffic."

POLICE WITHOUT NEW CLEW IN STATION KILLING

Irving Park police last night had little hope for an early solution of the murder on Monday evening of Mrs. Agnes Lavander, 5451 Ludlam avenue, a young housewife, who was shot to death in a struggle near the Forest Glen station.

John Newman, a tramp, who has not given an account of his movements last Monday night is being held as a suspect at Ottawa, but police have no evidence against him. Deputy Commissioner James L. Mooney launched a search for a brawny unkempt man, who was seen loitering about the station shortly before Mrs. Lavander arrived.

SWANSON'S TRAP FOR 'BOMB TRUST' BARED AT TRIAL

Butcher-Sleuth Tells of Buying Explosive.

Joseph E. Altmeier, bankrupt butcher, was given a $250 a month job as an under cover investigator for the state's attorney's office when he revealed that he had been approached on the subject of entering into a deal whereby the butcher shop of Mike Caselli, 9300 Commercial avenue, would be placed in his name and then set on fire or destroyed by a bomb.

It was in this manner that the workings of what State's Attorney Swanson last summer heralded as "the bombing trust," were revealed, the testimony of Altmeier given yesterday in Judge William N. Gemmill's criminal court showed. The defendants on trial, so Altmeier's testimony would indicate, are three men in butcher business rather than professional bombers.

Sleuth a Bankrupt Butcher.

The men on trial are Gus Fiocca, a butcher jobber, Caselli, a butcher shop owner, and Steve Ficke, a butcher's assistant. Altmeier himself was a butcher until he went bankrupt in January, 1928, leaving his creditors to try and collect $60,000.

The evidence given by Altmeier yesterday was that in 1919 he had a bomb at his store, in 1928 a fire for which he collected $15,000 insurance and later in the same year he became a bankrupt.

Goes to State's Attorney.

Last year Fiocca, who had previously sold his meat, said that his friend Caselli was in trouble and had to get money. It was proposed that Altmerier allow the butcher shop to be placed in his name, insured, and then destroyed by fire or bomb.

The bombing talk interested him, Altmeier said, and he rushed to the state's attorney's office and told Swason about it. He was promptly placed on the pay roll as an "undercover man" and instructed to buy some bombs. After considerable negotiating and persuasion Altmeier said he finally succeeded in getting Caselli to agree to get a bomb for him.

Altmeier said he told Caselli that he had a friend who had "done him wrong" and he wanted to get even. The bomb was delivered for $225 on July 1, 1929. More bombs were wanted by Swanson, Altmeier testified, and he negotiated for three more weeks, and finally on July 30, 1929, he purchased four of them for $150 cash and a check for $240. It was while the delivery was being made that police stepped in.

ARIZONA WOMAN SLAYER CALM IN SHADOW OF ROPE

Hangs Today; Counsel in Last Fight.

Florence, Ariz., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Eva Dugan, 52 year old housekeeper convicted of murder, was resigned late today to death by hanging at sunrise tomorrow, while her attorneys precipitated a legal dispute by a last appeal to the state Supreme court from the verdict of a Superior court jury which yesterday found her sane. Mrs. Dugan is the first woman in the history of Arizona to be sentenced to death.

Attorneys asserted the appeal automatically stayed execution, but the state's attorney general ruled the Supreme court was powerless to stay the execution. No comment was offered by any other official. Preparations for the hanging at the state prison here were complete.

Woman Is Calm.

Mrs. Dugan, whose petition for clemency was denied last week by the state board of pardons and paroles, showed no perturbation.

"There will be none of this last minute religion with me," she said. "I am going to die as I lived. I have had two years to prepare for this. I am ready." She was cheerful and apparently very calm. Throughout her trial and since, she has denied she killed A. J. Mathis, aged Tucson rancher who employed her as housekeeper. She was charged with slaying him in January, 1927, to gain his property.

Mathis' body was not found until a year after the slaying. Meanwhile, Mrs. Dugan drove Mathis' automobile to White Plains, N. Y., where she was arrested on a charge of automobile theft. After the body was recovered, she was charged with murder.

Blames Missing Man.

At her trial she testified a 19 year old youth known only to her as Jack committed the actual slaying and that she ran away with Jack, who never has been located by authorities.

Mrs. Dugan said she had asked her father, William McDaniels of Ceres, Cal., to send her $50 that she might purchase a better casket than the state furnishes. The money had not arrived today. She already has made herself a shroud of silk, decorated with clusters of beads and a bunch of artificial flowers.

The governor, under Arizona law, cannot grant the woman either a reprieve or a commutation to life imprisonment.

FIND BANKER USED MAYWOOD PAPER TO COVER FRAUDS

Bond Issue, Mortgage, and Checks Discovered.

Operating a newspaper was a simple matter for Elmer P. Langguth, who was president of the Peoples State Bank of Maywood until his indictment for embezzlement, forgery, conspiracy, and other charges, Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller learned yesterday.

The Suburban Publishing company, of which Langguth was editor-in-chief and chief promoter, was found to be $38,000 overdrawn in its account with Langguth's bank, which closed when the bank examiners found a shortage of $173,000.

Purchased as Political Organ.

The publishing company was purchased by Langguth, who was tax collector of the township for seven years, as a political organ. It had been owned by two girls, who called it the New Era Publishing company, and they went to A. C. Flothow when they were in financial difficulties, Mueller said.

Flothow discussed the possibility of a loan with Banker Langguth, who thought the newspaper would be a good business venture as well as a means of advancement in politics. Langguth at that time had begun his romance with Miss Lavergne Lindgren, cashier of the bank, according to Mueller, and he also wanted to suppress any unfavorable publicity about the girl and himself.

Langguth and Flothow bought the paper, each putting up $1,000, and the bank floating a $35,000 bond issue. Flothow finally sold his interest to E. C. Luedke for $6,500, which Luedke borrowed from Langguth's bank without security.

Drew Money on Paper's Checks.

Then, Mueller explained, Langguth and Miss Lindgren commenced taking money from the bank on checks drawn on the newspaper. They also obtained $20,000 on a mortgage given by the newspaper, with false signatures, and the mortgage was destroyed after the money had been paid to Langguth, the prosecutor said.

Now, with the $35,000 bond issue, the $38,000 overdraft, and the $20,000 mortgage, the publishing company is worth but $36,000, Mueller found. He expects further indictments against Langguth and Miss Lindgren and he announced that Luedke would be questioned.

SLAIN BY FELLOW WORKER.

An unidentified Mexican, about 29 years old, was shot to death last night by Bernabe Medina, 28, in a quarrel in the Proviso yards of the Chicago and North Western railroad, where they were employed as laborers. Medina fled.

Sealed Verdict as Boy, 6, Sues Kin for Auto Injury

A jury in Circuit Judge Stanley Klarkowski's court last night returned a sealed verdict in the $10,000 suit of Harold Strauss, 6 years old, 3226 Cortez street, against his uncle, Max Marcus of Harvey, Ill. The boy was riding in his uncle's automobile in June, 1927, when an accident occurred which hurled the boy through the windshield, cutting his face severely. The verdict will be opened this morning.

BANKS SET GOAL AT $74,000,000 IN RELIEF DRIVE

Employes May Be Paid on Tuesday.

the trust will be asked to contribute their proportionate share.

Must Have Legal O. K.

The four governments will then offer their tax anticipation warrants. All of these accepted by the taxpayers' trust must have been passed upon by Chapman & Cutler or other recognized bond attorneys. While the others have such an opinion, the city —as usual—lags behind. It was out scouting for an opinion yesterday afternoon.

Although the Strawn committee is working days and evenings it will still take some time to get the cash in hand. Those who pay will desire a participation certificate when they hand over the cash. Two bankers said yesterday that because of the amount of physical work connected with the project it will be an unusual rush job if pay day for public employés arrived Tuesday.

Governor Offers Aid.

The statement of Gov. Emmerson in Springfield on the Chicago financial troubles and the proposed remedial session of the legislature created considerable confidence in the taxpayers' trust. After pointing out that a special session of the assembly before the primaries is impracticable the governor said:

"The administration is now ready to assume leadership in the effort to solve this important question, even to the point of calling a special session of the general assembly, if it appears that an adequate and equitable program of legislation can be agreed upon."

That was considered highly important by the large taxpayers requested to participate in the purchase of tax warrants. It will be recalled that the first two requests for legislation presented at the Strawn committee meeting Wednesday were the "validation of any tax anticipation warrants, the legality of which may be questioned," and the adoption of a plan "to make general obligations of the issuing municipalities, the deficiency caused by failure to collect taxes for 1928 and 1929 equal to the face of the tax warrants and interest thereon issued against said taxes."

Banks Become Optimistic.

The governor's statement indicated not only a friendly but a helpful attitude, according to members of the Strawn committee. It was after the governor's statement as issued that the loop bankers made their proposal intended to spur the raising of $74,000,000.

The following table shows how that sum would be distributed, according to the requests of the local governments, together with the estimated total of each pay roll to July 1:

Government—	Total requests.	Payroll desires.
Public schools	$36,560,000	$26,325,000
City	26,531,189	19,300,235
Sanitary district	9,608,812	1,345,000
Cook county	9,851,670	5,950,000
Total	$74,051,671	$52,929,235

Spoils System in Politics Seen Cause of City's Present Crisis

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

"There is light ahead for Chicago. I can see at least two and a half years of prosperity on the way now. But Chicago will never get where it should get so long as we have the spoils system of municipal government. The people are in a mood to try anything new."

This analysis of Chicago's present mood and outlook was given yesterday by Carl P. Morgan, president of The Wicks store at 73d street and Cottage Grove avenue, president of the Calumet Security Industrial Finance company, and of the Beach View club, which has 2,000 members.

South Woodlawn, which centers along Cottage Grove avenue here, serves a population of about 30,000. It has its own business men's association and also a commercial club. It is growing fast, feels the need of better streets, subways and other municipal improvements, but does not see much hope of getting them under the present system.

Feels Community Neglected.

"We feel that communities such as ours are overlooked except at election time," said Mr. Morgan, who is young and redheaded and used to run a string of newspapers.

"If I were mayor, and I have no such ambition, I would make it a point to get out into each community once a month. And I would have my chief of police and head of the public works department do the same thing. Look at our streets now. They are full of chuckholes, a disgrace. We cannot get anything done because our alderman is at outs with the administration. I don't think any mayor has been out here in years, except at election time.

Borough System Favored.

"So far as local improvements are concerned, we should have some sort of decentralized government. Chicago is getting so big that it is a collection of cities, or boroughs. Perhaps some kind of a borough system of government would be best, with a proper division of taxes and a disinterested man in charge of each division.

"We must get away from politics. The spoils system of government has outlived its usefulness. You know that a man who is controlled by an unseen hand cannot be on the square. There is talk of a new high school out here. The citizens here know where it should be, but the city hall cannot see it, probably for some political reason.

"There is a great deal of talk around here in favor of the city manager form of government. The people are in such a condition of disgust with the political method that they are ready to try anything for a change.

Why Not Be Businesslike?"

"Why not run the business of the city, the biggest business we have, as any other business is run? Why turn it over to inexperienced and incompetent men?

"The loop assessments are probably too low, but we are not worried about the loop. The growth of the loop and the growth of the outlying communities are an aid to each other. This idea of being afraid of competition is all bunk. We need it. What we need most is a subway out here, so people will come here to live.

"Conditions are bad, but I see a ray of light. The tax situation has affected business greatly. People have been under wraps in their spending. Some have been drawing on their savings to buy groceries and meat. Others have had to take the money they had saved for taxes to spend in living.

World's Fair to Help.

"The steel mills of South Chicago are now running at 90 per cent. Other industries here are expanding and new industry is coming in. The certainty of the World's Fair will bring a boom to real estate and building. Many building laborers have been out of work for three months.

"We are over the peak of our troubles now and I see ahead two and a half years of prosperity for Chicago, the best we have ever had. I am not afraid of the slump after.

"The tax muddle has crystallized opinion in many ways and has brought to a head the general disgust with political government. We must get rid of the spoils system. A good capable executive will not even seek the job now."

U. S. COURT GIVES STATE ACCESS TO U. S. A. CO. BOOKS

Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday issued an order giving the state's attorney's office and the state grand jury access to the books and records of the U. S. A. company, electrical contractors. First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup has charged in a petition that the company maintained a $1,000,000 fund for the bribery of public officials.

Attorneys for the company objected to the federal court order the same as they fought the issuance by Acting Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court of a subpœna duces tecum asking the federal court to modify the impounding order by which the government holds the records pending the trial of income tax indictments against George L. Chamberlain, president of the company, and Fred Rhoades, treasurer.

The attorneys finally asked Judge Wilkerson to limit his modifying order so that the records would not fall into the state's attorney's hands, but would go direct to the grand jury and back again to the custody of the federal court clerk. The judge refused this request.

BLOOMINGTON WANTS PRISONER.

Police at Bloomington, Ill., notified Chicago authorities yesterday that Mack Means, 22 years old, a resident of the Y. M. C. A. hotel, under arrest here on a charge of passing a worthless check, is wanted on a similar charge at Bloomington.

REPORT SCHOOL BOARD DIVIDED BY CASH CRISIS

Caldwell Is Going West; Hint at Resignation.

Reports that H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, will not aspire to reelection to the presidency in May were being discussed in school circles yesterday. The news followed Mr. Caldwell's failure to obtain the support of certain other board members during his recent unsuccessful effort to sell $48,725,000 worth of school tax anticipation warrants in New York.

One prediction was that the 33 year old president may resign his post before the May election. Mr. Caldwell announced yesterday that he plans to join his family in California as soon as possible. He is not well and wants a long rest, he said. It was reported that Mr. Caldwell was so anxious to leave immediately that it was with difficulty that he was prevailed upon to remain in the city long enough to attach his signature to papers necessary to the sale of tax anticipation warrants under the Strawn plan.

A Thompson Appointee.

Mr. Caldwell was made a school trustee by Mayor Thompson in January, 1928, and was elected president of the board in May of the same year. He was reelected for a second term last spring.

Gossip at the board room was that his contemplated divorce from school affairs is the result of his growing discouragement in his efforts to obtain school funds through his own initiative and his disappointment over a lack to coöperation from other trustees.

The fact that while Caldwell was in New York endeavoring to sell warrants another trustee, Lewis E. Myers, entered the negotiations locally and, with the aid of the Strawn committee and others, was able to accomplish through coöperation what Mr. Caldwell with his bitter criticisms of the Strawn committee had been unable to accomplish in months, is declared to have caused the school board president to lose interest in school affairs.

Hurries to New York.

On Feb. 5 Mr. Caldwell hurried to New York after receiving a favorable report from his secret emissary whom he had dispatched to negotiate the sale of tax warrants. In New York he issued daily statements that progress was being made. On his return to Chicago on Wednesday he announced he had arranged the sale and that only the approval of certain local bankers, whom he declined to name, was necessary to complete the deal. Last night he said he had not seen any bankers.

The school board met yesterday afternoon, but recessed without hearing any report of Mr. Caldwell's New York trip.

As a possible successor to President Caldwell the reports mentioned Walter Brandenberg, now vice president, who was a leader in demanding economy during the preparation of the 1930 school budget. Mr. Brandenberg left last night for a four weeks' tour through Germany.

Home of Yiddish Drama Robbed by Two Gunmen

The Lawndale theater, home of Yiddish drama at 4015 Roosevelt road, was robbed of $500 by two young men with pistols last evening. The assistant manager, Max Kreshover, 30 years old, 1256 South Tripp avenue, was in the lobby with two advertising salesmen of a Jewish newspaper when the robbers entered and stood all three against the wall. While one gunman covered the trio, the other took $350 from the cash drawer in the box office and $150 from Kreshover's hip pocket.

CHARGE GIRL, 17, STRUCK BOY AND FLED FROM SCENE

Motorist Says He Chased Auto, Got Number.

Miss Eleanor Reinhardt, 17 years old, 2922 North Newcastle avenue, was arrested yesterday on charges of leaving the scene of an accident and assault with an automobile. She was identified as the hit and run motorist who struck and probably fatally injured nine year old William Barfield, 2301 West Washington boulevard. The boy was struck at Washington boulevard and Waverly court, on his way home from school for the noon recess. The driver of the car fled. The boy was taken to the office of a nearby physician for emergency treatment and later to his home, where his condition is said to be critical. Paul Willson of Hillside, who witnessed the accident, gave chase in his car, but lost track of the fleeing motorist.

Reports Number to Police.

Wilson, however, said he secured the license number of the car and reported a number to the Des Plaines street police. The ownership was traced to Otto Reinhardt, father of the girl. Policemen Thomas Gallagher and Patrick Gilhooly went to the Reinhardt home and found the girl and her mother. Both insisted that they knew nothing of the accident.

The girl and her mother were taken to the Des Plaines street station, where Wilson identified Miss Reinhardt as the driver. The girl said that the car was in the National garage, 6817 Grand avenue. The right headlight and fender of the car were bent and dented.

Asked Quick Repair, Claim.

An attendant told Policemen Gallagher and Gilhooley that Miss Reinhardt had used the car in the morning. When she left the car in the garage she had asked that it be repaired immediately because she did not want her father to know that she had been in an accident, he said.

Miss Reinhardt declared that the fender and headlight had been damaged several days ago. She was released on bonds of $2,000.

Three deaths yesterday raised the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 110. The victims:

Ray Tuck Sim, 47 years old, 148 West 23d street. Died in the Peoples hospital of injuries received Monday when struck by an automobile driven by Carl Peterson, 5928 Union avenue, at 23d street and Wentworth avenue.

William Hoffman, 45 years old, 3849 North Kilbourn avenue. Died in the Belmont hospital of injuries received on Feb. 18 when struck by a hit and run motorist at Elston and Cicero avenues.

Margaret Popping, 18 years old, Dixmoor. Fatally injured last night when struck by an auto while walking in 130th street, near her home.

The body of a man fatally injured when struck by a taxicab at Division street and Marshfield avenue Wednesday has been identified as that of Andrew Warbenta, 40 years old, 1267 Wabansia street. The driver, John Sorin, 34 years old, 1318 North Marshfield avenue, was held.

Superior Judge Worth E. Caylor and his son-in-law, George Bowling, were named defendants in three damage suits totaling $110,000, filed yesterday in the Superior court by the Yellow Cab company in behalf of Alfred Mason, a cab driver. Mason asks $10,000 for injuries he received when his cab collided with Judge Caylor's automobile at De Witt place and Chestnut street on last Oct. 22, and $1,000 for his cab, which was demolished. According to his declaration Mason had the right of way.

Judge Caylor said that he did not understand why the action was brought, since the cab company had settled with him and Bowling shortly after the accident. The cab company paid Mr. and Mrs. Bowling $2,500 for injuries and also paid for damages to the car, the judge said.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder Named to Direct Air Races Here

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder, head of the Curtiss-Wright flying service in the middle west and a leading figure in Chicago aviation, will direct the national air races here next fall. Announcement that Schroeder had been selected to take charge of the races and that his appointment lacked only the formal confirmation of the board of directors of the Chicago Air Race corporation was made yesterday by Capt. Maxwell Corpening, secretary.

Capt. Corpening said also that arrangements had been completed with the Curtiss-Wright interests to hold the races at the new Curtiss airport near Glenview. Formal selection of Curtiss field, however, awaits official sanction of the board of directors, he said.

Races to Last Nine Days.

The races will last nine days, beginning on Aug. 23 and continuing until Sept. 1. This will include two weekends in addition to Labor day on Monday, Sept. 1. Preparations for the races will begin immediately after the next meeting of the board of directors on March 1, Capt. Corpening said.

"The new $3,000,000 Curtiss field has been selected because it is the largest and most modern in Chicago," Capt. Corpening said. "The present division of the 456 acre field into two landing areas is especially desirable for our purposes. The 125 acre section now used exclusively by student flyers may be utilized as a parking space for scores of visiting planes, while the larger field may be used only by planes participating in each day's program, thus diminishing the danger of congestion.

"Pal-Waukee airport, five miles west of Curtiss field, and Sky Harbor, the same distance north, will likely be used as parking areas for planes and for the blimps and other lighter-than-air craft which will be on hand for the races. The new Curtiss hangar unit will shelter some sixty ships and accommodations for more can be provided."

The means of handling great crowds were also taken into consideration in the selection of Curtiss field, for race officials expect that aviation's most colorful annual event will draw close to 100,000 spectators daily. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad's main tracks border the east side of the field.

Three Main Roads to Field.

Bus connections may also be made by the North Western railroad, the North Shore Electric line and the elevated line at Wilmette. Three main highways—Waukegan, Sheridan, and Milwaukee roads—may be used by automobile traffic to reach the field. The county board is to be asked to improve other roads connecting with the field.

Maj. Schroeder, or "Shorty" as he is known to the flying fraternity, is a colorful figure in aviation. He was test pilot for the first of the three motored planes in this country. During the last year he has directed the Curtiss-Wright flying interests here, building the Curtiss airport.

On Feb. 27, 1920, Maj. Schroeder attained the world's altitude record in one of the most thrilling flights in the history of aviation. With his eyeballs frozen at 36,020 feet he lost control of the plane and plunged more than six miles in two minutes before he recovered sufficiently to bring the craft under control.

SCHOENHAIR SETS FOUR WORLD AIR RECORDS IN DAY

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Reeling off four new world records in quick succession today, Lee Schoenhair, chief pilot for the Goodrich Rubber company of Akron, O., has succeeded in bringing back to America six speed marks for airplanes carrying added weight.

His records for 1,000 kilogram loads over 100, 500 and 1,000 kilometers, and for 500 kilograms over 1,000 kilometers, added to those he set here Tuesday with 500 kilograms over 100 and 500 kilometers served to wrest the marks from England and France.

WITNESS AT TRIAL IDENTIFIES YOUTH AS CAFE SLAYER

William Lenhardt, 22 years old, alleged Cleveland gunman, was identified yesterday by witnesses in Judge Philip Finnegan's court, where he is on trial, as the slayer of Milton Valisopoulos, restaurant keeper at 803 West 74th street. The state is asking the electric chair for Lenhardt, who is charged with killing Valisopoulos during a holdup.

James Stevens, 17 South Halsted street, a cook in the restaurant, testified that he grappled with Lenhardt during the robbery. He said he was positive that the defendant was the man who shot down his employer.

FRENCH RADICAL FORMS CABINET DOOMED AT BIRTH

New Ministry to Rule by Grace of Tardieu.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Feb. 21 (Friday).—(AP)—Camille Chautemps, president of the radical Socialist party, after an all night meeting lasting until 5 a. m. today, completed a cabinet with which he will seek a majority in the chamber of deputies.

Among the principal members of the new government were:

Aristide Briand, minister of foreign affairs.

Albert Sarraut, minister of marine.

Rene Besnard, minister of war.

Louis Loucheur, minister of labor.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Camille Chautemps, a newcomer to the ever shifting galaxy of French premiers, was last night putting the finishing touches to the Left government which he intends to present to President Gaston Doumergue at noon today, and which will be the first of this complexion to take shape in France since former Premier Raymond Poincaré ended all that in 1926 by unseating the "cartel des gauches," headed by Edouard Herriot.

M. Chautemps has grouped most of the notabilities of the Left parties in the cabinet, which will last as long as one André Tardieu wills it to last. Twice yesterday M. Tardieu refused proffered cabinet posts. As forecast this morning the new cabinet is strong as Left lineups go in this country, but it lacks one thing and that is a majority.

Doomed for Slaughter.

Answering the call of President Doumergue, who feels that the radicals, having laid low M. Tardieu, are entitled to have a try, M. Chautemps, chief of the radical Socialist group, has courageously gone ahead and got together a resigned little group of gentlemen of the Left who trust him implicitly to lead them to slaughter.

For M. Tardieu still has a majority of some 40 votes in the chamber of deputies. M. Tardieu's doctors say he needs a three weeks' rest. So for approximately that time, depending on the developments in London, M. Tardieu intends to leave the Chautemps ministry be.

Briand to Return to London.

Then when he feels his health reestablished he will step in, call out his majority, which cuts far into the Right wing of the Chautemps majority, bring down the ministry and form a new government of his own.

In the meantime Aristide Briand, who will again be foreign minister, will proceed to London to resume negotiations when the naval conference resumes work.

BRITAIN IS ACCUSED OF SPENDING PARLEY'S CASH ON "GUZZLING"

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The high cost of hospitality for the delegations attending the five power naval conference brought on a debate in the house of commons tonight when the government asked for an additional $45,000 for expenses.

George Buchanan, left wing member of the Labor party, opposed the granting of the extra money, declaring that it was being spent on "guzzling." But he was alone in his stand. The protests of other members were based on the report that the buffet in St. James's palace was "dry," in deference to the views of the American delegates.

Commander A. R. J. Southby, Conservative, protested that it was hard on the delegates of the other nations to deprive them of the usual refreshments simply as a gesture to the United States. Capt. Victor Cazalet, Conservative, said the buffet was so dry it was unremunerative to the caterers' firm that maintained it. The house approved the added expenditure, with only Buchanan's dissenting vote.

HUSBAND OF GIRL HELD IN QUIZ ON LEENEY SLAYING

Norman Langley was detained last night by the state's attorney's office as a material witness in the investigation into the slaying of Maurice Leeney, trucking contractor, who was shot to death supposedly by his wife, Florence, on Jan. 2. Langley was one of the witnesses called before the grand jury yesterday to determine whether Mrs. Leeney should be indicted in accordance with the finding of the coroner's jury.

Langley is the husband of Mrs. Dorothy Schweinfurth Langley, 20 years old, a distant relative of the slain contractor. The cause of the shooting was supposedly an alleged relationship between Leeney and Mrs. Langley. Langley is reported to have signed an immunity waiver before he was called as a grand jury witness.

The grand jurors, after questioning Langley, requested Assistant State's Attorneys Henry Ayers and Edwin Spiro to investigate his story. No action will be taken by the jury until the prosecutors report the result of their inquiry. Langley made several contradictory statements, it is reported, about his whereabouts when Leeney was shot in the Leeney apartment at 5336 Drexel avenue. Mrs. Leeney does not deny the shooting. Her defense is an insanity plea.

3 GIRLS, 10, RUN AWAY FOR STAGE CAREERS IN CITY

Three 10 year old girls packed dancing pumps and fluffy ballroom dresses into a bag yesterday and started out for stage careers. Their great adventure ended in tears at the detective bureau where they were taken last night after they had tried to register at the Illinois Central hotel, 1245 South Michigan boulevard.

Marguerite Allegretti, 117 South 20th avenue, niece of Municipal Judge Allegretti; Barbara Hoffman, 825 South 16th avenue; and Edna May Stewart, 33 South 20th street, all of Maywood, had taken dancing lessons for several years and were convinced of their own talents. They took an elevated train to the loop and decided to stop at the hotel while they sought work on the stage.

The hotel keeper notified the police. All three girls at first insisted they had been kidnaped near their homes and driven to Chicago where they were pushed out. When their stories were found to contradict each other, however, they confessed that the lure of the theater and the warm spring weather had induced them to leave home.

INJURY IN FALL FATAL.

A skull fracture, suffered a week ago in a fall, resulted in death yesterday at the county hospital for David Anderson, 66 years old, 910 Barry avenue.

U. S. BACKS SEA PACT TO BOLSTER KELLOGG TREATY

But Final Policy Is Up to Hoover.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—By the time the London five power naval conference reconvenes it is expected that the Hoover administration will have determined its policy with respect to the security pact France is demanding as the price for scaling down its naval "requirements" and signing a navy limitation pact.

The American delegation, it transpires, has been giving favorable consideration to a political pact to implement, or as some say, put teeth in the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty. That is as far as American Secretary of State Stimson is prepared to go to satisfy the demand of European powers that the United States join in an arrangement to punish a nation which commits aggression on another, and thereby violates the Kellogg peace pact.

Depends on Hoover.

Whether Mr. Stimson will go even that far at the final showdown will depend on President Hoover's judgment of the chances of obtaining senate ratification for American participation in an international understanding of this character. An unconfirmed rumor tonight is that President Hoover is weakening even on the Stimson proposal as a result of increasing opposition in the senate.

The Stimson proposal falls into the following two categories:

First, consultation of signatories to the Kellogg peace pact regarding any breach, or any threatened breach, in the treaty to renounce war.

Second, investigation by some regularly constituted agency of any controversy leading to a breach, or threatened breach, of the pact.

Heeds American Sentiment.

In framing his proposal along these lines Mr. Stimson has carefully heeded American public sentiment against entangling alliances. He has avoided any implication that the United States would be obligated to furnish armed forces, or even declare an economic boycott against any nation violating the Kellogg pact.

Different views are held on this matter in Europe, however. To European statesmen the Stimson proposal contains the implication of the moral obligation of powers, consulting on a breach of the Kellogg pact, to employ all necessary force, either of armies or fleets, or economic pressure against the aggressor nation violating the anti-war treaty.

To Europeans the consultation of powers suggested in the Stimson proposal means the assembling of an international jury to try the nation accused of violating the Kellogg pact and the eventual rendering of a verdict of guilty or not guilty.

Europe Has Different Angle.

Clearly, from the European viewpoint, the United States, after participating in such a proceeding, would be accused of bad faith if it refused to join in measures for restraining or punishing the offending nation. In view of this situation it is likely that if Mr. Stimson puts forward his proposal formally it will contain the proviso that America in entering into the arrangement does not commit itself in advance to a definite course of action, following a consultation of powers, either with respect to the use of armed forces or the employment of an economic boycott. The senate, it will be recalled, attached a reservation of this character to the consultative Pacific four power pact.

This falls far short of the security pact France is demanding, and the French are unlikely to accept it unless they find themselves impelled to come to an agreement with Great Britain on navy tonnage.

NAVY ENVOYS TAKE IT EASY AS EXPERTS KEEP GRINDING AWAY

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Complete calm reigned in naval conference quarters of London today, and it will continue until the French return. Only the committee of experts continues to function. It met today and continued discussion of the question of special ships and hopes to have its report completed by the time the conference reconvenes.

Secretary of State Stimson has gone to Stanmore and expects to remain there for the rest of the week. He will have most of his fellow delegates there as guests. With the Italian chiefs headed for Rome, the British delegates returned to their departmental duties at Whitehall.

There may be a certain amount of private conversation between the British, American and Japanese delegates, but no formal meetings will be held. The subject most under discussion now is the French effort to secure some sort of a political guarantee pact.

In the meantime entertainment for delegates and their wives continues. Many will attend tomorrow night's English Speaking union dance.

SEE PARLEY'S CRASH

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—The temporary adjournment of the London naval conference is foreseen as a definite breakup into which the parley will be allowed to lapse without a definite five party agreement being reached, it is learned from reliable sources today.

This eventuality will be discussed between Premier Mussolini and Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, who, accompanied by Admiral Siriani, minister of marine, and two cabinet members, left here today for Rome.

Mussolini Takes Hand.

Sig. Grandi and Admiral Siriani will go over the whole situation with Premier Mussolini, especially that feature raised in the last Italian note, in which Italy openly hints that it left loopholes for France to grant a paper parity, without Italy, on the other hand, building up to it, unless the political situation in the Mediterranean enforces it. Covering this eventuality, the Italians offer a plan giving six months' notice of new tonnage.

The impression exists in Italian circles that the next French government may be a brief one, formed merely for taking the undesirable responsibility for breaking up the conference, after which another government will be formed. That hopes are practically abandoned for an agreement at this conference is given expression in the opinions that the only outcome will be a renewed armament race.

All along the Italians have maintained that the conference was a futile mobilization of foreign ministers to discuss nothing.

Coupled with the Italian apprehensions are the forebodings in British circles of an early breakup, not at all displeasing to the British.

MORE HYMNS AND HUGS BARED IN BRANDON SUIT

curtain lifted. The attorney prompted the witness.

"Now, don't forget about the little blue atomizer," said Mr. Kiendl, "and by the way, have you that atomizer now?"

"The little blue atomizer with which Gillespie sprayed perfume on his chest that morning? No, I have not."

"You reminded him, I believe," continued the lawyer, "that his family would notice the perfume."

"Indeed, I did."

"But you don't remember what happened in the night?"

"No, it is just a blank to me."

Before Mrs. Brandon began to visualize the scene she had told dramatically a bit of conversation touching upon the event.

"I'll never forget that night in January, 1922," she cried. "It was the night he won me by fraud. Gillespie said it was a sin for which we must suffer through all eternity, unless there was a subsequent marriage.

Her First Red Ink Entry.

"It was then I put a symbol in my diary to remind me of my duty for eternal penance."

"You used the letter A to stand for adultery, I believe," interrupted Lawyer Kiendl.

"Yes, but I never knew it stood for that until this moment," replied the witness.

"You have never read, you who are such a great reader, have never read Hawthorne's 'Scarlet Letter?'" asked Kiendl.

"No, I unconsciously picked out the first letter."

A few more details concerning the scarlet triangle were obtained later in day. There were, it was disclosed, fifty-five of these not so cryptic symbols entered in Mrs. Brandon's diary. Certain of the triangles were done in blue, for unexplained reasons, but the A's remained red. They were scattered through two editions of large sized lawyers' diaries.

Mrs. Brandon, who has referred to herself as the "dupe of a glassy-eyed, hard-boiled old mug," began her visualization episode in the office of the man she now dubs "a pot-bellied little shyster." After she had 'curled up on a chair with one leg under her body," as "I love to do," and Gillespie had joked with her about trying "to seduce me," the couple strolled up town, discussing business matters at first, and later love. It was hard for them to separate the two.

"He stopped right in the middle of Chambers street," smiled Mrs. Brandon, "took off his hat, put his hand on his heart and began to talk of love. He was apparently as helpless as a child. I took his arm and helped him to the sidewalk. He rolled his eyes to heaven and said, 'Thank God that I'm an honorable Christian gentleman.' I laughed at this worldly innocence."

"And yet," barked Lawyer Kiendl, "a little later you permitted him to yield to temptation?"

"'I ruined him,' he said," replied Mrs. Brandon. "But he destroyed me."

The Two Last Robes.

An illuminating episode in the middle aged romance was introduced when the triangle woman recalled a little business ride down Long Island to look over an estate owned by the "poor little Alice de Lamar" whose millions Mrs. Brandon, as a lawyer, was "guarding like a watchdog."

The Long Island jaunt was made in an open car—one belonging to the city which Mr. Gillespie serves. A chauffeur went along, but Miss De Lamar could not accompany them.

"There were two lap robes in the car," said the witness. "I pulled one up over me and Gillespie pulled the other over himself. Then Gillespie remarked:

"'I am a holy man and you will have to pardon me. I really could not bring myself to share a rug in a car with a person of the feminine sex.'"

Hymn of Hate Read.

It was during the reading to the jury of the entire contents of Mrs. Brandon's pamphlet of hate—the autobiographical booklet she had published and copies of which she sent to the pope, cardinals, bishops, priests, judges, editors, and citizens—that a number of interesting topics came out.

Mr. Kiendl read it and Mrs. Brandon explained it. On one occasion Lawyer Kiendl asked her to explain a reference in the book to the "holy man."

"I wanted an angel from heaven," replied Mrs. Brandon. "I did not want an ordinary man. That was my mistake, for there is no such animal. Gillespie said he was nearer to me than God. Why, he would come into my home and sing 'Nearer, My God, to Thee' in a high soprano. He didn't drink and he would pray for hours and quote from the Bible."

"I see you have quoted every one from Rabelais to the Bible in your book," said the lawyer. "Now what do you mean here when you say he ran from you after his wife's death?"

"I mean," said the witness and author, "that he scuttled away like a rabbit. He scuttled into any hole or open door every time he saw me."

"But you still sought him?"

Just Force of Habit.

"Yes, I was under his control by force of habit—by force of habit—for a year after the break. Now I am as dead. I always will be dead. I will continue to remain in living death until God in his infinite mercy permits me to die."

The woman of 42 with 55 scarlet letters in her diary sobbed softly. The jury smiled openly. The lawyer waited impatiently.

Mr. Gillespie, the waterworks man, sat picking at his Tammany mustache. From time to time he would rub his nose reflectively. Once, soon after the sobbing interlude, he entered into a glaring contest with the triangle lady, but came out a poor second. Throughout the day Mrs. Brandon addressed most of her answers toward Gillespie and paid little attention to the jurors. She would sit staring at the fellow until he would grow so nervous that even his head would tremble.

The religious life of Mrs. Brandon was another topic included in the book and explained by the author under questioning by Mr. Kiendl. Her religion, it developed, was work, until she met Gillespie.

"I had no time for any other," explained Mrs. Brandon.

Afterwards she embraced Mr. Gillespie's faith "in order that a marriage might be performed."

She "Worshiped" Him.

She was asked if she actually worshiped Gillespie and replied that she did.

"I prayed to him as a god, for he was a god to me at that time," she declared.

A part of the afternoon session was given over to an account of Mrs. Brandon's life as a lawyer and assistant corporation counsel. The account and the session ended with Mrs. Brandon glaring at Gillespie and declaring:

"That rare bird of paradise gradually got my law practice."

DR. SNOOK DENIED A 30 DAY REPRIEVE BY OHIO GOVERNOR

Columbus, O., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Gov. Cooper today refused to grant a thirty day reprieve to Dr. James H. Snook, sentenced to die in the electric chair on Feb. 28 for the murder of Theora K. Hix, in order to give the Supreme court of the United States sufficient time to consider an application for a writ of certiorari which has been filed by the slayer's attorneys.

Burden of granting a stay of execution was placed by the governor upon either the Ohio or the United States Supreme court. According to dispatches from Washington, D. C., chances of Dr. Snook receiving a hearing in the nation's highest tribunal seem to be slender.

The appeal was filed with the governor on Feb. 15 by E. O. Ricketts of Columbus and Arthur C. Fricke and Arthur M. Spiegel of Cincinnati, counsel for Snook. They contended that inasmuch as court does not convene until Feb. 24, and that the case can not be heard until two weeks later, the execution date should be deferred.

MOTHER, DAUGHTER GIVEN PROBATION.

Mrs. Julia Mayion, 44 years old, 5000 Prairie avenue, and her daughter, Mrs. Marion Novak, 23 years old, 2907 West 53d street, the mother of two children, were placed on probation for one year yesterday by Judge Immenhausen on a charge of stealing a hat.

Your baby may look plump and healthy and still his bones and teeth may not be developing properly

Every mother knows how much these things mean to health and appearance all through life!

To ensure them, physicians are telling mothers that their babies must have special protection. Even though your baby is breast-fed, even though he is plump and rosy; still he needs protection against the ever threatening danger of poor bones and teeth.

There are two common sources of the essential protective factor (Vitamin D). Sunshine and good cod-liver oil! But because of clothing, clouds, fog and smoke, it is almost impossible to get enough sunshine on your baby's bare body. Even ordinary window glass filters out the protecting rays.

Physicians say that the one dependable protection is to give your baby Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—regularly every day. And thousands of them say, "Give Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil."

They prefer Squibb's because it is very rich in two essential vitamins—Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin," which helps to build good bones and teeth, and Vitamin A which promotes growth and increases resistance to infections.

Your physician knows how much Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil will help in correct formation of your baby's bones and teeth. For your protection, insist on Squibb's, the vitamin-tested, vitamin-protected oil. Plain and Mint-flavored.

JEWISH CHURCH LEADERS FACING DEATH IN RUSSIA

Rabbis Plead with U. S. to Stop Executions.

the British government makes concerning the establishment of freedom of worship in Russia will be considered by Moscow as a hostile act.

"We can have peaceful relations only as long as both Great Britain and the soviet government realize that only upon their own territories can both governments enforce any political measures they see fit," continues the Isvestia, in asking what the Labor government would do if the soviet government used all of its influence to halt "the oppression of India and South Africa."

The Isvestia says that no matter what action England takes, the soviet government's policy towards religion will remain unchanged.

RED TROOPS ADVANCE

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 20.—Large movements of Russian troops to the Polish and Rumania frontiers has led France and Poland to warn Rumania today of a new bolshevik military menace, according to reliable information received here tonight.

The Russian military preparations are reported to be directed especially against Rumania. According to military intelligence received by the French and passed on to their Balkan ally, the railroad between Kiev and Odessa has been clogged with troop trains the last few days.

The soviet forces apparently are being concentrated just northwest of Odessa, along the lower part of the Bessarabian frontier. All garrisons in the neighborhood are reported to be heavily reinforced with troops and artillery.

Rumania has requested information and advice from Great Britain. London is reported to have suggested to the Bucharest government that the reports were probably exaggerated and the troop movements are likely nothing but the annual winter maneuvers of the Red army.

Bucharest, however, is worried tonight. Reports of firing heard across the Dniester river are current, though unconfirmed. In order to quiet the general alarm the government issued a communique tonight denying any trouble on the Russian frontier.

Close Four Siberian Churches.

OMSK, Siberia, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Four additional churches in scattering villages near here were closed today and converted into schools and workers' clubs by authorities. The closings were made on petitions of peasants, who joined the government's collective farms. With growth of the government's agricultural collective plan, there is a strong movement to abolish additional churches.

Salvation Army in Plea.

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Gen. Edward J. Higgins, Salvation Army head, calls upon Salvationists in the current War Cry to join with other religious bodies on Sunday, March 16, in prayers for the cessation of anti-religious persecution in Russia.

From the Island of Jersey

Letter received by Ernest Gould, 922 Forest avenue, Wilmette, Ill.:

Jersey is the largest of the channel islands off the coast of France belonging to England. It has an area of 45 square miles and a population of about 55,000. The inhabitants preserve many Norman feudal customs. They have their own legislature. The chief towns are St. Helier, the capital, and St. Aubin. Fruits, oysters, fish, and dairy products are its chief products. It is the native heath of the world famed breed of Jersey cattle. Its most noted personage in recent years was Lily Langtry, known as the Jersey Lily.

Killed by Auto Gas as He Starts Car in Home Garage

James Bailey, 44 years old, 1710 North Central avenue, was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning last night in the garage in the rear of his home. He apparently had been overcome while preparing to drive out of the garage yesterday morning. His wife found the body shortly after notifying the police that he was missing.

SCHOOLBOY REDS ANSWER JUDGE WITH REVOLT CRY

Efforts of young communists to introduce communism into the public schools of Chicago and to foment a strike of pupils of the Brown school at Warren boulevard and Wood street were revealed yesterday when a girl and two boys were arraigned in the Boys' court on charges of disorderly conduct and contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The girl, Mary Masrak, 13 years old, 1509 Wicker Park avenue, had nothing to say when she was arraigned, but her two companions, Sidney Kaplan, 14 years old, 1329 North Rockwell street, and Morris Fine, 17 years old, 1850 Milwaukee avenue, delivered a lecture for the benefit of Judge Francis B. Allegretti on how to run the government. After listening to them and to a plea from Assistant State's Attorney Evert O. Hutchins that the trio be prosecuted for sedition, Judge Allegretti decided to transfer them to the jury court and let a jury pass upon their case.

Carry Communist Banners.

William J. Page, principal of the Brown school, told the court the three defendants had created a near riot on the school grounds when they displayed banners bearing the slogans, "We demand work or wages for our parents" and "Negro and white must unite against capitalism."

Mr. Page said a similar disturbance had been staged at the Lafayette school. He declared the communists had planned a general strike of pupils for Feb. 26.

When Mr. Page had concluded, the Kaplan boy shouted for "justice for the working class," which he defined as "the people who work in the sweatshops so their bosses can get rich."

Judge Quizzes Boys.

"Don't you think that the revolution you propose had better be substituted by a process of gradual reform?" Judge Allegretti asked.

Fine answered, declaring that a strike would settle all questions and to the judge's suggestion that the police might stop the strike he replied:

"We'll fight the police. The strike will not fail."

NORTHERN CHINA CALLS OFF REVOLT AS CHIANG NEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Feb. 20.—The military commanders in northern China, including Yen Shi-shan, who have been planning a rebellion against the Nationalist government, at a meeting at Taiyuanfu today decided against warfare unless President Chiang Kai-shek's advance on them continues. Yen's telegrams are regarded here as entirely defensive and are designed to dissuade Gen. Chiang from pushing punitive measures. The northern forces are making no aggressive movements at present.

Chiang in Peace Move.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20.—Whether China's annual spring war will develop this year is not yet known, but President Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nationalist government, today sent a strong telegram to Yen Shi-shan, head of the Shansi government and military controller of North China, in expressing the hope of "halting the horse on the brink of the precipice."

In addition to President Chiang's telegram, the heads of the other government departments, during the last week, have been bombarding Yen with proclamations and manifestos which, with Yen's replies, have been filling pages of Chinese and foreign newspapers. The outstanding element in this correspondence is that President Chiang flatly refuses to resign in response to Yen's demands.

In the event that fighting develops, it will likely begin in the Shantung and Honan provinces.

ASSAILANT OF 2 GIRLS CAUGHT BY POLICE SQUAD

Carl Acqua, 32 years old, 7121 South Hermitage avenue, a waiter, was captured by a police squad last night as he attacked Miss Hazel Peterson, 6359 Haft street, at Milwaukee and Ravenswood avenue, and was locked up on two charges of assault, after he had been identified by Miss Hilda Gertz, 19 years old, 5628 Ravenswood avenue, as the man who attacked her a few minutes earlier. Miss Gertz said that Acqua grabbed her by the coat as she passed him on Ravenswood avenue, near her home, but she screamed and broke from his grasp. A few minutes later he grabbed Miss Peterson just as Sergt. Roy Hessler and his squad drove up, and he was captured before he could flee.

RECORD VOTE OF 10,000,000 IS CAST IN JAPAN'S POLLS

TOKIO, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A vote of record proportions with the total approaching 10,000,000 was indicated tonight after Japan had held its second election under universal manhood suffrage.

In Tokio, Nagoya, and other cities approximately 80 per cent of the franchise holders cast ballots. Counting on the votes begins tomorrow and results of the election, in which the Minseito party government, headed by Premier Hamaguchi, sought a majority of parliament seats, probably will not be apparent before Saturday or Sunday.

The prelection campaign was bitterly fought, with domestic economic issues in the forefront. The naval conference in London did not figure in the platform of either major party. The Minseito party defended its economic program and the return to gold payments as the only sure road to stability.

It is very slender around the hips with the low flare placed just right to accent this slenderness. Godets in the skirt and peplum are left plain, while the frock is embroidered all over with colorful little dots. To be had in navy blue and black silk crepe.

THE APPEAL TO TAXPAYERS.

When Melvin Traylor of the First National bank reminded the larger taxpayers of Chicago that they had been receiving police and fire protection for two years without having paid anything for it he was stating an important if obvious fact. The money which would have gone to pay the bills of the local governments, had taxes been collected, has been earning at least a fair return meanwhile, Mr. Traylor added, and the taxpayers will suffer no deprivation if they now come forward with their money to buy tax anticipation warrants.

All of this is true. It is also true that the employés of the local governments have been shamefully treated. For the most part they do not earn large salaries, and they have been forced to go without money for a period now running in some cases into months. The teachers have not been paid since December, the nurses have been paid only through the public spirit of private citizens, and the policemen and firemen have more than a month's wages due them. The situation, needless to say, is critical, and action must be taken promptly. Reports that the morale in the public services is low can be readily believed. It is no small tribute to the rank and file of Chicago's civil servants that their morale has withstood the strain as well as it has.

Unfortunately, one circumstance which might hasten the relief of the crisis was conspicuously lacking at the meeting of taxpayers. Not a single elected official was present. The only public official who spoke was Mr. Lewis Myers, a member of the school board, and he was there not as a representative of the city government or of the schools but as a member of the Strawn rescue committee. He could commit the local governments to no policy. Not even the reputed brains of the Thompson administration, Mr. Ettelson, was present. No one was there to speak for the county board or for the sanitary district.

The absence of these gentlemen is the more remarkable in view of the fact that the committee has intimated repeatedly that all the money which the local governments think they require cannot in all probability be raised during the period of the emergency. It will therefore be necessary to ration such funds as are contributed by the taxpayers. A committee has been appointed for the purpose. The rationing, if it is to be made in the public interest, must be based upon a critical analysis of the expenditures of the local governments. None of the elected officials was present at the meeting to give assurance that such supervision of expenditures would not be resisted. The city hall machine has never accepted the notion that its policies are in any way subject to review. None of the spokesmen for the committee, so far as the reports of the meeting show, stated that the elected officials would offer coöperation. Intimations were given that the local governments would coöperate with the Strawn committee in pressing for relief legislation at Springfield, including laws to prevent a recurrence of the crisis, but if the Strawn committee has obtained any "sanctions," even in the form of mere verbal pledges from the politicians, the fact was not made known.

Chicagoans who have maintained a continuous, as opposed to an occasional, interest in the affairs of the local governments will be disposed to place little faith on a mere understanding of what the politicians have hinted they will do or will not do.

The appeal for loans to the local governments will be immeasurably strengthened if the taxpayers who must advance the money have firm reason for confidence that the funds so advanced will not be frittered away and that the crisis will never recur.

MORE BUREAUCRACY.

A bill introduced in congress by Senator Couzens of Michigan is reported to provide for a federal commission to consolidate and regulate communication agencies. It should be considered with some care. We can see no reason for federal regulation of the telephone, and it may be asserted generally that there should be no increase of federal control in any field unless the need for it is thoroughly demonstrated. That there may be shortcomings in existing conditions is not enough. We have been increasing the power of the central government inordinately, until the ramifications of its power run throughout the nation. We are building up an enormous federal bureaucracy under the shortsighted impulse of correction without giving proper consideration to the results of this tendency, in the establishment of a costly bureaucratic system, the increase of the cost of federal government, the restriction of state rights and local autonomy, and the discouragement of private initiative by political interference in private enterprise and by routine ridden officialism.

EUROPEAN BASES IN AMERICAN WATERS.

The refusal of the French government to enter into an agreement with ours for reciprocal flying rights which will permit our commercial planes to pass over and land in the French Antilles may be qualified, if not withdrawn, after negotiation. But the controversy should remind us that the possession by European powers of islands belonging to our continental system, our coast line, in fact, and situated upon the flank of or athwart our lines of communication with our neighbors, is not a negligible factor in our foreign policy. THE TRIBUNE has insisted that the islands held by France and Great Britain along our coast from Newfoundland to Trinidad must be taken seriously as potential or actual bases for attack upon us. We have urged that in this period of international negotiation, financial, political, and military, it was and is the duty of our government persistently to press for a transfer to us on reasonable terms of at least the islands held by Great Britain and France in the Caribbean. Our government has failed to do this when conditions promised success, as upon our entry into the war and during the distribution of territories at Paris in the ostensible interest of international peace. We shall regret this failure as the growth of aviation proceeds.

The French islands of Guadeloupe and Martinique are valuable bases not only for hostile action against the canal and our bases in the Caribbean but also in peace time for hampering our development of communications with South America. The commercial air line which seeks the privilege of landing on these two French islands will greatly improve our contacts with Brazil and Argentina. In the latter country we are at a disadvantage which better means of intercourse would diminish. Perhaps the French government's refusal to grant landing privileges is not actuated by this consideration, but whatever its motive it should make us more attentive to our interests in that region and to the increasing need for a definite policy for freeing these American territories from European control. This need is not remote, it is present, and it should be considered in any conference which deals with American defense.

INDIANA'S ROAD SCANDAL.

Independent Indiana newspapers are alarmed at a situation which has been developing in the state's highway system, a situation likely to result in conditions similar to those which afflicted Illinois under the Small régime. A state board of accounts was created in Indiana to check the books of public officials. While it is true the party in power controls it, its examiners go out in pairs—one from each major party—and, unless their findings are shelved or killed, sooner or later the public usually has learned of accounts shortages or juggling of books.

Recently accounts board examiners found overdrafts in the accounts of the state highway commission. This commission controls the most of Indiana tax expenditures and it has always been the goal of hungry politicians. Even under the klan, however, it couldn't be reached because of an honest highway commission director. Last year this man was removed and in his stead the governor's secretary was appointed.

So the governor, addressing a state session of the accounts board examiners, demanded that hereafter reports of irregularities involving major units of the state government be submitted first to the department heads concerned. This, of course, would nullify the intent of the law creating the state board of accounts. The obvious reason for this demand was the accounts board reports of highway commission shortcomings, and the intent was to warn the accounts board to go easy hereafter in turning the spotlight on the highway commission. If successful, the demand of course would give the highway commission a clear track to arrange its books as it saw fit and to rearrange them before exposés if the accounts board found them wanting.

The experience of Indiana is likely to be similar to that of Illinois. Selfish interests in both states have attempted to divert highway funds from the use of the motorists to their own political or private advantage. Under Len Small state roads followed election returns or led to the prairie lots of statehouse favorites. Traffic principles, advice of disinterested highway engineers, and the true interest of the motorists were ignored in the division of roads, which was governed by political pull. The same influences are busy here now. Gas tax money is the prize. State and county administrations have been pressed and will be pressed more strongly to improve untraveled and inaccessible routes against the welfare of the motorist. We have learned from the Small régime the potential profligacy of highway spenders and we are not so likely to defer to the solicitations of road spoilsmen.

Much of the highway grab in Illinois was accomplished in star chamber sessions. Successful manipulation of road money must be a fait accompli. Submitted to public criticism, improper road plans could not prevail. Judging by Illinois' road history, the secret deliberations of the Indiana highway commission are sinister. Highway administration involves such large expenditures and so often leads to scandal that responsible public men would not invite the suspicion which secrecy in such a public matter produces.

Indiana has not yet outlived its Ku Klux highway commission scandals. The state cannot yet afford another.

STUDENT LOANS.

[Des Moines (Ia.) Register.]

Interesting figures on the repayment of loans to students are given in a recent report of the Harmon Foundation. In the past seven years the foundation has helped finance the college educations of 3,133 students, 679 women and 2,469 men. Loans made to them totaled $535,220. Up to the date of the report only $208,382 of these loans were due but $228,756 had been repaid. Losses have averaged less than 2 per cent, which is less than the loss experience of many banking houses.

Here is a field for individual philanthropy which is not philanthropy at all. Many citizens could afford to set aside from their capital revolving funds which could be loaned to selected students. The greatest difficulty lies in the administration of such funds and in selecting the students to be beneficiaries, but that could be very easily solved by coöperation with the authorities of some college or university in the vicinity.

Considering the experience of the Harmon Foundation and of other organizations which make loans to students, it is remarkable that there are not more such institutions. It would be hard to imagine a more worthy and useful bequest than one which could be applied to loaning money to likely youngsters for their education.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. F. K.

Friends, They're Not Getting the Real Lowdown—

from all these big shots who are testifying before the house judiciary committee in regard to this here now prohibition. They're getting authors and Napoleons of finance and Republicans, who have a pain in the neck whenever they realize that the G. O. P. is regarded as the great engine of the drys, but what about the people who really suffer because of this thing? Think of the people who give dinner parties. We went early to a dinner the other night. It was on what the newspapers foam at the mouth when they mention it—the so-called Gold Coast.

There we found our hostess—a good mother, a leader in smart society, a fond wife, and an earnest Christian. Just one of that splendid type scattered broadcast all over our great and glorious country. And here she was in her own palatial and otherwise pleasant home, and she should have been happy. Yessir, the constitution grants her that right. It says in so many words, "Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." But was she pursuing happiness? She was not. It was her right, but she wasn't doing it. She was pursuing misery, or we might better say that misery was chasing her. She was storming about the room, her face bore the most horrible look of human anguish we have ever seen on the face of a human being. She was crying; yessir, actually crying, and yet around her were all the things that go to make a woman contented and serene.

In amazement we asked this beautiful woman, the possessor of such a home, a leader in our most aristocratic circles, what her trouble was. "The gin!" she gasped, "the gin for the cocktails!" "Yes," replied us, licking our chops, "the gin for the cocktails! What about it?"

Our lovely hostess sank back on a million dollar antique brocaded silver plated sofa, and, again bursting into tears, she gasped: "It hasn't come. It won't come. That dirty bum of a bootlegger promised to bring a case at 6 o'clock——" "Yes, yes," said we gently, "and he's a little late. But, cheer up——"

"Cheer up, hell!" shrieked the beautiful society leader, throwing the telephone directory at our head. "That poor sap of a hooich peddler has gone and got himself arrested again, and they're liable to keep him in the hoosegow 'til midnight. And so, no cocktails, and my party will be absolutely ruined. My God! What AM I going to do now?"

We soothed the anguished lady as best we could, and finally, growing calmer, she had the presence of mind to call up some other bootleggers, and before the other guests came she had all the gin she wanted. But it shows how happiness, the pursuit of same which is guaranteed by the constitution, is so sadly interfered with by the 18th amendment and the Volstead act. Those are the people the house committee at Washington should call as witnesses. Those who suffer. Forgive us, friends, we can say no more; the tears choke us!

DO NOT GO BACK TO THE OLD LOVE.

Do not go back to the old love
To lay his head on your breast.
Yours not the calm clay fashioned of
To give him rest.

He will dream of the happiness
And you will remember the pain.
Can mouths gone wry with bitterness
Promise again?

Better to burn with an angry fire,
Better to yearn and lust,
Than to find the thing of your desire
Touched to dust.

JUDY SHEA.

TOMORROW is George Washington's birthday, and Minetta and Rob Roy, the Roysterer, and a lot of other customers want us to reprint "GEORGA DA WASH," and we're thinking it over. But the point is that in honor of George you must not tell a lie. We announced Monday morning that it was "Tell the Truth Week," but it didn't seem to work. Anyhow, you've got to tell the truth all day tomorrow, and you'd better practice up today.

Sez I, Sez He.

(Being the sprightly monologue delivered by a lady to a friend on top of a Boul. Mich. bus. Elme sat just behind and took notes.)

Well, las' Friday, you know, was tha secund anniversary of our weddin'. Walt and I have been married long enough now to ask one another the price of the gifts we exchange. Walter brought me a big box of candy. I gave him a pair of garters. He sniffed. "How much?" sez he. "Fifty cents." sez I. "What!" whats he. "Fifty cents worth of no metal can touch yous for a swell five buck box of candy what ud choke a horse! Wheninhel are you going to loosen up on some of the dough what you got from your old man?" "Well," sez I, "here's a kiss, too." "That don't raise the ante," sez he. "I'm still out." "Is that so, you poor sap?" sez I. "I'll learn you that there are sheiks that ud come in all the way from New York to kiss me." "Is that so?" sez he. "Well, that couch spider what you know in New York looks like a chicken with tha pip." "Is that so?" sez I. "Let me tell you something, you consolation prize——" "And what's more," sez he, "he's always pie-eyed. What'll he do when he dies and can't drink no more?" "You should worry," sez I. "Anyhow, he allus acts like a perfect gentulmun, which is more than I can say for sum peepul." "Oh," sez he, "is that so?" "Sure it's so," sez I, "and what's more," sez I——

("OHIO STREET!" yelled the conductor. Darn the luck; I had to get off at Ohio street. ELME.)

LAGNIAPPE.

NOT THAT WE WANT to touch on religious matters at all, but we know one guy that'll be happy over the bust up of the churches in Russia. That's the church oyster that has to make the grand round of the oyster suppers that the Ladies of the Helping Hand and Willing Aid give every now and then in the church basement. Not that the oyster suffers much, but it's a hard life traveling around from one oyster supper to another, and he'll enjoy the rest.

WEAR OUT OR RUST OUT?

SEVERAL years ago a magazine provoked a controversy as to whether it was better to wear out or rust out. Assuming that every man was headed for an out, would the process be delayed or made less painful if the rust route were chosen or did the wear route offer more? They began with a dissertation on the theme written by Dr. Woods Hutchinson. They followed by a stimulated Vox Pop.

Some hundreds of elderly people of great repute, and considered fairly truthful, were asked which route they were taking and why. About one hundred replies were tabulated and published. It was noticeable that almost without exception the writers of these letters professed to be in favor of wearing out, though many of them wrote from vacation lands and flowery beds of ease. In spite of the great reputation for veracity of these gentlemen, most people knew that what they wrote was—well, a pose.

Probably Mr. John D. Rockefeller did not write, but the newspaper accounts of his plan of life indicate that he thinks an old man at least should rust out. Whatever others may say or do to order their lives he paddles his own canoe serenely. He has passed his ninetieth year and he seems to want one hundred, and what he wants he has generally been able to get.

When winter approaches he makes a comfortable trip to a warm climate. He does not risk pneumonia by hanging back too long. When he arrives in a warm climate he proceeds to get into the sunlight and open air. A writer on the Alps as a winter resort complained that most of the people who traveled to those mountains for the winter cure immediately joined the hot stove league.

They stick indoors around the fire all day long, getting the mountain effects by looking out the windows. Not so John D. He goes to Florida for the climate and it is a part of his nature to get what he pays for. He plays golf whenever it is good judgment to do so. Not nine holes, nor eighteen, nor does he play violently, rapidly, or competitively. Emotional indulgence is work, even the emotional indulgence of competitive golf, and that is not part of the rust out plan which he is following.

When the winter is over he journeys comfortably back to the mountains. There he remains quietly during the warm season, staying in the open, breathing clean, wholesome air, and away from noise. The amount of exercise he takes daily is said to be just what he needs to keep up his muscle tone and to keep his organs functioning properly. Whatever others may say, he appears to be proving that the best policy for an old man is to rust out.

LUMPS ON SIDE OF NECK.

Mrs. R. R. writes: My 23 year old son has a small lump on each side of his neck. It is under the skin and has been there for years. What is the cause of this? Do you think they should be taken out? Are they called tubercular kernels, and is there any chance of his getting tuberculosis on account of them?

REPLY.

It is almost certain that these kernels are enlarged lymph glands. As a rule they are due to infection. Most of such infections are due to tubercle bacilli absorbed from the tonsils or are caused by drinking raw milk from tuberculous cows. Most cases of tubercular lymph glands can be cured by exposure to light, provided abscesses have not already formed.

Tubercular lymph glands are seldom followed by consumption. In fact, the neck infection creates some immunity to lung tuberculosis.

TUBERCULOSIS FACTS.

Mrs. McC. writes:

1. Can tuberculosis be inherited?
2. Is there much danger of infection from the disease?
3. Can it be transmitted from the father to the children?
4. Can one be entirely cured if it is caught in time and if one is young?
5. Are birthmarks inherited?

REPLY.

1. Practically speaking, no.
2. The danger in children is rather high; in adult life, less so.
3. Yes, by contact.
4. Yes.
5. No. They are congenital, however.

GUARD THE CHILDREN.

M. B. writes: Please tell me if it is safe to have any one with tuberculosis around children. My children are 6, 10, and 12. My uncle is staying with us and my wife and I are worried, as he almost always has an odor around him and is careless when he coughs. He hardly ever opens a window or goes out for air.

REPLY.

It is not, particularly if the person affected is careless. In many places it is against the law for children to stay in the home with a consumptive.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

FIVE YEARS IN COUNTRY.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—[Friend of the People.]—Can an alien take out his second citizenship papers five years after entering the country, or five years after he took out his first papers? H. W.

Five years after arrival in the United States and two years after he obtains a declaration of intention [first paper].

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

TEN YEAR OLD DEBT APPEARS.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Ten years ago I made a deposit of $30 on a correspondence course. I could not complete the course on account of an accident by which I lost two fingers. Never heard from the school until six months ago, when they sent an assignment to my firm, holding up my wages. The assignment form mentions no court order and now my firm refuses to release my wages unless I settle for the full amount. 1. Has my firm a right to withhold my wages without a court order? 2. If so, for how long? H. J. M.

1. Depends on the wording of the instrument that you signed. It seems probable that it expressly authorized this course.
2. Depends on the wording.

The mere fact that a pupil becomes dissatisfied or unable to take the course does not free him from liability on the tuition contract nor entitle him to recover payments that he has made. He must show some additional defense such as minority or breach of contract by the school. He cannot rely on oral representations and understandings not incorporated in the writing. The school is ordinarily entitled to recover the agreed tuition. While the pupil is theoretically entitled to credit for the saving that the school enjoys by having one pupil less to serve, it ordinarily cannot be proved that such saving is appreciable.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

HUSBAND IS INSANE.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a woman secure a divorce from her husband who is incurably insane in the state asylum? J. F.

If she can prove that at the time of the ceremony he was so insane as not to understand the nature of the marriage contract, that would be ground for annulment. Otherwise, she could not take advantage of the insanity under Illinois law.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 21, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—The evacuation of Charleston by the rebels is announced in the following telegram from Gen. Grant, dated City Point, Feb. 20: "The Richmond Examiner of today, just received, says that Charleston was evacuated on Feb. 14." The rebel forces under Gen. Beauregard, the Richmond paper says, are moving in the direction of Charlotte. Lee is reported to have sent 30,000 men to reinforce Beauregard.

THE NEWS.—Charleston, the birthplace of the rebellion, the city that was to be held though the heavens fell, that was to be made the last ditch wherein the bogus confederacy was to meet its extremes, is at last in our possession. It would be an act of retributive justice to raze it to the ground and sow the soil so fertile of treason with a more harmless crop of weeds, or, like the fate of Sodom and Gomorrah, leave a pile of ashes as the only memento of what was once the home of treason. Sherman is moving steadily forward, like the march of destiny. After the occupation of Columbia his troops pushed on, and at last accounts one force was near Florence and another within a few miles of Wilmington.

WASHINGTON.—A scouting party under command of Maj. Thomas Gilson went to Piedmont and surprised a party of Mosby's guerrillas, capturing a number of them. On its return the federal force was ambushed at Ashley's Gap by another body of Mosby's men and defeated, losing the prisoners it had taken and 50 or 60 men killed, wounded, and missing.

CHICAGO.—James S. McEwen and Miss Mary Rome, daughter of Andrew Rome, were married on Feb. 18 by the Rev. Dr. Halsey.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

CHICAGO.—The Inter Ocean Publishing company sued the Associated Press, the Chicago Herald company, H. H. Kohlsaat, the Chicago Daily News company, and T. S. Rogers for $500,000 for depriving the Inter Ocean of the Associated Press news service.

LONDON.—Sir Redvers Buller has promptly followed up his success at Monte Cristo by successively occupying Hlangwane hill, dominating Colenso, and Colenso itself, the Boers' main stronghold south of the Tugela river. Gen. Buller is now only twelve miles from Ladysmith and his prospects of relieving that place are good, as the Boers have detached a good part of their force to reinforce the Free State. Lord Kitchener is still hanging on to Gen. Cronje with a large force of infantry and all of French's cavalry, who have now joined the pursuit. Kitchener has three complete divisions, the 6th, 7th, and 9th, and MacDonald's Highland brigade, altogether a little short of 40,000 men.

CHICAGO.—Leander J. McCormick, the last of the three brothers who built up the McCormick Harvesting Machine company, died at the Virginia hotel, a building erected on the ground where the family residence stood before the Chicago fire. At the time of his death Mr. McCormick had no interest in the harvester company, but had transferred his financial holdings to real estate. His estate is valued at more than $6,000,000. He was 81 years old.

FEBRUARY 21, 1920.

CHICAGO.—Details for the new Armour institute to be announced today contemplate the expenditure of millions. It will be built at 75th street and Yates avenue on land once the property of "Long John" Wentworth, former mayor. Some time ago Dr. Frank Gunsaulus approached J. Ogden Armour on the subject of purchasing the 80 acre tract for the institute. Mr. Armour agreed to put up $1,000,000 to buy the land and further said he would give $5,000,000 to erect new buildings.

Peary, retired, discoverer of the north pole, died at his home here after a two years' illness of pernicious anemia during which thirty-five blood transfusions had been of no avail. THE FAREWELL ADDRESS.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—In 1796 George Washington made his farewell speech to the people of the United States. This was not a form speech. He did not talk grandly, in the modern manner, of his accomplishments. Neither did he praise the American people or try to flatter them. Instead he plainly warned the people of the United States against things which would wreck the form of government so hardly won.

He forecast future events with an uncanny power. He saw the tendencies to bureaucracy, the danger of foreign alliances and friendships. He saw the wisdom of national preparedness. He foretold the rise of certain men to more power than was theirs by right.

He pleaded with Americans to heed his council and to avoid the destiny of most nations.

He pointed out that marked friendship with one nation would turn other nations against us. This is evident in our relations with England. He warns us to beware of people who wish to promote internationalism. They would succeed in leaving us open to the intrigues of others. He pointed out that the jealous nations of Europe would always have their petty quarrels and that the only wise course for us to follow would be to remain aloof. He demanded that we maintain an armed force to protect us against these foreign nations, singly or combined. He maintained that the cost of preparedness was often cheaper than paying for an unprepared for war. He said that we must beware of dissension in our own ranks and that we must regard union as the main pillar of our nation.

This speech is very significant at this time. Now, when the government is becoming daily more centralized and tyrannical, when internationalists daily undermine patriotism, when money interests betray us to our enemy, when national defense is being thrown away, when foreign nations, especially Russia, openly advocate the overthrow of all our ideals and aspirations, and when sectionalism is raising its ugly head over public expenditures and the wet and dry question, we need another George Washington.

HERMAN TEUFEL.

AN IDLE GESTURE.

South Bend., Ind., Feb. 18.—Certainly you have a brilliant and conscientious staff reporting the London conference, but your correspondents invest it with some dignity, when it should be treated with levity.

The whole scheme is insincere. Everybody knows there will be no disarmament or even reduction. Not a nation represented there, including the United States, but secretly gloats over whatever killing superiority they may have while blandly talking of peace. Stimson may bring back an agreement. Well, if the nations will not keep their promises, contained in the famous Kellogg pact, not to fight at all, will they keep any agreement to fight only a little?

Then the senate will not approve any such agreement. Too many senators know that conditions, not writings, bring peace or prevent war. Too many have before them the melancholy experience of the Democratic party in monkeying with European politics. So it is only an idle gesture. I hope the only result of it all will be that the boys and girls over there have a good time, but this noble experimenting may go on till we do get war.

Washington said, "Keep out," but these modernists say, "Let's tangle up with 'em." Any political entanglement will surely bring war, but these people itching for the headlines don't care. At the first threat of war the very same individuals would be whooping it up for gore. MORLEY CAIN.

AN OVERSIGHT.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—How does it happen that prohibition was not blamed for the O'Brien murder? Couldn't some enterprising reporter induce Dorr to admit that "before the advent of prohibition I was a model husband"? M. B. S.

THE CHARTER OF LONDON.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Referring to Mr. John T. Bramhall's comment on the discovery of the charter of London and his deduction that it was British [i. e., Gaelic], one is moved to ask where he gets that stuff. And if the name be a compliment to London's origin [i. e., Lud-town], it may be pointed out that Lludd was an old British king, that is to say as Gaelic as David Lloyd George, that is to say furthermore, as Welsh as King Arthur. MORRISON THOMAS.

PARLIAMENT.

Gary, Ind., Feb. 17.—Your correspondent, James Conwell, seems to be laboring under a delusion when he states that a certain amendment to the British constitution was obtained through the tactics of the Irish parliamentary party. The fact is they had nothing to do with it. The measure that ended the veto power of the lords was passed by the Liberal government under the late H. H. Asquith. Some time prior to this the lords summarily vetoed what was popularly known as the "people's budget" that was introduced to parliament by D. Lloyd George, who was acting in the capacity of chancellor of the exchequer; so the Liberal government reintroduced the budget and tacked it on to a money bill, so the upper house had no jurisdiction over it. That measure still stands good—a bill automatically becomes law, ready for the king's signature if it has been twice rejected by the lords but passed by the commons for the third time.

But the difficulty that faces the MacDonald administration lies elsewhere, for the reason that the Labor government now in power is a minority one. They are in power on sufferance only, as they have no majority. Several of the measures advocated by extremists in the Labor government have no chance of passing the commons. Not only that, but also moderate ones that have the undivided support of Ramsay MacDonald cannot even reach the debating stage unless supported by a necessary number of Liberal members, while a coalition twixt Conservatives and Liberals can throw the Labor government out of power any time they feel inclined to do so. Hence the desire on the part of Ramsay MacDonald to dissolve and appeal to the country at the opportune moment in the hope that in the next general election he will be returned to power with a clear majority over the combined forces of the opposition. JOHN MORGAN.

SLOWING UP THE SURFACE CARS.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 17.—I have had occasion to use the surface transportation of practically every large city in the country and am now a daily rider of the Chicago surface cars, and I find that the Chicago Surface Lines has the fastest and most frequent service of any in the country, even though they have to contend with the least disciplined automobile traffic in the world.

Saturday I was riding a surface car north on Crawford avenue and was in a hurry to reach my destination. Our car made splendid time from 31st street to Madison street, traveling the distance in less than fifteen minutes. After crossing Madison we were detained by a Checker cab driver who was using the track ahead to park his cab while he received and discharged passengers, disregarding the gong signal of the motorman. Further on a truck driver cut in ahead of our car with his truck, holding the car back for a distance of ten blocks.

This car stopped at Augusta street to discharge passengers, Augusta street being a through street, but it was impossible for the passengers to get off the step of the car for several minutes, due to the line of autos passing on the left side of the car.

I would suggest that the traffic police department use an officer on the front of the platform of these cars until they train the slow moving traffic.

THE MARRIAGE CONTRACT.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—One of your correspondents suggest that a pamphlet be issued with each marriage license detailing the rights and responsibilities of husband and wife. If this is done and the pamphlet is read with care and understanding by the prospective bride and groom, it is my guess that most of them will back away from entering into a contract which deprives them of all their rights and places absolutely all obligations upon their future partner. SENATOR WAGNER'S JUDICIAL CAREER.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—James O'Donnett makes the statement that Senator Wagner "sat for seven years in the highest court of the state of New York, while the records indicate that Senator Wagner was never a judge in the Court of Appeals, the highest court of the state, but was, however, a justice of the Supreme court. WAR BIRDS OF '17 FLYING NO MORE, REUNION REVEALS Aces, Turned Earthlings, Meet in Chicago.

A number of quiet men, approaching middle age, congregated in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. A reunion was being held, observers concluded, because now and then a newcomer would be hailed gladly by the others. But their conversation—which was of business, politics, prohibition, the weather—gave no clue to their identity.

These same men were America's war birds of 1917-1918. They were gathered for their first big reunion—some of them a little heavier, some with graying hair—a prosaic group of business and professional men.

With few exceptions, it was revealed, the famous war pilots have forsaken aviation for other fields.

Aces Give Up Aviation.

"Scarcely any of the well known war pilots are connected with aviation today," said Maj. Reed Landis, a war ace officially credited with bringing down 10 enemy planes. Maj. Landis is now in the advertising business.

"There is Howard Knotts, who shot down seven planes, was shot himself, taken prisoner, and later made a thrilling escape from the German lines," continued Maj. Landis. "He is practicing law in Springfield, Ill. Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, one of the most famous war aces, does little flying, I understand, as chief of the technical staff of General Motors corporation. Elliott White Springs, who got ten planes during the war, still does some flying, but is not connected commercially with aviation. He's an author who does his writing in Fort Mill, S. C.

"The war flyers, perhaps, had their fill of flying during the war. It remains for the younger generation, which doesn't know the horrors of wartime flying, to forge ahead in the air."

Noted Flyers to Attend.

The reunion will continue today and will be climaxed tomorrow night with a stag banquet at 7 o'clock.

Lieut. James H. Doolittle, who was said to fly the outside loop; Maj. R. W. Schroeder, former holder of the world's altitude record; William P. McCracken, former secretary of commerce for aviation; Gen. William Mitchell, Maj. Clarence M. Young, former secretary of commerce for aviation; Capt. Rickenbacker, and many other noted aviators have accepted invitations to the reunion, which is sponsored by Chicago Aviation post, No. 651, of the American Legion, of which Daniel A. Carey is commander.

SIR ESME GETS HIGH PRAISE FOR WORK IN U. S. BY FOREIGN CHIEF

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, today cabled an appreciation to Sir Esme Howard, who is retiring as British ambassador to the United States.

"I cannot allow you to leave Washington on your retirement from the diplomatic service," said Mr. Henderson's message to Sir Esme, "without expressing my deep and sincere appreciation of the work you accomplished at the post you now are relinquishing with, I know, so many regrets.

"You must indeed be happy to feel that the relations between the peoples of the United States and Great Britain have never been more friendly and mutually helpful than they are today. This happy result is largely due, as tributes paid you recognize, to your personal influence and example. I am convinced that posterity will have reason to be grateful to you for the part you have played."

FLYING FUNERAL TO BRING EIELSON OUT OF ARCTIC

Planes of Three Nations to Form Escort.

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The finding of the body of Carl Ben Eielson noted arctic flyer, near the wreckage of his airplane 90 miles southeast of North cape, Siberia, has ended one of the greatest searches in the history of aviation, and plans were made here today to welcome an international air funeral procession to Alaska.

The body of Earl Borland, Eielson's mechanic, was found last Thursday near the wreckage of the plane, which was located on Jan. 25 by Pilots Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam. Eielson's body was found on Tuesday.

Found by Russian Flyer.

A searching party headed by Commander Slipneov, Russian pilot, located Eielson's body 200 feet from the fuselage of his wrecked plane. It was under less than one foot of snow, the wind having swept the spot nearly clear. That the ship had crashed with terrific impact was indicated that Eielson lay 150 feet from where Borland was found.

Eielson and Borland disappeared Nov. 9, last, while on a projected flight from Alaska to the icebound fur trading ship Nanuk near North cape to bring passengers and furs to Alaska.

The air funeral procession will bring the bodies of Eielson and Borland to Nome on a 500 mile flight from North cape across subarctic wastes.

The bodies must first be transported from the wrecked plane to the Nanuk. Alfred Lomen, who directed rescue oeprations, with headquarters here, has asked the American pilots, Crosson, Gillam, and Ed Young, and the Canadian, Pat Reid, to return together. The Russian aviators, Slipenov and Gladysnev, are expected to bring the total of planes engaged to six.

Search Cost $250,000.

Lomen said the Aviation corporation, of which Eielson was vice president, alone spent more than $250,000 in the search for the Alaskan flyers. Aviators of three nations participated in the search, which was hampered by blizzards, fog, brief winter daylight, lack of gasoline, and the uncertainty of where to search in the grect expanse of land and sea.

HOOVER REAPPOINTS ENTIRE RADIO BOARD; WHEELER OPENS FIRE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—President Hoover's reappointment of the entire federal radio commission today touched off another outburst in the senate against the "packing" of high places with "corporation or trust-minded" appointees, which presaged a bitter controversy before the nominations are confirmed.

Unaware that the nominations already had been received or that Commissioner Ira E. Robinson had been renominated for the chairmanship of the body, Senator B. K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] declared he had been informed earlier in the day that Robinson was not to be reappointed "because he has stood out against other members of the commission in the public interest."

"I am certainly glad to hear that," Wheeler continued when Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] told him Robinson's nomination was then before the senate. "Some of those renominated shouldn't be on that commission because from the first they have been on the side of the radio trust and against the public."

Commissioner Robinson was designated by the President for a two year term, H. A. Lafount for a five year term, Eugene O. Sykes of Mississippi for a three year term, C. McK. Saltzman of Iowa for a six year term, and W. D. L. Starbuck of Connecticut for a four year term.

Gen Scheafe was commissioned brigadier general during the Spanish-American war by President McKinley.

His military career began as a soldier in the Union army during the civil war. He was colonel in command of the state military forces both during the last years of Dakota territory and the first years of statehood.

Gen. Sheafe was the first man to bring a carload of freight into Dakota territory. He was a pioneer in steamboat traffic on the Missouri river between Sioux City and Pierre.

Golf Course at Bridewell; Prisoners to Be Caddies

Prisoners at the House of Correction are out toiling in the Bridewell front yard these days, laying sod, digging sand traps, and sinking water hazards. Within a month or two the Bridewell superintendent, James M. Well behaved inmates of the Bridewell may be allowed to caddy.

CLAIMS HE TRIED ROBBERY BECAUSE HE WAS ROBBED

Kenneth Barlow, 19, of Galva, Ill., became a freshman in crime last night. He had walked into the Fannie May candy store at Clark street and Wacker drive and handed a note to Miss Susan McTiernan on which he had written:

"I have you covered. Hand over $5 and keep quiet."

Just then Policemen Walter Graber, Dan Kenny and Bill Martirck, who had noticed his peculiar entry into the store, followed him in. They searched him but found no gun.

"I was a freshman at the Bradley institute at Peoria and I had a job there after school," the youth told the detectives. "I lost my job, so yesterday I decided to come to Chicago on the bus. I had but $4, but tonight while I was walking over on the north side I was held up and robbed. I thought I would get my money back from some one else and I might have got it if you fellows hadn't seen me."

He was taken to the station, and his father, Louis Barlow, a carpenter, was notified of the youth's arrest.

LAST INTIMATE OF LINCOLN IS DEAD AT 94

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 20—(AP)—Death has claimed the last surviving person who was intimately associated with Abraham Lincoln.

Mrs. Emile Todd Helm, 94, half sister of the martyred President's wife Mary Todd Lincoln, and long a close associate of the civil war President, died at her home in Fayette county, near here today.

Mrs. Helm had spent months of her early girlhood at the home of Lincoln in Springfield, Ill., and a friendship formed then continued during the life of the President. The fact Mrs. Helm's husband, Brig. Gen. Ben Hardin Helm, served in the confederate army against Lincoln's forces did not alter the President's feeling for Mrs. Helm. He offered Gen. Helm a commission in the Union army.

When Gen. Helm was killed at the battle of Chickamauga in 1862, Lincoln invited Mrs. Helm to the White House for an extended visit.

Mrs. Helm lived for the last twenty years at the Helm place, a colonial residence in Fayette county built by the revolutionary soldier, Col. Abraham Bowman. She is survived by one son, Ben Hardin Helm, and two daughters, Katherine Helm and Mrs. Elodie Lewis.

The Seat nobody would sit in ACTUALLY, his case was so bad that even when the car was crowded, the seat beside his was vacant. People simply wouldn't sit next to him. And he wondered why he didn't get anywhere, socially or in business.

Do you Offend? Probably

The only one who doesn't realize that he or she has halitosis (unpleasant breath) is the victim. Social ostracism follows. Don't fool yourself that you are always free of halitosis. That is folly. Surveys show 1 person out of 3 is a victim—due to the fact that the mouth is the constant scene of germ activities, some of which result in bad breath.

Don't take a chance
Keep yourself ever free of halitosis by the systematic and frequent use of full strength Listerine as a mouth wash.

Though safe and pleasant, full strength Listerine is an active germicide* which immediately attacks the cause of odors, and then, being a powerful deodorant, destroys the odors themselves.

Keep Listerine handy and use it before any engagement, that you may appear at your best. Our free Book of Etiquette may interest you. Address Dept. H-9, Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

RADICALS TURN ON BROOKHART IN TARIFF FIGHT

Defeat His Proposals for High Farm Rates.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Senate radicals balked today over boosting duties on farm products as high, for fear of adverse consequence to the export debenture enactment already incorporated in the tariff bill. Several amendments proposed by Senator S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] increasing rates were rejected at the instance of fellow radicals. These included duties on lard, cake oil, and oleo stearin.

Senator Brookhart said he wanted duties high enough so that the debenture rate, which is one-half of the rate duty, would be sufficient to do some good in lifting prices of farm commodities. Senators Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.], John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], and Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] insisted that the high rates proposed by the Iowa senator could not be justified, and that if incorporated in the bill, together with an export debenture provision, would easily furnish President Hoover with an excuse for an executive veto.

Tariff Must Be Justified.

"I hope we can retain the debenture," said Senator Blaine, "but whenever we propose a farm tariff that cannot be justified the effect is to defeat the debenture. I feel very keenly that when we make increases for which there is no justification we create a condition that will give the President an excuse to veto the bill."

As it is, the bill will carry to the White House the highest agricultural schedule in history.

Senator Brookhart proposed an increase in the duty on lard to 4 cents which is four times the present rate of 1 cent per pound. The pending bill provides a duty of 3 cents. The senate rejected the Brookhart amendment by a vote of 23 to 53. Senator Brookhart also sought to raise the duty on oleo oil from 1 cent per pound to 2½ cents and on oleo stearin from 1 cent to 4½ cents.

Duty on Bread Opposed.

The senate also refused to impose a duty on bread. Senator L. F. Frazier [Rep., N. D.] proposed a duty of 2½ per cent on bread, which is now on the free list. This was opposed by Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] and others and the amendment was rejected without a roll call. Senator Walsh asserted that the congress goes to the extreme of imposing a tax on bread "it will echo the whole country to boisterous."

On the motion of Senator Frazier, the senate increased the duty on alfalfa and alsike clover seed from 5 cents per pound, as in the pending bill, to 6 cents and on red clover seed from 2 to 3 cents per pound. The senate rejected an amendment by Senator Frazier to increase the duty on timothy seed from 2 to 3 cents. All seed rates had previously been increased from existing law.

200 SOCIETY TO SPEND $733,951; SUBMIT BUDGET

The Chicago Zoölogical society, through President John T. McCutcheon, yesterday submitted its 1930 budget to the forest preserve district board, composed of the county commissioners. The budget calls for the expenditure of $733,951 in a building program and for administrative expenses. The Chicago Zoölogical park, now under construction near Riverside, is to be completed for the World's Fair of 1933. The budget was referred to the finance committee.

The budget includes $25,620 for a bird house; $99,000 for an aquatic bird and winter cage; $46,137 for an aquatic bird house; $75,000 for paddocks and shelter for deer; $25,000 for an animal hospital; $30,000 for a monkey island; $50,000 for the purchase of animals, and $34,840 for the care of animals.

Other estimated expenses are $15,000 for boilers and electrical equipment; $27,525 for a small mammal house; $58,000 for roads, paths and terraces; $30,000 for planting and landscaping; $21,350 for administrative expenses, $35,560 for maintenance of buildings and grounds, and $75,000 for fences, balustrades and benches. The revenue is yielded through a special tax of 1.5 mills approved by Cook county voters.

GRAY ADMITS ADVICE TO POWER WITNESS TO DODGE LOBBY QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Chester H. Gray, capital representative of the American Farm Bureau federation, reluctantly admitted to the senate's lobby committee today that he once indorsed a proposal to carry propagandists paid by the American Cyanamid company, bidders for the Muscle Shoals power plant, on the pay roll of the Alabama Farm Bureau federation.

That admission and another that he advised W. B. Bell, president of the Cyanamid company, to avoid Washington for fear of a lobby committee subpoena were the high lights of Gray's testimony.

Gray was visibly embarrassed when the senators produced his testimony before the senate agriculture committee several years ago as to who financed propaganda broadcast to country newspapers in the name of the American Farm Bureau federation. Two weeks ago, Bell, appearing before a house committee, admitted that the Cyanamid company paid $7,000 to pay for the distribution. Cornered, Gray explained that he believes it was Bell's duty to make the disclosure to the senate agricultural committee and that he at first advised Bell a few weeks ago to stay away from Washington and then suggested it would be well for the Cyanamid official to appear before the house military affairs committee, a friendly group, and tell the whole story.

"You advised Bell to stay out of Washington for fear he might be called before this committee?" asked Black.

"Well—I—what have you got there?" stammered Gray.

"That's right," snapped Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], "find out what we can prove before you answer."

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA OPENED 'MID GREAT POMP

Governor General Tells Aims.

BY GEORGE SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 20.—Amid the booming of cannon and with age-old ritual, the Canadian parliament was formally opened today by Gov. Gen. Willingdon. Two days of April sunshine had banished the ice and snow from Parliament hill, and the customary jingle of the vice regal sleigh bells was absent. He drove up in an automobile.

It was a big opening day—bigger in point of attendance than any in recent years. Evening gowned women lined up in the corridors as early as 10 a. m., to secure vantage points, until 3 o'clock this afternoon. Then hundreds of them had to be left standing outside.

Tells Government's Aims.

The speech from the throne, which is supposed to herald something of the government legislative program, was read by Gov. Gen. Willingdon, seated in the senate speaker's throne chair. Premier MacKenzie King and Senator Dandurand, government leaders in the house and senate, respectively, attired in Windsor uniforms, flanked him on each side. In the absence of an American minister, Benjamin Rigg, United States chargé d'affaires, attired in formal evening dress, represented the United States.

The governor general's speech heralded the anticipated upward revision of disabled war veterans' pensions, a change in the Canadian radio broadcasting laws, by which it is expected radio broadcasting in Canada will become a national service, and other matters of purely Canadian interest.

Silent on Rum.

No mention was made of an anticipated ban upon exports of liquor from Canada to the United States. Nevertheless, the semi-official word here is that prohibition on such exports is to be enacted.

Newcomers to parliament were introduced. There are two new senators, one of whom is Mrs. Cairine Wilson, the first woman senator in the British empire.

SECRECY VEILS U. S. GRAND JURY CALL IN INDIANA

Strict secrecy yesterday enfolded the purpose behind the calling of the federal grand jury into session Monday at South Bend. Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick issued an order enjoining newspaper reporters and court attachés from reporting or conversing on the nature of the proceedings or names of the witnesses to be heard.

Meanwhile many reports were bandied about South Bend that the jury would consider the many alleged vote frauds in Lake county, Indiana, in the general election of 1928. A Washington dispatch said the jury probably would inquire into the frauds and also into liquor law enforcement in the Calumet. The last grand jury indicted 300 persons in October for booze violations and it was reported that United States Attorney Oliver Loomis had much more of the same kind of evidence to present.

It was also recalled that the Hammond term of the federal court opens March 3 and that there would be little time for an indicting body to complete any considerable investigation before that date.

GIRL ATTACKED BY HER FIANCE, SHE CHARGES

Bruised and dishevelled, Miss Mary Pempek, 18 years old, 622 North Racine avenue, went to Racine avenue police early yesterday with a complaint that her fiancé had criminally assaulted her and encouraged two companions to attempt an assault.

Joseph Rawa, 23 years old, 948 West Austin avenue, to whom she was engaged, had lured her from her home to his room by telling her his sister's child had died and that the family needed help, the girl said. There she met Walter Rozichi, 21, who roomed with Rawa, and John Suwanski, 23, of 1225 West Erie street.

Rawa gave her tea which, she believes, was drugged, and while she was in a coma, the three drove her to Navy pier, where Rawa attacked her, according to her story. Following the alleged assault Rawa drove west in Grand avenue while the other two attempted to attack her, she said. All three were arrested.

BODY RECOVERED FROM LAKE.

The body of Grover Donlon, 38 years old, 2636 Orchard street, was recovered yesterday from the lake near Diversey parkway a few hours after his coat had been found on a pier at the Irving Park beach. He had been dead two days.

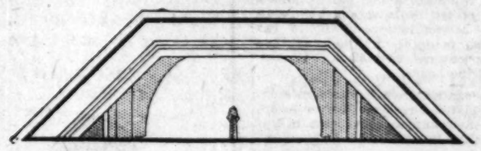
ATWATER KENT RADIO



NOW PEOPLE ARE BUYING WITH THEIR EYES OPEN

HAVE you noticed how sensible your friends have become about radio? The questions they ask are growing more shrewd. "Who made this radio?" "How long have they been in business?" "What do people who bought their sets say about them?"

Atwater Kent has made precision instruments for twenty-eight years; radio for eight. Atwater Kent Radio has gone into—just think of it!—nearly three million (3,000,000) homes!

So we have been able to build the largest radio plant in the world. Here the efficiencies of "straight line" production are made even more effective by amazing machines designed by our engineers.

We have one of the world's really great radio research laboratories. Here are men who study and experiment day and night to find new ways of improving our radio—and then adopt them only when they are proved. The marvel born of this experimenting is Atwater Kent's use of Screen-Grid tubes. It gives you enormous new power. It refines and clarifies reception and makes it more "pure" and hence more beautiful.

The Screen-Grid Atwater Kent was ahead of the field when we introduced it. With all its new improvements—it is ahead of the field today. And THAT you can prove by your own comparisons.

When you buy a 1930 Atwater Kent, you buy a proved radio from a proved manufacturer.

And despite the refinements it may offer over any other set, you pay only Atwater Kent's price!

CALL SECRETARY OF POWER BODY IN SENATE QUIZ

Bonner Must Explain to Committee.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the federal power commission, must appear before the senate's interstate commerce committee Monday with detailed defenses against charges he has encouraged power companies to defy the commission's rulings and evade provisions of the water power act.

Bonner appeared today, answering the accusations of W. V. King, chief accountant for the commission, and Charles A. Russell, the commission's solicitor, with counter charges that the latter officials were actuated by "political or self-seeking motives."

Earlier in the day President Hoover urged Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], his breakfast guest and chairman of the senate committee, to press for early consideration and passage of pending legislation to reorganize the power commission by providing for creation of a body similar to the interstate commerce commission.

Little Time for Job.

The present commissions is composed of the secretaries of war, agriculture, and the interior, who, according to King's testimony yesterday, have been able to spend only about five and one-half hours a year on the commission's business since the commission was created nine years ago.

The President, it is understood, discussing the situation with Couzens, expressed the belief the present body is useless either as a regulatory or advisory bureau, and that the responsibility now vested in the three cabinet members should be shifted to a full time commission clothed with sufficient authority to compel compliance with the law and its own orders.

Bonner protested to the committee against what he described as the "persecution" of power companies, and he warned the senators that unless the propaganda against them was curbed the power companies might abandon the use of water power and resort to steam in the production of electricity.

Evasive on Inflation Charges.

Bonner was reluctant to discuss the examples of "gross inflation" of valuation by power companies submitted to the committee by King and Russell. They both testified the examples had been taken from a report which was submitted to the house appropriations committee, but quickly withdrawn under pressure exerted by the power companies.

HOLD GROCER WAS MURDERED.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death at the hands of unknown persons yesterday in the case of Isadore Turek, 913 Crystal street, who was shot in one of three hours robbers Tuesday night in his grocery at 835 North Ashland avenue.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—An investigation into group, chain and branch banking will be started by the house banking committee next Tuesday, with Secretary Mellon or one of his assistants as the first witnesses.

Thomas Day Thacher, judge of the southern district of New York, was nominated by President Hoover to succeed Charles Evans Hughes Jr. as solicitor general of the United States.

Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board requested President Hoover to replace him as head of that government agency, but said that he would retain his membership on the board. He pleads ill health.

The senate passed a bill by Senator Deneen [Rep., Ill.], to authorize bridging the Mississippi at Savanna, Ill.

A resolution to direct the federal trade commission to investigate the ownership and control of coal deposits was introduced by Representative Schafer [Rep., Wis.].

The Norbeck-Haugen bill to impose a tax of ten cents a pound on artificially colored butter substitutes was reported favorably to the senate by its agriculture committee. It has passed the house.

A delegation from Kiwanis International invited President Hoover to address their annual convention in Atlantic City June 29.

SENATORS' FAST FINISH BEATS BLACKHAWKS, 5 TO 2

OTTAWA SCORES FOUR GOALS IN CLOSING PERIOD

Chicago Team Drops Third Straight.

Hockey Scores

Boston, 4; Pittsburgh, 0.
New York Americans, 3; Montreal Maroons, 3 [overtime], tie.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Fighting around for almost two periods, the Blackhawks suddenly found the Ottawa Senators entirely too stout for them last night and the Ottawans absorbed a well deserved 5 to 2 licking. It was the third straight defeat for the Hawks in five starts.

For two periods and a half the game was a close contest, though a stumbling exhibition due to soft ice which kept players falling at inopportune moments. Then with a one goal lead, Ottawa sailed into the Hawks and the end was a burst of scoring, six goals being poked into the nets in ten minutes. The Senators built up their lead to 5 to 0 before the Hawks could score, added another before the Chicagoans scored again and tossed in a final result with a fifth goal just before the final horn.

Senators Score First.

Chuck Gardiner, the Hawks' reliable and often brilliant goalie had a bad night, but it wasn't all his fault. Big Sylvio Abel did a few nice bits of work, especially in breaking up Ottawa plays with a sweep check, but for the most part the Hawks seemed dead on their feet. That was hardly unexpected inasmuch as the Hawks have played two overtime games with only one day's rest intervening.

The Hawks drove their tired bodies hard in the second period and at times pounded the Senators, but without avail, and the Senators found the first goal a minute and a half before the end of the period. The score came partly because Cook and Miller got tangled in Ottawa's defense zone, putting them both out of the play so by the time they got up it was too late to backcheck. King Clancy rubbed the puck near his own goal and raced down the ice, passing to Art Gagne just outside the Hawks' defense area. With no one backchecking Gagne slid around the defense, broke in on Gardiner and scored with a low shot from the side to the far corner of the net.

Ottawa Begins to Stall.

Ottawa began a stalling game in the third period, though Hec Kilrea, Ottawa's great left wing, barely missed another score when Gardiner was pulled out of net. The Hawks kept pounding without luck until nearly last time, when the burst of scoring started.

Joe Lamb started the first sally and passed to Hector Kilrea. The Hawks' defense were watching these two and Primeau bore in on the right. Kilrea's pass to the right wing was perfect and Gardiner had little chance to save. A minute and a half later Kilrea carried the puck down left wing, passing to Lamb in front of the net, and in the scramble Lamb pushed the rubber into the net.

So far the Hawks had seemed dazed by the red, white and black striped uniforms of the Senators, but in 25 seconds Dutkowski and Marsh combined to score the Hawks' first goal. Duke made the rush, passed to March inside Ottawa's defense and March hit the net with so hard a shot the puck bounced out again and the Senators' goalie protested.

Adams Draws Penalty.

The curse was still working, for Adams drew a penalty and there was a rush around the Hawks' net. Gagne scored, passed to Touhey on the left and Touhey slid an angle shot at Gardiner that the goalie might have stopped but didn't. With only two minutes to play, Dutkowski scored for the Hawks with the help of March and Somers. March got the puck on a scramble on the boards, passed to Somers in center and he pushed it to Dutkowski, whose short shot beat Connell.

But with seconds to go Clancy again started a rush, skated around back of the Hawks' net and passed out to Hec Kilrea, who shot. Probably Gardiner thought it didn't make any difference by this time, and the puck slid between his feet to the accompaniment of the dismal sound of the horn ending the game.

IN SOCIETY NOW

PHIL SCOTT.

Phil Sips Tea with Florida Society Folk

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Society had the lower classes in to tea at the Oasis club in Palm Beach this afternoon, and the Madison Square Garden corporation brought Fainting Philip Scott up from Miami to adorn the occasion.

This was very good for the ballyhoo for the impending prize fight in Miami between Fainting Philip and Jack Sharkey, which has not been commanding as much space in the newspapers of the large northern cities as the six hundred millionaires had learned to expect for their business enterprises.

Refinement on Every Hand.

Not only Fainting Philip but three of his sparring partners, Charlie Hahn, Jack Renault, and Jack De Mave, his manager, James J. Johnston; three official press agents of the Garden firm, about a dozen imported sport writers, and fifteen photographers came along in the ballyhoo party from Miami, including among the latter Mr. Izzy Kaplan of Kovno, who turned down the anchovies when they were passed, saying, "I don't like that stuff; have you got any herring?"

Refinement dripped from the very palms and pines towering over the cloister walls of the Oasis club along the trunks of which, clinging with a tenacity worthy of a better exhibition, were dozens of uniformed chauffeurs from the driving seats of the expensive cars of the Oasis club members, which were parked outside, and festoons of ragged Negro ricksha boys who pedal the wheel chairs along the tropical byways of Palm Beach, all sniping glimpses of American royalty in a democratic mood.

Gives Philip's Biography.

Tommy Loughran, who is still known as the prettiest young man in pugilism although his features have been seriously disarranged these last few years, also boxed two rounds with two unidentified men and there was a four round fight with the regulation combatant gloves between two boys giving their names as Red Hook and Billy Avery, at 125 pounds. Avery knocked Red Hook down twice in the fourth round and won the decision. Fainting Philip had been invited to train in this exclusive environment as the guest of Neddie Hutton, who seems to be out to establish himself as the modern American equivalent of the English sporting duke of Tom Figg's time, and today's brief survey of the surroundings gave him an op-

CUB PARTY SETS SAIL TO CATALINA ISLAND TODAY

McCarthy Plans Workout for Sunday.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Needles, Cal., Feb. 20.—The Cubs tomorrow will prepare to resume business at the same old stand. At noon they'll disembark from the steamer at Catalina island and the process of putting a training camp on an operating basis will be started immediately. However, this won't involve much work except for the celebrated trainer, Andy Latshaw, who will engage in sorting out uniforms and otherwise putting his clubhouse in order incidental to receiving the first rubbing table patients on Saturday morning.

About all the athletes will have to do tomorrow is to yank their golf knickers and other paraphernalia from their trunks and set forth to cleave the grass from the fairways on the new eighteen hole course established on the island. It will be an enjoyable afternoon for the youths whose ledger is a box score, but not good for the greenskeeper who will see his work of months torn asunder in a few short hours.

It's a Trick.

There was a trick concealed in Manager McCarthy's proclamation that tomorrow could be devoted to the pursuit of hobbies which for some of the athletic members include slaying the wild goats. The catch in the respite from toil was, or is, that there will be something like a workout on Sunday usually devoted to rest when no cash customers are possible. Of course if any of the boys insist on throwing a bit tomorrow nobody will stop them. Bush and Blake already have been at work in the island camp, so they probably will not take advantage of the vacation declared by the boss of the job.

So far as McCarthy is concerned the baseball labors got under way today. He awoke this morning to discover his first 1930 attack of baseball indigestion, a malady peculiar to managers who inwardly fret about their team. The attack induced McCarthy to remain in his bunk until almost noon, thus causing him to go without breakfast except for a pail of coffee fetched from the eating house at a cost of ten cents for the liquid and twenty cents for the tin container. The indigestion will persist until next October, being especially severe on days the Cubs lose a tough game.

Gabby Sleeps Late, Too.

Mr. Gabby Hartnett also was a deep and lengthy sleeper. Gabby, however, had no complaint beyond that of being tired. Upon arrival he resumed his rôle of an enthusiastic noise maker. This is mentioned merely to show that Gabby is himself again, mentally at least. Last season, when his arm was useless, he was a depressed individual. The switchback to the old order indicates that he himself is convinced that the arm is going to function again and that there is nothing to worry about.

The athletes now in the advance squad will reach Los Angeles early in the morning and after a hasty breakfast will be bussed to the Wilmington dock for the two hour steamer ride about which the bad sailors already are worrying. Fellows like Root, Malone, Moss, Teachout, Osborn, Warneke, and George Bell, all hurlers, are due to report to McCarthy before the steamer casts off its lines.

Lucky for This Athlete We're Having Spring

City Boys Test Punches for Country Lads

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Chicago boxers who have been selected through a series of preliminaries held in three sections of the city are ready to meet the best fighters of five states in the finals of THE TRIBUNE'S third annual Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament, which starts at the Coliseum on Tuesday and continues through Friday. Winners will meet the New York team at the Chicago Stadium on March 19.

Performances of the 96 fighters who qualified in the Chicago trials indicate the out of town contestants will encounter stiff opposition in every class.

Fights Start Tuesday.

First semi-final round bouts in the 112, 118, 126, and 135 pound classes will be held on Tuesday night. Two rings will be used on the first two nights and one on the third and fourth nights. This will enable the officials to whittle down the field for the qualifying rounds on the third night.

In the 112 pound class Chicago has some great little fighters. Among these is Johnny Bednar of the Great Lakes Naval Training station. Bednar is a former holder of the flyweight championship of the Pacific fleet. He is a two-fisted fighter and game to the core.

James Curtis of the Greek Olympic A. C., who won his two qualifying fights by knockouts, is another strong boxer. Dick Mastro of the West Side K. of C., a brother of Earl Mastro, contender for world's featherweight honors, is another who deserves consideration.

Sammy Levine of the Majestic Radio, who asked that his picture be printed before the trials, is a cocky sort of fighter who may go through to the finals. Sammy's picture will appear on Sunday

VARIETY IS THE WORD ON GOLDEN GLOVES TEAMS

BY FRENCH LANE.

A strange assortment of fighting boys will be in Chicago next week as members of the sixteen out of town sectional teams which are to fight in THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament.

On one team coming from a city not far from a large university there is a college senior, a street car conductor, a boilermaker, a hotel porter, two high school football players, a grocery clerk, and a chauffeur.

Members of another team include a coal miner, a brakeman, a machinist, two widely known football players, an elevator boy, a city policeman, and a druggist.

South Bend has a fighting journalist, Davenport a husky butcher boy, who is a slashing heavyweight; two bootblacks are among the bantamweight contenders, and from down in central Illinois will come a fighting barber who threatens to whip all the 160 pounders.

The Lafayette, Ind., team will be the highbrow team of the tournament. Four members are students at Purdue university, and two are high school students.

The fighting boys from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan do not represent any particular class. There are several farmer lads among the Golden Gloves aspirants. But there are just as many machinists, as many clerks, and there's a football player or two sandwiched into nearly all the lineups, and every other vocation to which a healthy, two fisted, red blooded lad is attracted will be represented.

Until they fought their way to their sectional championships many of these boys didn't know the difference between a left hook and a right cross. They knew how to defend themselves and when and where to hit an opponent to do the most damage. They are all fine physical specimens. They may be novices at boxing, but most of them know how to fight. And their sectional struggles proved they are game.

NEW SOX CAMP, GRASS AND ALL, CHEERS SQUAD

Hose Move to Own Field Monday.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 20.—Maybe this is going to be the White Sox's lucky year. Here's a ball team that travels 1,403 miles from the home base and arrives to find it has no practice premises. Then a training ground far exceeding the original hopes is uncovered.

Secretary Harry Grabiner, who was more worried about the initial faux pas than anybody else, hired himself a Mexican interpreter and discovered there was a ball stadium in the heart of San Antonio's little Mexico.

Working on the information supplied by his interpreter, Mr. Grabiner made up like a Mexican, so's not to attract attention or boost the rental, and arranged for the Sox to take over the place next Monday, the day when they must vacate the Texas league park, which they have been sharing with the New York Giants.

A Jolly Surprise.

Mr. Grabiner, or Señor Grabinez, as he is known on South Laredo street, at first didn't say much about his discovery, but simply put a large corps of groundworkers on the job. Today, however, the Sox secretary invited inspection, and, O, what a jolly surprise! The greatest grass we've seen in the south, a dandy infield, and a large outfield, all fenced in to give the hitters a chance to do their stuff later on; the freshest plat you could imagine.

Hank Fabian, expert groundkeeper of the New York Polo grounds, pronounces the field in "100 per cent better shape than the Giants' practice field."

It is true that the field is planted with winter grass, which won't be so good later on, but the vegetation will stay green and firm as long as the Sox are here.

One Objection to Field.

There is only one objection to the field that we can see. All the advertising signs are printed in Spanish, and it so happens that one of the Chicago authors has an ingrown complex of long standing. It may prove rather distracting to have him reading the signs aloud day after day.

The Sox held their first batting practice of the year this afternoon. The hitting didn't mean anything, because Pitchers Faber, Thomas, Blankenship, and Walsh were ordered not to put any fancy stuff on the ball during the brief relays they worked. But it was a serious batting practice, nevertheless, for pitchers always become stern and grave whenever they get bats in their hands.

With Thursday past, there is beginning to be some mystery about three battery men who are not here, though due last Monday. These are Johnny Riddle, youthful catcher obtained from Indianapolis a week ago; Dutch Henry, former New York Giant lefthander, picked up on waivers at the tail end of last year, and old Sarge Connally.

Says They're Signed.

Manager Bush says all the men are signed, and he does not know why they have failed to report. Connally has explained that he'd just as soon stay in his native Texas, with the Dallas club, but promised to be here if the Sox insisted. Henry may be a holdout, and it was said to be possible that Riddle might be walking over from his home in Columbus, Ga., a mere 1,000 miles away.

There are no casualties among the battery men, now that Red Faber's cold is improved, and the men on the second squad may expect to see some rather earnest spring pitching when they get here.

Pat Caraway, Vic Frazier, and Bob Weiland continue to get a lot of attention from Manager Bush and Coach Barney Kelly. All appear to be certain of the privilege of sticking around on the roster until well after the opening of the championship season.

GOOD AS EVER

BOBBY JONES.

Simpson 2d in Canadian Sprint Event

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The defeat of George Simpson of Ohio State and another triumph for Stella Walsh, Cleveland miss, furnished the high spots of the Canadian indoor track and field championships here tonight.

Simpson, after winning his preliminary and semi-final heats in the 60 meter sprint, bowed to the speed of Leigh Miller of Toronto, recent conqueror of Jack Elder, in the finals. Johnny Fitzpatrick, who finished second to Miller when the latter beat Elder, was third.

Miss Walsh came through a preliminary heat and the finals of the 60 meter sprint with flying colors, beating the Canadian star, Myrtle Cook of Montreal, in the finals in 7 5-10 seconds.

Phil Edwards, competing for the Hamilton Olympic club, won the 600 yard run; the high jump went to Harold Osborne of the Illinois A. C.; the pole vault to Vic Pickard, former University of Pittsburgh athlete; and the 1,000 meters event to Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland.

ROLL 1,441 TO SET NEW WORLD BOWLING MARK

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Rolling the huge total of 1,441, Leo Mueller and Jess Young of Minneapolis late today established a world's record for tournament competition in the doubles at the International Bowling association's tournament here. They took the lead in the two man standings here.

The previous record was held by H. Thoma and C. Thoma of Chicago, who scored 1,380 at the American bowling congress in 1924. Mueller today had counts of 221, 226 and 279. Young collected 221, 225, and 269.

Mueller also came within four pins of scoring a new record in the all events. He had a total of 2,027 for his nine games in the I. B. A. The world's mark of 2,031 is held by William Knox of Philadelphia.

TOPS SAVANNAH OPEN WITH PAR BREAKING GOLF

Invade England

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Four of the leading women golfers of the United States have accepted the invitation of Glenna Collett to accompany her on an invasion of Great Britain this summer for the first women's international team match in history, she announced today. The acceptances have come from Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J.; Helen Hicks of Hewlett, N. Y.; Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia.

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Blazing a par shattering trail in his first tournament play of the year, Bobby Jones, national open champion, shot a 67 here today to lead the field of 90 starters at the end of the first round of the 72 hole $3,000 open golf tournament. Jones was seven under par.

The Atlanta lawyer-golfer thrilled a gallery of several hundred as he stroked his way around the outward nine in 32, five under par, and came back in 35. He had nine birdies on the round.

Bobby's drives were long and straight and his approach shots were accurate, but his putting was not up to the usual Jones standard. "Calamity Jane," known throughout the golfing world as Jones' putter, needed three strokes on one green before the ball found the cup.

Two Turn in 68s.

A stroke behind the leader were Emmett French of Southern Pines, N. C., and Jeff Adams, professional at the local club.

Cards of 69 placed Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y.; Clem Welchman of Portsmouth, O., and Fairley Clark, Savannah professional, in a tie for fourth place.

Wild Bill Mehlhorn of Pensacola, Fla., who scored an ace on the third hole of the outward journey, finished in seventh place, 70. His hole in one enabled him to finish the first nine in 33, but par 37 was the best he could do on the home nine.

Horton Smith showed a card of 35—36—71. Bracketed with him at 71 were Mike Heany of Potsdam, N. Y., Joe Turnesa of New York, Ernest Ryall of Augusta, Mike Turnesa of New York, and Al Espinosa, Chicago veteran.

Sets Court Record.

Ryall, a comparatively unknown, furnished the main excitement of the outward nine when he posted a card of 31 for a new course record.

Johnny Farrell of St. Augustine, Fla., former national open king and winner of the Pensacola open last week, headed five other professionals who were clustered at 72—Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., Herman Barron of Port Chester, N. Y., Ed Schultz of Troy, N. Y., and Charles Gray of Augusta.

Here's how Bobby shot the low score of the day:

Par in	435	434	554	37—74
Jones, out	433	433	435	32

WHITE BATTLES PERLICK TONIGHT IN COLISEUM RING

It's Veteran's First Fight in Ten Years.

Featured by the attempted comeback of Charley White, one of Chicago's old time lightweights, Jack Dempsey, promoter in absentia, will stage his sixth boxing show at the Coliseum tonight. White will meet Henry Perlick of Kalamazoo in a six round engagement at 138 pounds.

The record books testify to a once great career for Charley White. Among the men he's met are Bennie Leonard, Willie Ritchie, Freddy Welsh, Pat Moran, Ritchie Mitchell, Johnny Dundee, Rocky Kansas, and a host of others. Charley met Ritchie and Leonard in no decision contests when Bennie and Willie held the 135 pound title. He lost the decision to Welsh when the Englishman was champion.

First in 10 Years.

White has been out of the ring for over ten years. But he says he has kept in shape and admits a craving to get back in the roped arena for the last four years. If he is satisfied with his showing tonight, Charley contemplates a campaign which he hopes will terminate with a fight with Sammy Mandell for the world's lightweight title.

In meeting Perlick, the local lightweight will face youth, speed, and a boxer who also carries a punch in his left hand. Henry has perfected the left hook while training with Ray Miller of the west side. In his last appearance in Chicago, Perlick fought an interesting ten round draw with Joey Medill of the west side. White and Perlick are down to weight and they will engage in light gymnasium workouts this afternoon.

Brother Meets Cabana.

Herman Perlick, a twin brother of White's opponent, and Emery Cabana of Philadelphia will clash in the eight round windup. Cabana, a French-Canadian, has never appeared in Chicago but he has met such fighters as Louis Kid Kaplan, Johnny Jadick, Pete Nebo and others. Herman has boxed Sammy Mandell, Jack Berg, Armando Santiago, and others. They will meet at 137 pounds.

Harry Fierro and Ernie Peters, local bantamweights, will meet in one of the other eight rounders. Al Greenfield, the Chicago featherweight, and Matty White of Philadelphia will be the principals in the third eight round fight. Joe King, the New Orleans heavyweight, and Walter Madey of Chicago will open the show in a six round engagement, while Jimmy Lundy of California and George Kerwin of Chicago will clash in the other fight of six rounds. The show will open at 8:15 o'clock.

portunity to see just what he had missed in declining this bid.

Philip was introduced to the company by one Sir Oliver Duncan of England, who began by saying that Phil was born in 1902, joined the British royal marines at the age of 17, and served with his majesty's forces throughout the war. This was the first mention yet made of Philip's service with the colors, indicating that some one in the management had been guilty of a grievous oversight, and emphasizing again the loss to the science of ballyhoo that occurred when Tex Rickard died.

The society reporters of the regular Palm Beach run were very cordial to the chaps from the sport departments and sat at tea tables with them in the rear of the crowd pointing out one person and another and telling what kind of soap or breakfast food their fathers or deceased husbands manufactured, breaking into excited whispers now ahd again to point out some one as a genuine society person descended from the old régime.

Some Subtle Distinctions.

It seems that not all millionaires are regarded as society persons down here and vice versa, a distinction which had never occurred to me before as I am very easily impressed by an armful of diamond bracelets or a $20,000 car and never would have thought that any one with these luxurious appointments could fail of recognition in any company.

"Ps-st," one of the society reporters hissed in a flutter of agitation. "There goes Louise Van Alen. Absolutely real society. She is a great-granddaughter of the original Mrs. William Astor. She is not one of your pickle-and-ketchup millionaires."

I learned that Miss Van Alen's father gave up his home in the United States and moved to Europe when the prohibition law became effective, stating that no gentleman would live or even die in a land so afflicted. True to his convictions, he did the rest of his living abroad and died there, too, although he might have had the same relief from the nuisance no further from home than Florida.

How Millionaires Play.

The Misses Ann and Carolyn Storrs entered the arena and were pointed out as the two young ladies who forgot to mention a trifle of some diamond trinkets to the customs men when they returned from Europe last year, in consequence of which their father, who prints theater programs, had to pay the government $110,000.

Jules Bache, Anthony J. Drexel-Hyphen-Biddle Jr., Williams Burden of Newport, Gen. Quincy A. Gilmore, and Neddy Hutton were identified in the throng, and these suggestions as to the sort of people who were present to watch Fainting Philip box will have to suffice, because a full list of the millionaires would run to about 300 names, including a great many that nobody ever heard of.

Neddy Hutton and Anthony J. Drexel-Hyphen-Biddle Jr. are the principal promoters of the boxing teas at the Oasis club. Mr. Hutton, the American sporting duke, has acquired a collection of prize fighters and his system of fighting them seems to be about the same as a millionaire horseman's plan of operating a racing stable.

He has a manager who attends to their training and match making and I suppose he takes his friends down to the Hyena house or whatever they call the fighters' stable, to feel their biceps and comment on their breathing and footwork much the same as the millionaires at Belmont and Saratoga show their friends through the barns where their thoroughbreds are quartered.

Punch Draws Titter.

The reports that Mr. Hutton was assembling a stable of pugilists for the sport of the thing was taken somewhat incredulously at first in the prize fight industry, but now that is confirmed. There is a constant pressure of applications from hopeful or lazy gladiators who wish to be taken into the Hutton herd, probably expecting to be quartered in the Hutton bedrooms with the solid gold ornaments on the bed posts and to filch an occasional gravy bowl or salt cellar from the plantinum dinner service.

Fainting Philip's boxing was not especially brilliant this afternoon, but he may have been a bit winded in the rarefied social atmosphere of the Oasis club, which was relieved only by the presence of the photographers along a balcony, the sport writers at the rear tables, and the sparring partners and press agents and his manager, Mr. Johnston, who is very versatile socially and at home in saloon or salon, as the case happens to be.

Charlie Hahn, a short, rounded pugilist, swept in under Philip's extended left hand and swung his big wadded gloves at his center with great energy and the awkward abandon of this attack embarrassed Philip perceptibly, especially when a looping right swing came up and popped him alongside his jaw, provoking restrained titters from those present.

OLD GUARD RISES TO ELIMINATE RACQUET KING

Boston, Mass., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The old guard of American racquets, humbled in 1929 by a youthful newcomer to the championship, rose in its might today to eliminate the defending titleholder and along with him Lord Aberdare and one other member of the British team in the quarter finals of the 39th annual national tournament at the Tennis and Racquet club.

In one of the most thrilling days of competition that the championship has produced, Huntington D. Sheldon of New York, the player who ended the monopoly of Clarence C. Pell and Stanley G. Mortimer last year, yielded to the latter in the fifth game of a magnificent free hitting struggle at 15-10, 15-5, 6-15, 10-15, 16-14, and Lord Aberdare fell before the veteran, Hewitt Morgan, in another five game battle that was decided by the margin of 15-13 in the last chapter. The score was 11-15, 17-14, 15-4, 16-18, 15-13.

To add to the day's exciting developments, Pell, the outstanding favorite to capture the title which he has held nine times, lost the opening game to the youthful Duncan Cambridge of England after leading at 12-6 and was trailing at 4-8 in the fourth before he was able to put a quietus on his brilliant, hard hitting young opponent at 12-15, 15-7, 15-2, 15-10. In the other match of the day, Peter Kemp-Welch kept England in the running by eliminating Charles J. Coulter of Tuxedo after getting off to a bad start and facing a deficit of 1-8 in the third game, 14-18, 15-10, 15-11, 15-5.

nington of George Kamberson's Lawndale gymnasium. Harold can hit with either hand and knows the defensive angles of the game. Sidney Kaplan of the Opal A. A. is expected to go a long way and the same is true of Art Mitchell of the St. Rita A. C. M. Seller of the 202d coast artillery should be a strong contender, while Paul Leberto of the Barry gymnasium looked very good in the preliminaries.

Benny Goldblatt of the Majestic Radio, Central A. A. U. featherweight champion, will not have an easy time winning his bouts in the 126 pound division. Joseph Roman of the Steel Works club of Joliet, Ill., showed to good advantage in his preliminary fights. Pat Rooney of the Lawndale gymnasium, Eddie Dowling of the west side K. of C., Harry Alberts of the Barry gymnasium, Earl Young of the Belle Plaine A. C., William Capitano of Kid Howard's Arcade gymnasium, and Ernest Willet of Johnny Kopp's boxing school will be hard to beat. There should be some very interesting fighting in this class and indications are some of the bouts will go into extra rounds before winners are determined.

Rapid Transit Breaks Miami Track Record

[By the Associated Press.]

Rapid Transit, as flashy a thoroughbred as ever stepped foot on a winter track, backed up his speedy name today with a demonstration of swiftness that sent the six furlong track record at Hialeah Park, Miami, into discard.

Pitted against a field of the best of the older sprinters in training in the Blue Grass allowance purse, the four year old gelding from the Kilrane stable reeled off the six panels in 1:11 flat. The mark was one-fifth of a second faster than the time made by Sun Altos on March 4, 1925.

Kenneth Russell turned the card at the Fair Grounds, New Orleans, into a field day. He was up on three winners—Gotoit, Tommy Tickle, and Seth's Ballot—and rode one second and two thirds.

The popular little rider just missed his fourth victory in the Union Point purse when he was nosed out on Whileaway by Black Cloud. The feature number, carded as the Rapides purse, and at six furlongs, went to Film from the Paradise stock farm, with consistent Taddywawa second. Russell, however, was up on Whitney's Agitator, the odds-on favorite, and booted him into third place for the short end of the purse.

At Agua Caliente the card was made up of claiming races with the fifth rated as the feature. It was a mile and a sixteenth gallop for three year olds and upward, with Fort O'Play winning. Russet, the favorite, was second, with Dubric third.

IKE WALTONS ASK CLOSED SEASON ON RACCOONS

Centralia, Ill., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The eighth annual state convention of the Illinois division of the Izaak Walton league was brought to a close here today with election of officers and selection of Joliet, Ill., as next year's convention city. Dr. E. R. Blodgett, Chicago Heights, was reelected president. Other officers are: Judge Truman A. Snell, Carlinville, first vice president; Irving Edgar, Chicago, secretary; Danna Rollin, Bloomington, treasurer, and Guy W. Wakeley, Harvard, director.

A number of resolutions were passed. The convention favored a closed season of three to five years on raccoons and asked that the legislative committee do all in its power to get the legislature to pass a bill providing for a closed season on prairie chicken for a period of ten years.

FIGURES AGAIN SHOW RISE IN BROKERS' LOANS

Total of Increase Is 44 Millions.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The fourth consecutive weekly increase in brokers' loans was reported by the federal reserve board yesterday. Such loans, made by the New York reserve member banks, on Wednesday totaled $3,494,000,000, an increase of $44,000,000 over a week ago, but still $1,983,000,000 below a year ago.

The current figures do not reflect the decline in the stock market on Thursday and yesterday, which probably resulted in canceling the latest increase in brokers' loans. But the total on Wednesday showed an aggregate expansion of $153,000,000 in the last four weeks and an increase of $136,000,000 from the low point reached on Dec. 24 following the November stock market collapse. However, the current total is $3,310,000,000 below the high mark established on Oct. 2, 1929, before the stock market collapse.

The New York banks increased their own stock market loans by $38,000,000 in the last week, while interior banks were down $2,000,000, leaving the former with loans $61,000,000 below a year ago, and the latter with $799,000,000 less. Corporations and other lenders increased their loans by $9,000,000 in the last week, but still are furnishing $1,122,000,000 less than a year ago.

Stock Values Appreciate.

The expansion in stock market credit in the last six weeks has not been unduly large in relation to the advance in stock prices. The market value of all shares listed on the New York Stock exchange totaled $69,-000,000,000 on Feb. 1, which marked an appreciation of $4,300,958,398 over Jan. 1. However, loans to New York exchange members declined $4,742,208 during January to a total of $3,984,-000,000 on Feb. 1. The ratio of loans to aggregate market value of all listed securities was 5.77 per cent on Feb. 1, compared with 6.16 per cent on Jan. 1, and with 9.48 per cent on Feb. 1, 1929.

That the federal reserve authorities are content to maintain the credit supply and interest rates on about the present level is indicated by the weekly statement of the reserve system, issued last night. While member bank borrowings declined $4,971,-000 in the last week, the reserve banks bought $4,973,000 of bankers' acceptances and $2,055,000 of government securities, thus more than offsetting the contraction in bank credit. Member bank borrowings now total $71,961,000. Deposits at the reserve banks remained about stationary, but note circulation dropped $26,283,000. Gold and total reserves increased $2,450,000 and $3,473,000 respectively. The ratio of reserves to liabilities rose to 78.5 per cent, compared with 77.9 per cent a week ago.

The New York reserve bank made no change in its 4 per cent rediscount rate. Its report showed an increase of $9,479,000 in member bank borrowings, bringing this item to $88,777,000. The reserve bank reduced bankers' acceptances by $4,333,000. Deposits increased $34,413,000. Reserves expanded $2,200,000, but the reserve ratio sagged to 75.1 per cent, compared with 76.1 per cent last week.

Chicago Borrowings.

The report of the Chicago reserve bank shows that member bank borrowings declined $11,859,000 to a total of $54,079,000. The reserve bank bought $2,927,000 bankers' acceptances. Deposits declined $1,844,000. Reserves increased $4,081,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 80.9 per cent, compared with 79.8 per cent a week ago.

The international gold movement favored the United States during the week ended last Wednesday. Imports of $7,495,000 were received from South America and exports were only $19,-000 to Germany. There was no change in gold earmarked for foreign account. In addition, gold to the amount of $8,000,000 arrived in San Francisco yesterday from Japan, following a shipment of $3,700,000, which arrived three days ago. Japan has sent $25,000,000 of gold to this country since its embargo was lifted and considerably more is expected.

New York, Feb. 20.—The Pennsylvania railroad reported today that its net income in 1929 set a record. The amount was $101,360,971, equal to $8.82 a share on the $50 par capital stock, against $82,507,613 or $7.35 a share in 1928.

The net income last year was equal to 17.64 per cent on the $575,756,400 of capital stock outstanding Dec. 31, against 14.69 per cent on $561,673,550 of stock outstanding a year previously.

Traffic was greater in 1929 than in 1928, but below the high years of 1923 and 1926. As was previously published, freight revenues increased and passenger revenues decreased, but the percentage decrease of passenger traffic was the least in three years, indicating that the downward trend was halting. Operating revenues advanced 4.9 per cent but expenses advanced only 2.7 per cent.

Dividends paid in 1929 totaled $46,-825,000, the largest disbursement in the company's history and an increase of $8,664,000 from 1928.

In 1929 the company applied $4,962,-000 to sinking and other reserve funds and $636,000 to advances to and construction expenditiures of leased and affiliated lines. Profit and loss surplus was $48,925,000 and brought total profit and loss surplus to $230,834,000 on Dec. 31.

Nonoperating income, chiefly dividends on stocks and interest, totaled $48,791,000, an increase of $4,255,000. Deductions from gross income increased $1,344,000 to $30,570,000. Interest on funded debt was decreased $1,000,000, chiefly through the retirement of equipment trust certificates in 1928 and 1929.

CRASH OF GRAIN VALUES RAGES ON UNCHECKED

Holdings of Farm Board Suffer.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

World-wide demoralization continues in grain and, despite heavy covering yesterday by shorts, prices for wheat, corn, oats, and rye in all North American, Canadian, English and southern hemisphere markets dropped for the third successive day to new low figures for the crop year.

Practically every bushel of cash grain held by speculators at the finish last night showed a loss, and the farm boards' stabilization corporation, which was recently said to have secured around 10,000,000 bu of cash wheat, had an average loss of 10c in its holdings, or around $1,000,000.

The crash in wheat prices which at the inside figure yesterday showed the March delivery in Chicago 54¾c under the high point of last summer has sent values below production costs in many sections of the country, and the same is regarded as applying to other leading producers.

Disparity Continues.

Drastic as has been the decline in values during the last week with futures in Chicago showing 11⅛@ 12⅜c under the high of the previous week, it has failed to correct the disparity which exists as compared with other leading exporting countries. No. 2 hard winter wheat at Chicago was offered for sale from elevators free on board cars at 5c under the May future, or $1.08¼ per bu based on the final trades in that delivery, and only 3⅜c under the March option in Liverpool. The same grade of wheat was offered at the gulf at Chicago May price f. o. b., or actually 1¼c above Liverpool March.

As the trade sees it a Chinese wall has been built up around the United States, with little or no chance remaining that there will be any material foreign demand for the estimated exportable surplus of 250,000,-000 bu regarded as held in this country.

On Jan. 1 it is figured there was approximately 580,000,000 bu wheat in all positions in the United States, of which bread and seed requirements would probably take care of only 295,000,000 bu during the last half of the crop year. On July 1, 1929, the carry over into the new crop aggregated 245,000,000 bu, and relatively little change is expected to be shown at the end of the present season.

Cite Overproduction.

Continued overproduction of wheat and rye throughout the world is regarded as entirely responsible for the continuous decline in the two grains which has been under way for nearly 6 months. At the beginning of the season the prospective near crop failures in Canada, Argentina, and Australia with a much smaller yield in

Sees Danger Sign in Some Legislative Experiments

BY SCRUTATOR.

Experiments in legislation, often undertaken without a full knowledge of the conditions they will cause or promote, have in the past had the effect of injuring the economic welfare of important business institutions; often, indeed, hurting entire populations in the governmental subdivisions that pass them.

In the charter of the city of Grand Rapids, Mich., is a provision that any bonds bought with receipts of sinking funds shall be stamped in a certain manner across the face of the instrument. Doubtless this was done with the laudable intention of preventing any one taking such bonds and getting rid of them without discovery.

But, it was pointed out yesterday by Arthur G. Davis, field secretary of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, the stamping of the face of the bonds destroys their negotiability to a great degree. Sales of bonds that are defaced cannot be made, or can be made only with elaborate restrictions, on the recognized exchanges. Substantially, the effect is to destroy the possibility of selling the bonds so stamped to strangers.

Must Hold Bonds.

So the city must hold its bonds until they mature or find buyers who are willing to take the risk of having non-negotiable securities in their portfolios.

The state of Kentucky, in its latest blue sky law, permitted an amendment to the original bill commanding that mortgage notes and bonds issued should have printed in 18 point type on the face the words: "This note is secured by a first (or second, or third) mortgage or deed of trust," as the case may be."

For the reason that this is in conflict with the almost universally adopted law governing negotiable instruments, and destroys in some measure the marketability, Mr. Davis has found that some of the larger issuing houses make no attempt to sell bonds in the state. The people of Kentucky are denied an opportunity to purchase a number of high grade securities because of this law.

Cites Arkansas Law.

In Arkansas there is a law which states that no matter what the intangible assets of a corporation may be, they may not be listed as more than 20 per cent of total assets. A newspaper consolidation, with both papers well equipped in advertising contracts and circulation, was unable to finance in the home state because of the 20 per cent requirement. Obviously it is foolish to hold that 80 per cent of a newspaper's value should be in real estate and mechanical equipment. The financing was readily done in an outside state and Arkansas financiers were barred by the law from a share in it.

Instances of the kind can be multiplied. The intentions of the lawmakers are good. Their bills are designed to prevent certain evils. Obviously it is proper to prevent frauds. The trouble is that in doing it the lawmakers go too far sometimes and injure legitimate business and investors.

New York, Feb. 20.—The stock market turned definitely sour today. Traders put on long faces and just let things go to smash.

The bears immediately got busy, profit taking became the fashion, liquidation developed, and prices went tumbling in every direction. The losses in the more active list ranged from 1 to 5 points with enough sharper declines to give bull die hards food for some really serious thought.

From all indications the much feared reaction is at last at hand. Nobody pretends to know just how far it may go but the belief seems to be

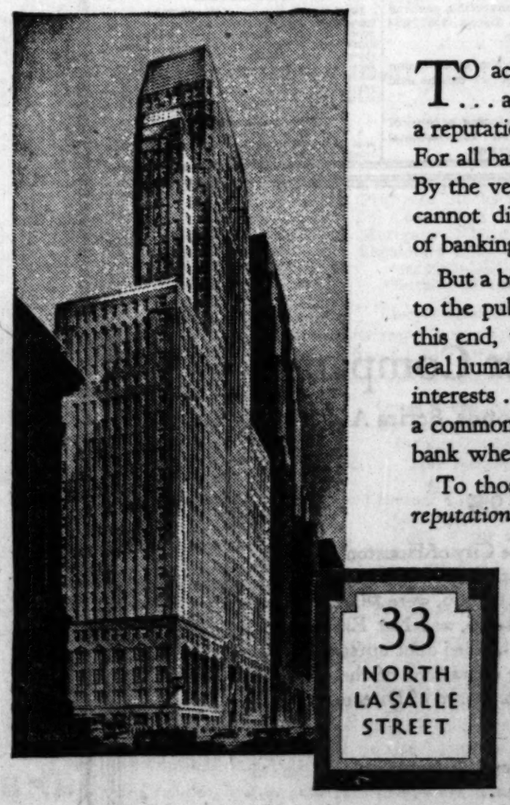
Preserving—an Old-Fashioned Principle



TO achieve true greatness in the eyes of its patrons . . . a bank, like any business institution, must have a reputation. But a reputation for what—you may ask. For all banks have practically the same types of service. By the very nature of the banking business—one bank cannot differ greatly from another in the fundamentals of banking.

But a bank can differ in its manner of rendering service to the public—in the spirit of its relations with them. To this end, we are governed by this code of service "to deal humanly with our clients . . . to share their common interests . . . to serve with generous understanding on a common ground with our patrons . . . to make this a bank where people feel at home."

To those who know this institution well—this is our reputation. To those of us within the bank—it is a law.

In facilities . . . in ability to serve . . . we are one of the world's truly complete banking institutions.

We have shown a constant growth since 1862—yet neither long years nor great physical size could alter in the slightest degree this old-fashioned principle upon which we have built our reputation for service.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES LOWER; GRIGSBY SLIPS

Stockholders O. K. Boost in Capital Stock.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Prices were uniformly lower at the close yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Grigsby-Grunow slipped from its perch at 17¼ and finished the day at 16 on sales approximating 43,000 shares.

Transactions in Grigsby, Middle West, and Field accounted for more than a third of the total volume. Middle West and Field fared little better than Grigsby, closing down 1⅛ and ⅝, respectively.

Stockholders of the Grigsby company yesterday approved the increase in capital stock from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 shares. It was stated definitely by officials of the company that directors have no present intention of issuing any of the additional stock authorized. At the time the increase was originally proposed it was explained that the new stock would be used for expansion purposes.

Dividend Possibilities.

There has been a great deal of speculation as to whether the company will continue to pay dividends. Although it is expected that the company will earn dividend requirements by a good margin in its current fiscal year, it is said that directors are considering the advisability of suspending payments to conserve cash. It is pointed out that Grigsby is about the only radio firm paying dividends at the present time.

Announcement in San Francisco yesterday that the Magnavox company will reincorporate under the laws of Delaware to facilitate possible consolidation with other radio firms started a report that Grigsby is planning to absorb the company. There have been several patent suits between Grigsby and the Magnavox company, which is at present organized under the laws of Arizona. It has been suggested that outright purchase or acquisition of a controlling interest might be cheaper than litigation.

F. W. Dobrzenski, speaking for President R. A. O'Connor of the Magnavox company, made the announcement of the reorganization, according to the Associated Press. He also stated that the firm had been granted a valuable patent covering radio-phonograph combinations on Jan. 28.

The close found most of the utility and automotive stocks at lower levels. The recessions were moderate, however. In the utility group United Gas finished 1¾ lower, Central and Southwest fell an even point, Cities Service lost a fraction, and Commonwealth Edison fell back 5 points to 271.

Seen Probable Purchaser.

Auburn on light sales dropped 7. Bendix and Borg Warner were moderately depressed. Pines Winterfront succeeded in bucking the current and sold up a point. Wahl was up 1 with reports that the company is planning to dispose of its automotive division which showed a considerable loss last year.

Bendix is mentioned as the probable purchaser of the Hydraulic Brake Associated, Ltd., holding company of the Hydraulic Brake company. Stockholders of the latter firm have been asked to vote on a proposition calling for the sale of the company to unnamed interests at the annual meeting in Los Angeles. Bendix officials have declined to comment but intimated that some statement may be made today.

The Associated Telephone Utilities company will spend more than $2,000,000 for improvements in its Pacific coast properties during 1930. Expenditures of more than $1,000,000 annually is called for in the three year program of the Long Beach district.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb 20.—(AP)—COTTON goods were dull with prices easier in the gray goods division. Finished cloths continue to move well, especially printed lines. Burlaps showed little change. Wool goods manufacturers are now on a lower price basis for staple goods for fall. Silks were quiet with printed lines doing better than other divisions.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

A 13 point improvement in Johnson Motor on the Chicago Curb exchange yesterday was attributed by E. L. Van Sickle, vice president of the company, to the increase in the volume of shipments and unfilled orders over a year ago. Walgreen and Fourth National Investors also advanced but otherwise the tone was weaker.

Allan S. Noyes of David A. Noyes and Company has bought a Chicago curb membership for $10,000, an advance of $1,000 on the last previous sale.

Combined receipts at Chicago today, 1,500 cattle, 35,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep.

The additional break of 5@15c in the hog market at the opening yesterday brought larger orders on both local and shipping account, resulting in a good clearance at the decline. Some closing sales were in line with the general selling the previous day. The extreme top moved down 15c at $11.15, while the general average closed only 5c loss at 10.55, but compares with an average of $10.95 Monday when top hogs were selling at 11.50. Small packers, city butchers and shippers bought a combined total of more than 20,000 and few good grades were in the 6,000 estimated at the close.

Encourages Traders.

Prospects of smaller supplies the remainder of the week encouraged some traders to hold hogs off the market and there was a better undertone at the finish. Five markets expect only 57,000 today, against 77,800 the previous Friday.

The cattle market showed more uneven and finished weak to slightly lower on all but good grades which were scarce. Quality was poorer than usual, and the extreme top at $14.50 was lowest Thursday since last March.

Top steers last Thursday sold at $15.75. Good grades of yearlings averaging 881 lbs. topped the market at $13.60, well finished stock eligible to $13.60 and above being present. Choice 1,017 lb beeves reached $14.40. Cows and heifers were slow to sell at the week's decline of 50c to $1.00. Calves declined 25@50c more, showing $1.00@1.50 loss for the week. Stockers and feeders were scarce and unchanged.

Best Lambs Steady.

Better grades of fat lambs held steady yesterday, while others ruled weak to 25c lower in spite of the continued small receipts at all leading centers. Choice 79 lb, averages reached $12.90, while most 85@90 lb, lambs sold at $11.25@11.75 and extreme weights in small lots at $9.50@10.00.

Movement of lambs from leading points has been smallest in several weeks. The four day total at 20 markets shows a decrease of 58,000 head. Aged ewes were firm at $6.00, while 98 lb. yearlings at $9.00 were considered steady. Feeding lambs met good demand at $10.50 and below.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,500 cattle, 25,000 hogs and 4,000 sheep, against 1,711 cattle, 21,295 hogs and 10,615 sheep, the previous Friday and 2,340 cattle, 23,117 hogs and 6,305 sheep, a year ago.

CRASH OF GRAIN VALUES RAGES ON UNCHECKED

World Selling Hits Farm Board Holdings.

the United States resulted in widespread bullish enthusiasm. This view was not shared by European importers who had bought immense quantities of cash grain during the latter part of the 1928-'29 season at low prices, and, with a record or near record crop of both wheat and rye, withheld from taking North American wheat in volume, Argentina dumping 100,000 bu old grain into the hands of reluctant foreign buyers even at the low figures offered by the latter.

The world's wheat crop for 1929-'30 is officially estimated at 3,428,000,000 bu, against 3,943,000,000 bu in 1928-'29, exclusive of Russia and China, but the supply of the previous year was swelled 421,000,000 bu by the carryover to a total available for the season of 4,384,000,000 bu, the largest holding in the history of the world.

So far no effort has been made to curb the steady increase in the world's wheat acreage by the governments of the leading exporting countries, except for mention made by the American farm board, which has suggested that producers in the northwest curtail the area under spring wheat. Instead suggestions of government controlled pools have been made in both Australia and Argentina, the overproduction factor being ignored. While exporters have been increasing their acreage, so have importing countries, and should Russia become a heavy exporter during 1930-'31, the grain trade in Chicago fears that even prevailing prices might appear high.

Longs Sell Wheat Freely.

Long wheat came out freely throughout the day on the Chicago Board of Trade, and while there was heavy short covering and also buying against weekly bids, it was said that many short lines were reinstated toward the last, causing the closing break in the market, with net losses here of 1¼@1⅝c, March being $1.08⅜@1.08⅞ and May, $1.13⅛@1.13¾.

Winnipeg again headed the decline and lost 2¼@2⅝ for the day, while Liverpool was off 1⅜@2¼d, Buenos Aires 1¼@1⅜c, and Rosario 1¼c, all deliveries in every market selling at a new low for the season.

Foreign demand for cash wheat was better with sales of around 1,000,000 bu in all positions, largely Manitobas, with the continent taking two cargoes at the Pacific coast.

Corn Rallies Sharply.

While all deliveries of corn broke early to a new low on the crop there was not the widespread liquidation so apparent in wheat, and free buying by leading local professionals brought about a rally of nearly 2c from the low point, May having touched 89c, and the finish was at net gains of ⅛@⅝c with March, 84¼c, and May, 88⅛@88¾c. Argentine exportable surplus of corn is estimated by Broomhall at 293,000,000 bu, or about 50,000,000 bu more than the probable exports during the present season, and compared with 253,000,000 bu two years ago.

Scattered liquidation was on in oats, but there was a good class of buying and the close was strong with prices ¼c lower to ⅜c lower, March being 44⅛c and May 43¾c.

Persistent heavy liquidation was on in rye, with indications that eastern long lines of May were being sold out, and all deliveries sold at the lowest figures of the season. Closing trades were ¼@2c lower, with March leading.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today and prices declined 1-32c to the basis of 3.55c for duty frees. The only sale reported was 37,000 bags of Porto Rican due early in March at 3.55c to an outport refiner. First prices were unchanged to 1 point lower and thereafter the market continued to work downward, closing with net losses of 2@3 points. Approximate sales, 84,000 tons. Prices follow:

MARCH EGGS DECLINE

February egg futures lost ⅝c or $45 a car on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Heavy receipts brought on further liquidation. March futures went to a new low for the year at 25¼c and November refrigerators also touched new low at 29¼c. Sales were 150 cars and receipts 17,448 cases.

First sale of the year was made in April fresh butter futures at 34½c. February and March storage futures were easier. The week's butter make was almost 300,000 lbs under a year ago but the storage movement was discouraging. Sales were 123 cars and receipts 6,867 tubs. Prices follow:

Export clearances were 134,800 lbs of lard and 122,500 lbs of bacon. Cash trade in meats was fair. Hog receipts at western points were considerably less than a week and a year ago and decidedly under those of two years ago. Prices follow:

STATE PLANS TO BUY UP WHEAT AT 96C IN AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Parker Moloney, federal minister of markets, today said the government desired to give farmers a proposed guarantee price of 96 cents a bushel for wheat delivered at county sidings.

This price will be furnished if a compulsory marketing pool is formed, the minister added. The establishment of this pool is being considered by state governments and wheat growers' associations after an All-Australia conference.

The railway commissioner at Perth, western Australia, estimates that state's harvest at 40,000,000 bushels, a new record.

RAILROAD NOTES

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad may build ten baggage cars, on which bids were asked recently, in its own shops. The inquiry for ten gas-electric cars which the road had planned to buy has been reduced to five.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway has authorized expenditures totaling $24,000,000 for January and February, against $3,000,000 in January, 1929.

The Union Pacific railroad is understood to be in the market for twenty-five locomotives and the Missouri Kansas Texas lines for one hundred Mikado cars.

The Canadian Pacific gross for the second week of February was $1,000,000, against $3,426,000 in the same week, and for the period Jan. 1 to Feb. 14 gross was $18,224,000, against $21,000 in the like 1929 period.

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by some men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house, inquiring for him, and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Doc Brown, who he claimed had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim goes to the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She tells him she has come to speak to her brother, Steve. Jim guides her to where Steve is sitting in a poker game with Shear, Buck Roe and others. As they reach the table the lights go out and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's right hand is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark and some one had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

A THREAT.

"How would you like to have Ellen for a wife, Sam?" old Dave asked.

Again the young man looked her over. "She's quite a hellcat, I hear. But anything you say, father."

"I'm not going to be his wife. I wouldn't marry him if he was the only man in the world," Ellen said passionately.

"Clay, then," suggested Dave Moss. "He is a h'l mite rough, Clay is, but a heart of gold, dearie."

"No."

"That leaves only little Dave, my Benjamin. He's young, but time will cure that. I'll send for Dave and we'll have the ceremony tomorrow."

"I won't have anything to do with it. I told you I didn't want to marry. Why do you pester me?"

"For yore own good, my dear. I consider myself in a sense yore guardian, and I can't have you falling under the influence of an evil man like this young Rutledge."

"What do you mean falling under his influence? I hardly know him. I've only seen him twice."

"Twice is enough. We must protect you from him, though I hope to see the hangman do that."

He gloated, his big shapeless body shaking with unholy mirth.

"Why do you say that when he didn't do it?" she said indignantly. "I know he didn't kill Joe Shear, for I was dancing with him just a moment before. He couldn't have done it."

Moss shook his head mournfully. "Shows what a hardened villain he must be. Of course, he did it. Buck saw him shoot the light out. So did Pete. It was a trap. His lawless cowboys came in to support him. All arranged beforehand. Nobody else could have done it."

"We can't lie a man's life away"

"Buck Roe could have done it," she challenged. "Or any one— any one in the room."

"Maybe Shear did it himself," Dave murmured ironically. "He likely stayed over and borrowed yore friend's knife and gouged himself by accident."

Ellen's throat grew hot. She felt herself on the verge of tears, and she fought to choke down the lump that was gathering. This man wanted to frighten her in order to bend her to his will.

"Steve says that Buck had quarreled with Mr. Shear. They were sitting next to each other. Maybe——"

"Yore brother talks too much. We'll find a way to stop that." The man's oily voice had grown cold and hard. "Listen, girl, I've put up with enough from you and from him, too. Get it into yore heads that what I say goes. You are going to marry Pete tomorrow. He's going to stand there and smile and like it. Steve, I mean. What's more, he's to talk when I say it and keep his tongue padlocked when I give the sign. Understand?"

She controlled the fear fluttering in her breast. "Why should you talk that way to us? We're not yore slaves. We're living in a free land. You can't act like—like you're the czar of Russia and send us to Siberia—or somewhere."

"Can't I?" His black eyes gleamed malicious triumph. "That's where you're wrong, my dear. I can send him to the pen whenever I say the word."

The bottom dropped out of her courage. "You wouldn't do that," she begged. "You and yore boys have made him what he is. If he did something—broke the law—it was because you led him to do it."

"That's a nice way to talk," he told her virtuously, "and every one of us trying to keep him straight."

"Steve is good, if he is wild and reckless. You know he is."

"I've protected that boy, but I expect I'll have to stand aside and let him pay for what he's done. Neither he nor you are grateful."

"Is it about—about that money he was playing poker with?" she begged.

"You seem to know all about it," he said, rubbing his chin with the palm of a hand and watching her as a cat does its mouse.

"I knew something was wrong. That's why I went to try to stop him from gambling. I don't know what's come into Steve. He doesn't tell me anything any more," she wailed.

"He's in a tight sure enough, missie. The bills he was playing with were marked. They were stolen from the Ellsworth stage."

"O!" she cried out. "Do you mean he—helped to hold up the stage?"

"How would I know where he got them?" old Dave asked, lifting his hands in deprecation of such a question. "Point is, he had 'em, and possession is nine points of going to jail."

She knew that Dave Moss had somehow contrived to bring it about. That was like him, to arrange a trap in order to get somebody into his power.

"Do the officers—does Mr. Manders know he had the bills?" Ellen asked despairingly.

Old Dave shook his head gloomily. "Don't know. They can't have much evidence except the bills themselves. It wouldn't be easy to prove they were the ones Steve had—unless Buck or Pete happened to have noticed them. Reckon Steve had—unless Buck or Pete happened to have noticed them. We can get the boy off slick as a whistle, if you and he will behave yourselves."

"What must I do?" The girl's heart was heavy with dread.

"Be reasonable. Do like I tell you to do. Stay away from that fellow Rutledge and have nothing to do with him. Quit standing up for him like you've been doing. Think I don't know how you went to Pendleton with a message for him?"

"He stood up for me. He showed the sheriff how I couldn't have killed Mr. Shear."

"Nothing to that. It was plain you didn't do it. What he was playing for was to get you to alibi him. And you fell right in with his scheme. Now listen, Ellen. He killed Shear. We're aiming to prove that and to have him hanged. You've got to do yore share by telling the acts."

"I have. I've told everything."

"No you haven't. The fact is that you saw him shoot out the light and then he slipped away from you in the dark. That's all I ask of you."

"But I can't. It's not true."

His shallow, cruel eyes, his thin lip smile, held her fascinated. Her soul shrank out in horror at the evil in him.

"Sure it's true. Now you be a good girl and do like I tell you and there won't any harm come to Steve. I'm that boy's friend. I'll look after him and see he makes the grade. Tomorrow you and Pete will be married nice and comfy, and you'll be as happy as a pair of turtle doves."

"I can't, Mr. Moss. I don't love him. Don't make me marry Pete," she pleaded.

"You'll like him fine once you're married, my dear. It's for yore own good. And for Steve's. Don't forget that."

Ellen wrung her hands. "Why haven't I a father? Why do I have to be bullied into this? You can't be so heartless, Mr. Moss. I'm just a girl. I'd rather die. I would. Believe me."

"Now—now—now. Don't be plumb foolish, child. We can't all do every thing we want. Things ain't fixed that way for us. I wouldn't say a word if it wasn't for yore own best good. I allow to be a father to you and mean. Now you and Pete have been keeping company for quite a while."

"I haven't kept company with him. I've always told him I wouldn't marry him. If you won't make me do this I'll do anything else. And I'll see Steve behaves—does what you want him to."

"Meaning that you and Steve will see it my way what took place at the cabin?"

"O, Mr. Moss, anything but that—anything else. We can't lie a man's life away. You wouldn't ask it. Surely you wouldn't."

"She means she'll do anything if it's what she happens to want to do," Dave Moss turned.

"Stuart Portrait of Washington Sold for $2.00"

Chicagoan Tells Romance of $75,000 Picture.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

With tomorrow Washington's birthday it seems quite suitable to tell this morning a story which has come in about the Gilbert Stuart painting of Washington, which hangs in the Art institute and was purchased through the efforts of a number of citizens and a great many thousands of pennies from the school children of Cook county for a price of $75,000. The story is from Dr. Antony Kimmel Warner of Chicago. He writes:

"Barnum's hotel was an historic landmark of Baltimore. All the statesmen and celebrated personages of the last century congregated there. Charles Dickens in his American notes gives an interesting description of this ancient hostelry, which he visited while here on a lecture tour. About thirty years ago it was torn down to give place to the present imposing courthouse. Just before it was wrecked all the contents were sold at public auction.

"Among its unsuspected valuables was a portrait of George Washington. It was sold for $2.00! Dr. W. H. Crim of Fayette street, Baltimore, took it home, rolled up under his arm, and stored it away in his attic. After a few months he brought it out and had it stretched and rebacked and framed in a narrow frame costing only $100. Dr. Crim was well known in Baltimore. He kept six horses, four under harness all the time, while two were resting. He was an extremely handsome and picturesque man of large proportions, wearing a broad brimmed hat. His family was so poor that he had walked the ninety miles to Baltimore and worked his way through medical college.

"With professional success and increasing fortune he became a collector. His large three story house was crammed with curios and works of distinction. He employed a Negro guard to watch them. Visitors from New York and Philadelphia and Boston came. The portrait of Washington attracted great attention. He refused an offer of $6,000 for it. At his death his collection was inventoried at half a million dollars. The portrait of Washington was sold to a rich New Yorker. Then it was that the painting was discovered to be the famous Gilbert Stuart portrait. A few years ago Chicago school children and a group of citizens bought the canvas for $75,000.

Professor at U. of C. Gets Some Original Pamphlets by Paine

From an obscure Russian book seller of Brooklyn, N. Y., Dr. Marcus Jernegan, professor of American history at the University of Chicago, has obtained for the university a rare and valuable collection of "Americana," dealing with the revolutionary period.

Verbatim exchanges of political opinion among such patriots as Washington, Jefferson, Franklin, Adams, Hamilton, Paine, and Burr are recorded in the contemporary pamphlets, essays, letters, almanacs, and newspapers in the collection. Among the items is a series of 106 pamphlets by and about Thomas Paine, "The Firebrand of the Revolution."

All editions of Paine's famous tract on "The Crisis," which Washington had read to a discouraged continental army, containing the phrase, "These are the times that try men's souls," are included in the collection. There also are original editions of Paine's "Rights of Man" and "Age of Reason," and his "Common Sense" that Washington is declared to have said prompted him to decide to support the cause of independence. It was issued at a time when the colonists insisted that they were being deprived of the rights of Englishmen.

CHERRY TREE FADES AS PUPILS PREPARE WASHINGTON FETES

The George Washington described yearly to school children is less and less the person depicted by Weems in the book that made the cherry tree and hatchet famous.

That change is indicated in the programs planned for schools all over Chicago today. Many programs, celebrating his birthday, Feb. 22, will be supplemented by different phases of American history. Civic responsibility will be stressed.

The inauguration of Washington will be portrayed by McKinley High school's public speaking and debating club. At Morgan Park, a tableau will show how Washington carried on the tradition of the Pilgrim Fathers. The Sullivan Junior High school pupils will show, in costume, previous periods of American history. The pupils of the Stockton Junior High will apply Washington's virtues such as obedience, self-control and reliability. The signing of the Declaration of Independence will be protrayed by Herzl Junior High. The Graham Junior High will show "Washington at the Helm of State."

The first mass meeting of the Pioneer Citizens club tomorrow morning at the Drake hotel will reflect the newer views. The club was formed recently by the Chicago Historical society in coöperation with the board of education and heads of private and parochial schools. The society's purpose is the teaching of good citizenship and respect for American traditions. Each delegate wears an emblem picturing old Fort Dearborn.

At 10 a. m. delegates selected by schools for their leadership—about 1,000 altogether—will meet at the Chicago Historical society. Preceded by the Senn High school band, and accompanied by the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, several real American Indians, and a police escort, they will march north on Dearborn street to Chicago avenue, then to Michigan avenue and north to the hotel at Oak street. There they will be addressed by Frank J. Loesch. He will speak on "Citizenship." Dr. James A. James, of Northwestern university, will talk on "Washington the Pioneer."

Perhaps the most comprehensive celebration of Washington's birthday with a modern note added, will be the naval celebration at Glen Ellyn under the auspices of the Glen Ellyn Lions club. A bonfire, fire works, cruising airplanes and a community mass meeting will be held tomorrow night.

Rear Admiral W. S. Crosley, commandant of the ninth naval district will make the principal address at 8 p. m. in the Glenbard High school. The United States Navy Band from Great Lakes, the Chicago Board of Trade American Legion drum and bugle corps, and the Riverside, Ill., glee club will participate.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd now on his exploring expedition in the South Pole area, who was invited several months ago to the Glen Ellyn celebration, sent a radiogram Tuesday to W. W. Shaw, Jr., of the Glen Ellyn Lions club conveying "my deep regret that I can not join in this unique recognition of the part of the navy played in the establishment of this nation and has continued to play from Washington's day to this in the maintenance of its integrity."

Lieutenant Commander Charles Emery Rosendahl of the United States naval air station, Lakehurst, N. J. will describe the Graf Zeppelin's flight around the world at the Washington's birthday luncheon tomorrow of the German club at the Morrison hotel. He was an official observer for the United States Navy on the Zeppelin's flight.

The Bon Homme Richard camp of the Heroes of '76 will hold a continental pageant and dinner dance tomorrow evening at the Medinah Athletic club. The Third Field artillery, Admen's post and La Salle hotel post of the American Legion, 132d Infantry, R. O. T. C., Boy Scouts, D. A. R., and other patriotic groups will take part. The Steuben club, 188 Randolph street, will give a dinner tomorrow evening.

Garden Reflects Its Owner's Personality, Expert Argues

The garden forms as distinct an expression of the modern woman's personality as does her home or her clothes, L. Young Carrethers of the Heath county day school at Rockford, Ill., told members of the Illinois Garden club at a meeting in the Palmer house yesterday. Mr. Carrethers said: "A formal garden, with its rows of shrubbery and vines, affords an effective background for a woman of buoyant personality, whose taste runs to exotic clothes and household furnishings," he said. "On the other hand, an informal garden, luxuriant with gay flowers, is most suitable for a persons of restrained tastes and manners."

Amateur Tells Harvard About His New Comet

Report Is Sent to U. of C. Astronomers.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Harvard university today announced receipt of word of the discovery of a comet believed to be new to astronomers. It was found by L. C. Peltier of Delphos, O., a member of the American Association of Variable Star Observers, who having no means of measuring the comet, communicated his discovery to Prof. George Van Biesbroeck of the University of Chicago's Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis.

Measurements of the celestial body were made by Prof. Van Biesbroeck and the following data were submitted:

Time of discovery, Feb. 20; position, right ascension, 9 hours 22 minutes, 38.9 seconds; declination, north, 40 degrees, 21 minutes, 55 seconds; magnitude, 11; daily motion, 10 minutes west, 4 degrees north; image, very diffuse.

Mr. Peltier is a member of an organization composed largely of amateur astronomers whose ranks girdle the globe. Most of their observations are made through relatively small telescopes often mounted at their homes. They report observations to the Harvard observatory where a headquarters is maintained.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

What are you doing to take advantage of this unusually balmy weather?

The Answers.

Bill North, 1721 West 101st street, student—I and my friends form a scrub team and play baseball with other such teams. We usually win, though. If it keeps warm like it has been this week we will soon be swimming.

Miss Esther Klass, 5415 Woodlawn avenue, secretary—Weather like this, and we poor girls have to work. If I knew how to play golf, I fear I would be playing hooky from the office. At that, days like these make one work, because summer and vacations are nearer.

Clarence McLenahan, 4120 West 25th place, messenger—I have been taking advantage of it by staying outdoors all the time. After dinner I take father's car and skip out for a ride in the country, leaving around 7:30 and getting back about 10 o'clock.

Mrs. D. H. Hawkins, 2161 Giddings street, housewife—By wearing lighter clothes, getting outdoors more, instead of merely with looking through the windows. I wish people would take better care of their sidewalks.

Herman D. Schiff, 2240 Granville avenue, law student—I am trying to get all the fresh air I can, also to absorb some of the healthful sunshine of which Chicago people get too little during the winter season.

BEG YOUR PARDON

THE TRIBUNE yesterday said that Mrs. Ruby Dogert, 4916 Jackson boulevard, who was awarded $1,250 damages in a suit against the Crawford theater, had been forcibly ejected with her husband when they returned to the theater after "necking" there on a previous visit. Mrs. Dogert declares that she and her husband visited the theater but once, on which occasion they were mistaken for another couple. The erroneous information came from the City News bureau.

THE STAGE

THE season of operettas now in progress at the Majestic theater will cease to be a Victor Herbert "cycle" on April 6. Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow" has been substituted for Herbert's "Sweethearts," which was announced to begin a two weeks' engagement on that date. Oscar Strauss' "The Chocolate Soldier" will follow "The Merry Widow," beginning April 20. The latter, making a sixth in the series, will be given outside the subscription season, which was arranged for five productions.

The rest of the schedule stands as announced: Ilse Marvenga in "Naughty Marietta," opening next Monday night; Eleanor Painter in "The Fortune Teller," opening March 9, and "Babes in Toyland," opening March 12. If any one wants to know why Victor Herbert's "The Serenade" has not been included, it should be noted that the rights to this piece, held for many years by the heirs and assigns of the old "Bostonians" Opera company, have just been secured by the Shuberts and Milton Aborn. A revival of this piece is planned for the spring in New York.

George M. Cohan will give a special matinée performance of his play, "Gambling," at the Erlanger theater this afternoon as a benefit for the Actors' Fund of America. The entire box office proceeds will be given to this charity, of which Mr. Cohan is one of the board of directors. Many of the players now participating in Chicago engagements will attend.

"The International Revue," which should have had its premiere in New York last night, has been postponed until next Tuesday night. A Spanish dancer named La Argentinita (not to be confused with La Argentina) is said to be the reason why. She was extremely optimistic about the salary she should receive, and didn't sign upon the dotted line until a few days ago, too late to learn her cues.

If this show runs a year, according to its press agent, La Argentinita will receive $250,000. You don't need to believe it, but still every bit of information concerning "The International Revue" has been equally careless in mentioning sums of money. The show is trying to break all records for extravagance, in print. Lew Leslie is the producer.

The Theatrical Treasurers' Club of Chicago will hold its annual smoker in the Hotel Sherman tonight—after theater hours, of course. George M. Cohan will be the guest of honor, and a heavy attendance of stage folk is expected.

The New York premiere of Marc Connelly's new play, "The Green Pastures," has been moved up to next Wednesday, at the Mansfield theater. This is the show that has an all-Negro cast, nearly 100 in number. C. C.

Newer Social Views Blamed for Costly Ills

Hospital Head Declares People Don't Save.

The "great middle class" has gone high hat, thinking more about how to buy more on installment plans than of saving against possible loss of health. That was the version of the controversy concerning the high cost of being sick offered yesterday by Asa Bacon, for more than thirty years past the superintendent of the Presbyterian hospital of Chicago.

Mr. Bacon spoke at the joint meeting of the Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin Hospital associations. The high cost of illness is old, however.

"This is no new problem, we have had it with us almost since the beginning of time," Mr. Bacon said. "But it is in the last few years that it has become acute. Twenty-five years ago the middle class man was content to go into a ward bed when he had to go to the hospital. Today most of them want private rooms.

"The problem has become more acute in the last few years because of the complete changes in our social conditions brought on by the automobile, the radio, various electrical devices for the home, higher wages, shorter hours, more holidays. In fact, there is no comparison today with 25 years ago, when a man thought more of saying a few dollars toward a time of hardship than how much he could buy on the installment plan.

"This is an 'age of service,' the people want it demand it. As I said, the problem is not new. They had it back in the Babylonian days when they enacted a law to protect the middle class man, a law which was as follows:

"'If a doctor has treated a gentleman for a severe wound and has cured the man, then he should have ten shekels of silver. If the patient is the son of a poor man then the doctor shall take five shekels of silver. If he be a gentleman's servant, the master shall pay two shekels of silver to the doctor.'"

Mr. Bacon cited one more provision of the ancient law which, he said with a smile, might come in handy today—"there was a penalty if the doctor failed to cure."

"But the hospitals and the physicians have not been idle so far as the problem is concerned," he continued. "In 25 years they have reduced the average hospital stay of a patient from 21 days, which it was then, to 12, which it is now. At the same time the death rate has been cut.

"We have cut down the necessity for building so many hospitals because now we can care for two patients with the same bed that cared for one 25 years ago. But we are building too many hospitals—so long as they are only 65 per cent kept full there are too many beds.

"Too much money is being expended in the building of new hospitals and not enough is put into the old established ones, so they can function better and more economically for the middle class."

Duke Cancels Rents in Honor of 3d Wedding

LONDON, Feb. 20.—A large crowd braved the wintry weather this morning to see the duke of Westminster, one of England's richest peers, married to Loella Ponsonby, daughter of Sir Frederick Ponsonby, treasurer to King George, in a simple civil ceremony at Prince's Row registry office. A large part of the crowd consisted of the duke's tenants from the Westminster district. They had good reason to celebrate the wedding, for the duke had remitted a week's rent in honor of the occasion, his third marriage.

The bride, who was dressed in a brown velvet costume with beige fox fur trim, was accompanied by her father. Winston Churchill and his daughter were among the guests. After the wedding the 50 year old peer and his young bride attended a reception at St. James' palace and then boarded the duke's half million dollar yacht, the Cutty Sark, which was lying in the Thames. They sailed immediately for their honeymoon in the Mediterranean.

The duke of Westminster pays his two former duchesses allowances of $50,000 a year each, and besides his London properties holds estates in Cheshire and in Scotland. His first marriage was dissolved in 1926 and the second in 1924.

GLENN ASSAILS RADICAL ATTACK ON HIGH COURT

Nation-Wide Opposition to Move Asked.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—A call for nation-wide opposition to the campaign of senate radicals to subordinate the Supreme court to the whims of the legislative branch of the government was sounded tonight by Otis F. Glenn, junior senator from Illinois, in an address before the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

Renewing the fight he waged almost single handed on the floor of the senate a few days ago in defense of the Hoover appointment of Charles Evans Hughes as the successor to former Chief Justice Taft, Senator Glenn asserted the attacks on the Supreme court by the radical group constitutes the most serious problem before the American people today.

Britten Hits Navy Program.

Senator Glenn's denunciation of the radicals was preceded by a slashing attack delivered against the Hoover naval reduction program by Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval affairs committee. Both congressmen spoke at a trade stimulation banquet given by a delegation from the Illinois Manufacturers' association to officials of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the commerce department.

"We have a more serious problem today than prohibition or law enforcement," said Senator Glenn in beginning his remarks. "There has been started in the senate a movement to make the Supreme court a creature subservient to the legislative branch of the government.

"If this movement is successful men would be put on the court who believe property has no right. They would tax property to the point of confiscation and destroy the foundations laid down by the fathers of the republic.

"Drop Party Lines."

"There should be no party lines drawn in the fight against the principles held by the senate radical group," Senator Glenn asserted in conclusion.

"I devolves on you men and you women to get into the fight and see the sound principles established by the fathers of the republic are not destroyed by a crowd of Socialists, communists, and destructionists."

NORRIS OFFERS RESOLUTION TO QUIZ PRIMARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—If the charge of excessive campaign expenditures is made in the Illinois senatorial primary contest there will be a senatorial committee on the job ready to investigate it.

First steps toward creation of such a committee were taken today when Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.] introduced in the senate a resolution authorizing Vice President Curtis to name five members with authority over both primary and election contests.

Senator Norris said his resolution was not aimed at any particular state, but he thought it desirable to have the committee ready for action early in the campaign. The Illinois primary, April 8, in which Senator Charles S. Deneen and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick are the leading contenders for the Republican senatorial nomination, is the first scheduled in any of the states.

The Norris resolution, which was referred to the committee on privileges and elections, is virtually certain to be approved. It is expected Vice President Curtis will name two regular Republicans, one radical Republican and two Democrats.

FORM $3,000,000 ILLINOIS GRAIN SALES AGENCY

Officials of the new Illinois Grain corporation yesterday announced the incorporation of the $3,000,000 project. It was stated its purpose is to work with the Farmers' National Grain corporation on a plan aproved by the Illinois Agricultural association at its recent annual convention.

The object is to provide a regional central cooperative grain marketing system to help make effective in Illinois the federal farm board's program for stabilizing agriculture. The term of incorporation is 50 years. The corporation is a nonprofit association with two classes of preferred stock and one of common.

G. C. Johnson of Bloomington was elected president and J. C. Sailor of Cissna Park vice president. Harrison Fahrnkopf will act as temporary secretary and general manager, and Robert A. Cowels as treasurer. There is a board of 15 directors.

MRS. ELROD TO LEAD WOMEN OF SNOW'S CAMPAIGN FORCES

Mrs. Rena Elrod, state representative from the 25th district, was introduced as the chairman of the woman's division during the ceremonies incident to the opening of the Snow (city hall faction) county campaign headquarters in the Steuben club yesterday afternoon.

Chairman Snow also announced that one of his chief assistants will be Gotthard A. Dahlberg, former speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, whom he has persuaded to withdraw from the state senatorial race in the 13th district in order to give more of his time to the county fight. This leaves Senator Harry W. Starr opposed only by Milford F. Henkel, an attorney, formerly active in the Deneen organization in the Fifth ward, whom the Snow organization probably will indorse.

United States Senator Deneen has been indorsed by the executive board of the State Federation of Labor headed by John H. Walker, who was closely connected with the Small organization for years.

CHICAGO RADIAL ROAD WIDENING PROMISED SOON

Governor Reveals Plans to Engineers.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson in an address here tonight stated that the state will widen, as promptly as possible, radial highways leading from Chicago for a distance of approximately 30 miles. He spoke at a banquet of the five hundred road builders and officials attending the University of Illinois short course in highway engineering.

The governor's words on road making are significant, because in a few weeks the state will let its first contracts in a 19 million dollar biennium construction program for the metropolitan area, and there have been efforts to divert priority from the radials.

Importance Is Realized.

"This administration," said Gov. Emmerson, "realizes the vital importance of widening, as rapidly as possible, the radial highways leading from Chicago and, furthermore, it is convinced that soon virtually every state bond issue route radiating from Chicago and within the boundaries of route 22 will have to be widened to carry at least four lines of traffic.

"Also this administration appreciates the necessity of separating grades with railroads, and intersecting main highways as well, that safety and continuous flow of traffic may be obtained."

Rights of Way Involved.

"Securing rights of way necessary for these highway projects is one of the most serious problems to be overcome in speeding up the road improvements and hastening traffic relief in the metropolitan areas," Gov. Emmerson continued. "This phase of this work must be performed by the people of the metropolitan area, as has always been the custom.

"Negotiations with railroads regarding the division of grade separation costs and other unavoidable delays may retard action on certain projects which have been given a priority rating. But it would be unwise to hold up the construction of other projects of almost equal importance solely on account of the priority rating."

EVANSTONIAN TO SHARE $200,000 M'CALL ESTATE

Sumner T. McCall, 1022 Sheridan road, Evanston, was named one of five beneficiaries of a $200,000 trust left by his mother, the late Mrs. Ella E. T. McCall of Boston, according to Boston dispatches last night. Mrs. McCall was the widow of Samuel W. McCall, former governor of Massachusetts. In her will she divided her estate equally between five children. In addition to Mr. McCall, the beneficiaries were Mrs. Katherine McCall Rudolph, Galesburg, Ill.; Mrs. Ruth McCall Hughes, Haverford, Pa.; Henry McCall, Primeville, Ore.; and Mrs. Margaret McCall Chappellee, New Haven, Conn.

222 Bottles Bring Milk to Chicagoland

But Each Bottle Holds Thousands of Gallons.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Four million people in the Chicago area are now getting their daily milk supply from only 222 bottles. However, these bottles are not the back porch variety of pints and quarts, but enormous glass lined tank trucks and railroad cars, each containing between 6,000 and 12,000 quarts of fresh milk.

Each car holds two of these gigantic "bottles," making the total capacity of a railroad milk car 25,000 quarts. Resembling thermos bottles in their construction, they are thoroughly insulated against heat and extreme cold, carrying pasteurized milk great distances at times with but slight change in temperature. Equipped with the latest devices for insuring sanitation, these cars are hitched onto fast express or mail trains, while alongside on the pavement come similarly constructed milk trucks.

No More Milk in Dippers.

It takes the daily output of about 1,700 cows to fill one of the large tanks. In the Chicago area the use of farmers' milk cans as a means of conveying milk from the country centralizing plants to the city bottling works is practically a thing of the past, according to milk dealer officials.

The significance of this change, coming in the last few years, can be estimated when it is remembered that the time is not far back when farmers used to milk a few cows, set the milk cans into a wagon, and come to the neighbor's doorstep with a dipper. This condition, so closely affecting the city's health and jeopardizing the dairy business, is a thing of the past.

Artificial Refrigeration.

First bottling of milk is said to have been done in Chicago in the late '80s, before the passage of the city's first pasteurization ordinances. Today Chicago is said to stand in the front ranks of cities in the regulation of its milk supply.

The problem of cooling the milk on the farm and keeping it so cool that bacterial action is kept at a minimum has come with the entry of these mammoth tank "bottles." Artificial refrigeration, which is said by milk council officers to have had its practical beginnings between 1880 and 1890, was immediately utilized by the milk companies. Cars equipped with artificial refrigeration took that place of those cooled by blocks of ice. Some chipped ice is still used around the bottles in their crates during hot weather, however.

"While we regard the 1930 system of glass lined tank cars and trucks as the last word in sanitary, efficient handling of such a perishable product as milk, it is certain that our present service leaves nothing desired in speed or sanitation," said a Chicago milk official, "at least until transportation by airplane becomes practical."

WORK OF PRIVATE ARCHITECTS ON NEW CHICAGO P. O.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Government plans for expending more than half a billion dollars during the next ten years in beautifying the capital and building new federal buildings throughout the nation were outlined over the radio tonight by Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasurer in charge of building construction.

Calling attention to the Keyes-Elliott bill carrying the increased authorizations for federal improvements, Assistant Secretary Heath said that its passage would not only make possible the construction of more buildings but would expedite work on projects, such as the Chicago postoffice. The new measure would increase annual expenditures for new construction from $35,000,000 to $50,000,000.

The Keyes-Elliott bill carries a provision permitting the government to let contracts for designing working drawings on public buildings to private architects, an arrangement which would permit the treasury to save much time on the designs for the new Chicago postoffice.

Cookery Is Art That Requires Careful Study

Long Apprenticeship Will Be Rewarded.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Not so many years ago two men of high authority in the business world worked into a cooking laboratory which had been established to work out problems to be daily reported in print. Addressing a bright young university woman, busy there with bowl and spoon, they asked, "what do you do with what you cook?" She answered impulsively, "We eat it." The men were highly pleased with that answer.

In reporting this experience these men told how they had said that they could not understand why ambitious young men did not marry girls like her, right off and right away, instead of those totally incapable in domestic affairs. They did not know it, but after all this was a bit condescending of them for two reasons—condescending about this business of cooking. We girls are devoted to it are constantly viewing such condescension and many similar battles. As a matter of fact, the very young woman was wearing, under her white uniform, a diamond solitaire presented to her with personal pledges by an exceedingly amusing young man who valued her personal ability to give and take, perhaps above her ability to cook. She had her ring out of sight, while she was at work, for some rather modest of the reasons.

Advice Early Interest.

I'll ask as constantly as I can, I am sure that people, taken by and large, are exceedingly obdurate about the work of learning to cook. I would, truly, have a child become interested in food and cookery by the time he or she is 7. I have seen children thus interested grow into great charm, diverse varied accomplishments and rich attainments and become equipped for the holding of a high social place naturally possessed. Bot how many are equipped to lead a child thus?

As Dr. King, more than two centuries ago, in discussing the barbarity of the education that was current, said: "For what hopes can there be of any progress in learning, whilst our gentlemen suffer their sons at Westminster, Eton, and Winchester to eat nothing but salt with their mutton and vinegar with their roast beef upon holidays? What extensiveness can there be in their Souls? Especially when upon their going thence to the University, their knowledge is culinary matters is seldom enlarged."

My plea for having every man child learn to cook is as well as woman learn to cook is astonishing and sound.

I feel as helpless as a jelly fish when anybody says to me, "I do not like to cook." I should not, either, if I knew no more about cooking than the man always does who says this, for it is usually about as much as knowing how to sweep the stars out of the sky.

And then there are those people who would like to have all cooking discreetly presented in the shape of a formula, plus such brief and superhuman words as "Cook and serve," "Bake in a moderate oven," or, worst of all, "Take up and serve."

How to Cook a Beefsteak.

Fortunately, I know where to get comfort, blessed comfort—many and many a source—from such discouragements. And one of them is in the magazines edited by Charles Dickens. In 1851 there were some lovely articles entitled, "Leaves from the Mahogany Tree," in which the following, and a great deal more of the same sort, appeared:

"A young cook should be always impressed that it takes years to learn how to broil a rump steak; for a thousand impish difficulties surround the broiler, and do their worst to spoil the dainty morsel and prevent its reaching the expectant jaws. If the gridiron be not as bright as silver and the bars between the bars, the meat will suffer. If the bars be not rubbed with suet they will print themselves on the steak. If the fire be not bright and clear there is no hope for the broiler. If the broil be hurried it will be smoked or burnt. If the gridiron be overheated before the steak is put on it, it will scorch the steak. If the gridiron be sold, the part of the meat covered by the bars will be underdone. If the gridiron be not kept slanting, the constant flare and smoke from the fat streaming into the fire will spoil the steak. If no salt be sprinkled on the fire, the meat will very likely taste of brimstone."

The first thing some people would say upon reading this would be that the first statement is utterly discouraging, but it need not be and it is not entirely true. Yet there are people who, after three score years and ten of doing something with food, will so treat a steak as it will have all the faults or most of those suggested here, even with such greatly improved facilities as we have. They will burn a kettle at every meal, when once in six months ought to be a generous allowance for such a sinful thing, most sinful in what it does to the food. But think of what Micawber could do because he liked food in turning even a failure to a great success! It did not take him years to learn.

Tribune Cook Book

Mushroom Sandwiches.

Lately we have noticed that mushroom sandwiches are exceedingly popular at literary teas. It is no wonder, because they are so easily and quickly prepared with no more equipment than that possessed by studios or by those who get up a tea snack closeted within the stacks of libraries and all such places as that.

You may look through the index of a large number of cook books under the subject of sandwiches and never find a recipe for this exceedingly dainty thing. An easy way to make them is to cook them in a thick all cream sauce after you have first washed, chopped them, and heated them in a frying pan or saucepan in a tiny bit of butter until the water is started and they have changed to a watery shade.

If you want to make just enough to fill three closed sandwiches of sandwich loaf size you will need no more than about 10 cents' worth of mushrooms—when a pound costs 50 cents—one-half cup real cream, one-half level tablespoon flour, one-half teaspoon salt, and other seasonings, if you like, but we recommend that you start it with just this simple list.

Dissolve the flour in a little of the cream, then add the rest and stir over the fire until it is thickened. Keep it warm until you have prepared the mushrooms as mentioned. When they have become watery looking, add them to the cream and let them stand about five minutes. The difficulty may be that with so small an amount of cream thickened with that amount of flour the mixture will become too thick with standing, but it needs to be thick enough after the mushrooms are added to spread like a filling.

The three sandwiches may be cut into six for nice service, or made more truly a finger sandwich by cutting each into three strips. This mixture in larger quantities can be served on toast as a nice party snack. It is quite as dainty as creamed chicken, though more fragile of substance and flavor. But it is best not to build on the flavor until you know your foundation well. I have built a number of things into this combination with less than gain for my extra efforts.

TRIBUNE WANT AD WINS LAWSUIT FOR HOME ADVERTISERS

A TRIBUNE want ad won a suit for Joseph M. Cutshaw and his wife, Mrs. Anna Cutshaw, 3650 Dickens avenue, before Municipal Judge Dufrie yesterday. They were defendants in an action brought by Emil Hodel, 4301 Lawrence avenue, a real estate dealer, who claimed a $500 commission for the sale of their property at 4953 North Kenneth avenue.

The Cutshaws had listed their property for sale with Hodel and other real estate dealers last September. On Sept. 15 they inserted a want ad offering the property for sale.

On the date the ad was inserted James Costerling set out to buy a home. After he had left Mrs. Costerling scanned the classified advertising columns and found the Cutshaw ad. She inspected the home and, liking it, asked the Cutshaws to hold it for her until Mr. Costerling could see it.

Meanwhile Costerling visited Hodel. Within an hour after his wife had inspected the home Costerling also viewed it and proposed that the Cutshaws hold it until his wife could give approval.

The Costerlings purchased the home directly from the Cutshaws. Hodel brought his action, alleging that he had been the instrument of the sale. The Cutshaws, through Attorney John Ogden Drennan, argued that the sale had been made through the want ad.

The judge held the ad to have been directly responsible for the sale, because it had found response in Mrs. Costerling before her husband and the real estate man visited the home.

Here's Correct Procedure in Table Setting

Good Form Holds to These Definite Rules.

BY SALLY LUNN.

Decorated tables in exhibits and contests are not usually set completely with silverware, and the artistic effect is probably greater for the absence of such, but since we are civilized and use implements to dine with we can't dispense with them for actual meals. The etiquette of setting the table properly and serving the meal according to the accepted usage is a necessary knowledge. E. McF. requests an article on this subject, and inasmuch as there is always some controversy about such customs it is well to review our information on the matter.

Table settings are, perforce, different or various types of meals, depending on the number and kind of courses served, but the elementary rules that obtain are these. An individual service or cover consists of a service plate, the necessary flat silver, a napkin, goblets, and a bread and butter plate. (The latter may be omitted for a formal dinner.) When one plate is removed another should be substituted immediately, so that the place is never left bare.

The flat silver to be used is arranged evenly on each side of the plate about an inch from the table edge, the knives and spoons to the right and the forks to the left. They should be placed in the order in which they are to be used, beginning from the outside.

Knives' Edges Turn In.

The cutting edges of all knives are turned toward the plate. Not more than three knives and forks should be at each cover, not counting the oyster fork, which is placed at the extreme right. Additional silver is supplied later during the meal if it is necessary.

The goblet or tumbler is placed to the right of the plate, directly above the knives, and the butter plate is directly above the forks on the left side. The napkin is placed at the left of the forks, although some hostesses place it in the center of the plate and on top of the forks, and some at the right of the plate.

The position of the butter spreader on the butter plate is also a moot question. Some authorities advocate its being placed diagonally, and others straight across the plate. The salt and pepper sets are placed in pairs between each two covers. About twenty-five inches of space should be allowed for each service.

General Rules.

Here are a few general rules about serving: The meal should be announced quietly, either by the servant or by the member of the family who is to serve as waitress. "Dinner is served" is the customary expression, addressed to the hostess, who conveys to the guests that everything is in readiness. Everything except beverages should be served and removed from the left, and the person who is serving should never reach across the cover.

Beverages are served from the right, and glasses, cups, and saucers are removed from the right. The server should see that the implements, such as fork and spoon, are placed conveniently on the dish he is serving, and should hold the dish so that it is convenient for the person served to help himself.

When there is no waitress or servant the serving should be systematized, so that it is accomplished as easily and with as little confusion as possible. The hostess is served first, then the guest at her right—the place of honor—and so on around the table. It is not necessary to serve the women first and then the men, as such procedure is confusing.

When changing a course all that is not to be used later in the meal should be removed. Finger bowls on dessert plates are placed before each guest following the salad course. Each one removes the bowl and the doily beneath it, if such is used, and places it before his plate on the table. Some hostesses place also the dessert implements on the plate. These also are to be removed.

PROPER SETTING FOR FORMAL MEAL

The principles of correct table setting are illustrated in the placing of the china, silverware, and glasses on this formal luncheon table. Note that this hostess preferred the placing of the napkin in the center of the plate, and the butter spreader placed diagonally across the butter plate. This is not incorrect, but the placing of the napkin at the left and the butter spreader straight across the plate is more generally approved.

COOLIDGES ARE WRIGLEY GUESTS ON CATALINA

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Ex-President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds of Chicago, spent the first of several days here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley Jr. of Chicago. After the two hour trip from the mainland, in which a stiff breeze and rolling sea made the ex-President somewhat uncomfortable, the party cruised over the submarine gardens in glass bottom boats, watched diving stunts, and then repaired to Wrigley's mansion, high on Mount Ada.

Mr. Coolidge received unofficial word President Hoover had dispatched a telegram asking him to go to Arizona, if possible, and dedicate Coolidge dam on the Gila river.

To restore the luster to spots in the floor that have hard usage, ordinary brown shoe polish is easily and quickly applied, and the result is gratifying. Where there are aged persons or small children in the home, it may be used on stairs instead of wax and does away with falls from slipping.

When adding extra leaves to the dining room table all housekeepers know the inconvenience of finding a tablecloth just the right length for the extended table. To obviate this I mark the length of each cloth on the narrow hem, making small letters and using white embroidery cotton.

The nut cracker is a handy implement to crush peanut brittle and other large pieces of candy. The pieces drop peacefully into the dish instead of flying wildly in all directions as they do when cracked in the usual way.

Save empty mayonnaise jars of different sizes. Paint the lids pink or blue and label them for cotton, swabs, nipples, etc. Also paint a jelly cake pan to hold the jars. This makes a nice present for the new baby.

Use a small paste brush to put paraffin around fruit jar covers. It makes a very neat job.

Mrs. E. P., Joliet, Ill.

When stuffing a fowl I always plan to have extra dressing. I put this in a small, clean sack and place next to the fowl. It absorbs the flavor and does not spread into the gravy. It is easily taken from the sack when ready to serve, and is well cooked.

Mrs. A. E. S., Milwaukee, Wis.

In cleaning the gas range one often clogs the burner with water. I find that if I invert the clogged burner over the lighted one it will soon dry out and also remove anything dried in the holes.

Cafeteria Is Wrecked by Communist Rioters

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—A cafeteria in West 35th street was wrecked this afternoon by communist demonstrators.

Between 100 and 150 men and women, members of the Amalgamated Food Workers' union, participated. Edward Herzog, manager, said the damage was $5,000. Table tops were broken, dishes smashed and patrons rushed out without paying.

The riot started when Anna Saeaker, 18, leaped on a table and shouted: "Everybody out. This place is on strike."

Here's a New Trick in Making Fudge

"Marion told us about it. You know her fudge is simply marvelous! The trick is to mix in just a little Rumford Baking Powder. It makes perfectly delicious fudge, very smooth and creamy."

RUMFORD'S booklet, "Several New Things Under the Sun," gives this new recipe for fudge and also 23 other new recipes for dishes not usually associated with baking powder. Yet Rumford is an important ingredient in every one. It improves the flavor, texture or color of many dishes used daily in general cooking. Try it and see. Send for a copy of this free booklet. Up Here in Gloucester
We've Been Taking in
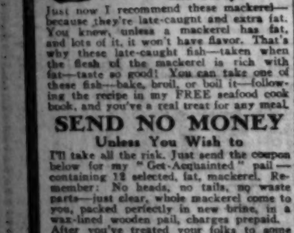
I've Seen in a Long, Long Time

I wish you could come to Gloucester now. How I'd like to take you through my shop. How your mouth would water at the sight of the fat, thick-meated mackerel the boats have landed. It's been years since I've seen such a good run as we've had recently. And that's why I'm hurrying to announce it to my friends and customers.

I want you to enjoy these late-caught mackerel just as we've been doing in Gloucester. No matter where you live—New York, Virginia, Illinois—any place—my method of supplying you is just like having the fishing boats come right to your door.



Right from the Fishing Boats to You

Right on my wharf, I select the choicest of these mackerel for my customers. In the past, schools of these mackerel have come so close to shore that the fishermen have been catching them right in sight of my shop. The mackerel were on my wharf before they were an hour out of the water.

They're Fat, Tender, and Juicy!

Just now I recommend these mackerel—because they're late-caught and extra fat. You know, unless a mackerel has fat, and lots of it, it won't have flavor. That's why these late-caught fish—taken when the flesh of the mackerel is rich with fat—taste so good! You can take one of these fish—bake, broil, or boil it—following the recipe in my FREE seafood cook book, and you've a real treat for any meal.

SEND NO MONEY
Unless You Wish to

I'll take all the risk. Just send the coupon below for my "Get-Acquainted" pail—containing 12 selected, fat, mackerel. Remember: No heads, no tails, no waste parts—just clear, whole mackerel come to you, packed perfectly in new brine, in a wax-lined wooden pail, charges prepaid. After you've treated your folks to some and tried it yourself, if you don't agree that it's by far the best mackerel you've ever tasted, send the rest back to me and your trial won't have cost you a penny. That's how sure I am of the goodness of these fish. If you keep them send me only $2.95* in full payment.

NEW THINGS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Sparkling Glass
A Social Exactment

Caressing White Hands
Every Woman's Right

Simple, New Way, Now—Use Any Kind of Soap

SPARKLING glass and gleaming china are as much a mark of social knowledge as good manners.

To have them—impeccable and flawless—and, at the same time, for the housewife to have caressing, white hands is a problem that's now been solved an interesting, new way.

Use any kind of soap, soap powder or soap flakes, in washing dishes. But add a teaspoon of CLIMALENE to the water.

This enables you to use ONE-FOURTH the usual quantity of soap. For it softens the water instantly, so that far less soap is needed.

Being a GREASE SOLVENT in itself, it DISSOLVES grease instantly; and eliminates ALL FILM or scum from glassware. Makes it sparkle like rare jewels.

Containing superlative SKIN WHITENING and SKIN SOFTENING ingredients—used by scores of beauty specialists—it leaves the hands soft and lovely beyond words.

Women are flocking to it. It costs only a dime at grocers. Try it. Just ask for Climalene.

Bungling Stories Are Cause of Much Marital Trouble

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The ways of men are passing strange—because they are so clumsy.

Fancy a man expecting his wife to believe he was out playing cards with the boys the night before and she finds in the car next a. m. a daintily scented 6x8 hand embroidered kerchief.

Sticking to his story, too, though his wife's keen olfactory sense had already detected a complementary perfume scent clinging to the suit he wore to the "stag" party!

Out of such bungling tales is the history of marital woes wrought.

Not that we are advocating cunning, trickery or disloyalty on the part of male mates—but if they would only not try to stick to a story that hasn't a leg to stand on! Better to up and confess everything and be forgiven than to leave wife conjecturing about the ownership of hankies and perjuring scents and, in all probability, blaming the wrong party.

It is always possible that some female relative of the host or his wife's could happen in while a stag game was in progress and she had to be escorted home by somebody. Which is exactly what happened with another gentleman, Mr. B. He chose to deny the presence of any woman at his card party at all. After a week's agonizing and no few erroneous suspicions the truth was made known to Mrs. B., and by the young lady herself, who felt no compunction about telling the truth, since there was nothing to the incident but a free and protected ride home. The suspicious evidence in this case were a pair of prying eyes and a tongue quick to inform the wife.

But explaining away a scented suit is something else again, perhaps, after all calling for silence. I don't know.

The male principle, rather widely current, that it is better to lie to the wife than to tell her the truth, because she won't believe you anyway, has its drawbacks. The average man's clumsiness in handling lies is against it. It is rather nice that lying runs so uneasily off a man's tongue. It proves him an honest creature, on the whole. Wives understand this. And they invariably can tell when there is a lie in the air.

With that sixth sense so irritating in the sex, they can ferret it out on far less evidence than a scented hanky. So, you Big Boys might just as well come clean with the little woman in the first place.

Rosy Future Painted for Paris Debutante

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Spring holds a bright promise for the feminine youth of Paris. Tired of winter's black frosts, the mode is turning toward young and tender tints. Pastel shades—pale blue, pale pink, mauve, yellow, and green are replacing the somber tones, so prominent for evening wear, this winter.

Spring is essentially the time of youth and renewal. The very weather conspires with fashion to lure every one out-of-doors and the active life tends to reduce sartorial adornments to their simplest expressions. Too gorgeous jewels and materials, too voluminous draperies are apt to seem stuffy in comparison with the fresh textures of the new buds and the rain swept green of the new grass.

The evening ensemble is practically a necessity with the new styles, in which composition plays such an important part. Every frock must have its coat, if the exact proportion of beauty is to be maintained. Short coats have proved to be the best balance for long skirts, and long skirts are very definitely established for evening, though the youthful spring mode has wisely abandoned the older trains. The heels are the limit. Short coats make the new draperies easier to manage than everything trailing. Of course, short coats imply a slender youthful silhouette, but, thanks to exercise, almost every woman keeps her outline, nowadays.

Molyneux makes this rosy evening ensemble for the smart debutante in pale pink chiffon, pink and silver lamé and pale pink dyed fox. The simple frock of the pale pink chiffon has a U-shaped decollete, deeped in back. A belt of the chiffon passed through two jeweled clasps marks the natural waistline, pointed topped godets mounted on a deep hip yoke give ripping fullness to the double skirt which touches the floor in back. Pink and silver lamé make the short coat which is lined in the pink chiffon.

The sleeves are typical of Molyneux. Triple circular flares add interest to the lower arm and make the hand look slender. The huge framing collar is of white baby fox dyed pale pink to match the frock. Pink and silver lamé strapless slippers and pale pink beige stockings complete this pretty ensemble.

Boy's Stamp Hobby Helps Health Fight; Interests the Experts

A 13 year old boy's face beamed yesterday when he beheld about the walls of a room in the Bismarck hotel, realms undreamed of in his hobby of stamp collecting. He revelled in cases of rare foreign stamps, of stranger, colorful stamps bearing images of beasts, birds, industries, presidents, and kings. But he paused eagerly over a case of air mail stamps. It held a 16 cent U. S. stamp, the only one missing from his own collection.

The boy, Ralph Chapman of Hinsdale, walked on crutches. The stamps he had collected had been the means, according to his mother, Mrs. William Gerard Chapman, of his aiding his fight against infantile paralysis, suffered more than a year ago. Through his interest in stamp collecting, his mother said, Ralph forgot about his illness and got better until he could use crutches.

When the boy left the Chicago Stamp club's exhibit, he had in his possession the missing stamp. One of the veteran collectors, J. G. Ure, broke his block of 16 cent air mail stamps so Ralph's collection might be complete.

Stamp enthusiasts browsed among the collections all day, an exhibit, by the way, which members value at $700,000. Last night considerable swapping was done in addition to stamps going on the auctioneer's block. Up for auction were frames containing sets of stamps worth $1,000. The most valuable stamp is expected Saturday with the arrival of its owner, Collector Hinds of New York. He is said to place a value of $42,000 on one of the two known British Guiana stamps, which he is said to have bought a year ago in Paris over King George of England's bid of $37,000.

An exhibit by Capt. B. B. Lipsner, America's first airmail superintendent, contains eight Kitty Hawk, N. C., covers sent to himself on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the Wright brothers' air conquest. He also has a comprehensive collection of air mail stamps.

Among oddities is a number of covers belonging to R. C. Davidson, which went around the world on the Zeppelin. These bear 1892-'93 Columbian exposition stamps valued from $15 to $20 each. Six stamps of the earliest vending machine coil stamps are valued at $400. A frame of German stamps worth hundreds of dollars during the war are scarcely worth fifteen cents now, according to their owner, Andmar K. Sonnichsen.

There is George A. Zimmerman's submarine cover from the only submarine in the U. S. navy to have a postoffice on board, and August Hippchen's collection of stamp cancellations of towns bearing the name of every president of the United States. The collecting fever of another resulted in stamps from odd towns such as Day, Ark., Dawn, O.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—President and Mrs. Hoover were hosts to the heads of diplomatic missions and their wives at dinner tonight at the White House. Dr. Hernan Velarde, Peruvian ambassador, appeared for the first time in his rôle of dean of the corps, succeeding in that rôle Sir Esme Howard, who left Washington yesterday to retire from the British diplomatic service. Señora De Valarde is absent in Peru. After the dinner a program of music was given in the East room by Hulda Lashanska, soprano, and Alexander Brailowsky, pianist. Additional guests were invited for 10 o'clock to hear them.

Vice President Curtis was given a dinner last evening by the senator from Virginia and Mrs. Swanson at the Chevy Chase club.

The secretary of war and Mrs. P. J. Hurley were given a dinner tonight by Mrs. Rushmore Patterson.

Mrs. Henry C. Swords and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Swords of New York, are making a short visit here on their way south. Mrs. Swords and the late Col. Swords were prominent in Washington in the Benjamin Harrison administration, coming here from their home in Des Moines. Miss Grace C. Clarkson of Philadelphia, granddaughter of John R. Clarkson of Des Moines, also prominent in that administration, is with Mrs. Swords

More U. S. Children at School Than in Any Other Country

Hot Springs, Va., Feb. 20.—Twenty-five of the leading educators of America today heard Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, describe the unprecedented rapidity with which child education is growing, at a conference which he called here to discuss methods of elementary school education.

"In 1900 there were sixteen million children in the United States in elementary schools, and in 1926 this number had grown to twenty-three million," he said. "In high schools, both public and private, the result has been even more striking; in 1900 a little less than 700,000 were in attendance, while in 1926 there were well over four million.

"No other country in the world's history has ever attempted education in such numbers," Mr. Embree continued. "Teachers employed for elementary and secondary schools have increased from slightly over four hundred and fifty thousand in 1900 to more than nine hundred thousand in 1926.

"This country is spending well over two billion dollars on elementary and secondary education each year and a total of nearly three billion dollars when the whole scope of national education is included."

PALM BEACH SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Tea, once a sacred drawing room rite, was served in the patio of the Oasis club this afternoon as more than 400 winter colonists gathered about the ring to see the boxing bouts. Among those who witnessed the fights were James H. R. Cromwell, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Somers Roche, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fell, Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin of Chicago, Miss Frances Gilmore, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Richards, Mr. Jules Bache, and Mr. Lucius P. Ordway.

A George Washington dinner-dance was given at their home tonight by Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hayes in honor of their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Johnson of Chicago. Their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Carroll D. Keeler, Mr. and Mrs. George Eddy, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Willard White, Mrs. Russell Luckow, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rich, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brach, Mrs. Chester Stratton, Mrs. Irene Gordon Donnelly, Mrs. John Meyers of Kansas City, and Mr. Edward S. Beck.

Mrs. C. H. Chadwick, who has been in the Good Samaritan hospital for several days, was sufficiently improved today to return to her apartment at Whitehall. Mr. Chadwick is arriving from Chicago tomorrow morning. Mrs. Orville Thompson will give a tea at the Everglades club on Sunday afternoon.

Editors of Illinois Open Three Day Meeting Here

Editors and publishers who are members of the Illinois Press association, which represents between 800 and 900 dailies and weeklies throughout the state, yesterday assembled for the semi-annual meeting of the association at the Hotel Sherman. A three day session will be devoted to analyses of business and editorial policies.

David V. Felts of the Illinois State Journal at Springfield outlined eight spots of interest on the first page of the newspaper. He ranked the eight spots of interest as feature matter, telegraph and local news, art, promotion, human interest stories, weather stories, and news index.

The psychology of reading, he declared, induces the reader to read first the news in column eight, or the one at the extreme right of the page. Then, the first column on the left attracts the attention, he asserted.

New Kind of Salts Taking Country By Storm

They Revitalize the System — Induce Youthful Activity —Keep Body in Splendid Condition— Free from Fat

It doesn't take long for Americans to wake up to a good thing—only a few months ago Kruschen Salts were introduced into this country and the welcome news of their superior goodness and swift rejuvenating power traveled so fast that at one time the supply was many carloads behind the demand.

All of which goes to prove that Americans know good salts when they take them and want their friends to benefit, also.

Kruschen Salts are taken for their health building value all over the world—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain today.

Kruschen Salts are different from other salts—Kruschen is six salts in one—the very same six salts that nature put into the human body at the beginning of creation and demands you keep them there or your health won't be as good as it should be.

Unlike most Salts, Kruschen isn't simply a laxative—if that's all you want any old kind of salts with any kind of a label will do—but is that all you want?

When you take Kruschen Salts you not only stimulate your bowels, liver and kidneys to function naturally and perfectly, but you supply every internal organ, gland, nerve and fibre in the body with nature's own revitalizing and rejuvenating minerals.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85c—at any drug store in America—take one-half a teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—in just a few days indolence changes to activity and life grows brighter.

Before the bottle is empty you'll feel years younger—eyes will brighten—step grow sprightlier—nerves steadier—you'll sleep sound, enjoy your meals, and after a hard day's work you'll be ready for wholesome recreation — one million Americans know all this—ask your druggist.

Ralph N. Isham, Grace McCall are Married

BY THALIA

One of those surprises that really is a surprise is the news of Ralph Isham's marriage. His bride is the former Miss Grace McCall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. McCall of Marquette, Mich., and the wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church in New York city, strictly with only the bride's and groom's immediate relatives, including Mr. Isham's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Isham of Lake Forest. Mr. Isham's chief interest has been golfing, and all his friends and fellow golfers thought he was devoted exclusively to his plane, with no thought of romance.

Ralph Isham is a member of one of the oldest of Chicago's pioneer families. His grandfather, Dr. George Isham, was born in 1855, and his maternal grandmother was the late Henry H. Porter. The late Dr. George Snow Porter and Mrs. Katherine Porter Farwell were his parents, and he is the nephew of Mrs. Arthur L. Farwell and Mrs. George A. Carpenter. After the death of his father, several years ago, and the marriage of his sister, the former Helen Isham, to Lucius Hill Horton, Mr. Isham left the family home at 1340 North State street, where he has lived in an apartment at 1 East Cedar street. He was graduated from Yale in 1924 and is a member of the Saddle and Cycle, the Chicago club, and the Racquet club.

When he confided his matrimonial intentions to no one, as far as I could learn, before he went east, no further details about the wedding or the bride as as yet available.

The Racquet club will be host over the week-end to 30 contestants in the club championship squash racquets tourney. The visitors are being housed by the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club, the Lake Shore Athletic club and the Racquet club.

Because the contest is a serious and strictly masculine affair, the social activities probably will be limited to luncheons and dinners today and tomorrow at the Racquet club.

The individual championship contest got under way this morning at the LTP club and continue until Sunday. W. W. Vickers of the Tavern Racquet club, who won the intercollegiate honors last year, arrived in the city. Other star players are

BRIDE

MRS. S. M. CHASE.
[Du Bois Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Helene Eleanor Jackson, daughter of Charles T. Jackson of 4141 Clarendon avenue, to Sidney March Chase took place last Friday at the Fourth Presbyterian church.

Herbert Rawlins Jr. and Lawrence Pool of New York, who won the national championship in 1928 and 1929, respectively.

Among the competing teams are those of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Buffalo, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Detroit, and two Canadian clubs. The team championship contest will be held tomorrow and Sunday at the Racquet club.

Ruth Page will give a program of dances this evening at the Skokie school in Winnetka for the benefit of the pre-kindergarten department of the school. Mrs. Dwight Green is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Today is Kellogg Fairbank's 61st birthday, but he needn't be expecting a surprise party such as he had last year, when all of the various ramifications of the clan helped him celebrate, because Mrs. Fairbank says she isn't having one this year.

The Infant Welfare Thrift shop, which is the White Elephant Rummage shop of the south side, is conducting weekly sales this season. Dresses are on sale this week and men's shirts will be offered beginning tomorrow. Mrs. Arthur G. Jackson of 5457 Woodlawn avenue is in charge of the sales.

The alumnae of the Starrett school will give a card party and tea for the benefit of the Lighthouse Volunteers on Tuesday afternoon, March 4, in the parlors of the school at 4515 Drexel boulevard. The officers of the alumnae are: Mrs. J. F. Jennings, president; Miss Mary Parsons, vice president; Miss Jane Bogle, treasurer, and Miss Cecile Murphy, secretary.

According to Dan Burnham, who has been writing a series of articles about the new Chicago Yacht club in the Lake Michigan Yachting News, the views of the women are being carefully considered in the plans of the club.

"The club will offer to its lady members a combination of advantages and privileges which is offered by no other club that we know of. It will combine the outdoor charm of the Saddle and Cycle club or Shore Acres, with their terraces overlooking the lake and a beautiful swimming pool, the intimate chic and fineness of service of the Casino as a place to lunch, tea, or dine, and play bridge; and the luxurious comforts of the Women's Athletic club as a place in which to relax, dress, and be made beautiful," according to Mr. Burnham.

The swimming pool is to be open to the women at certain hours, and the quarters intended exclusively for the ladies will be attended by maids, manicurists, and hairdressers.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell of 1550 State parkway have returned from their trip to Florida and Havana, and will be in town for about a month before they go out to their place in Santa Barbara.

The private view tea to open Maude Phelps Hutchins' exhibit of portrait busts at the Chester H. Johnson galleries this afternoon will be one of the socially important events of this quiet interlude in affairs. Presiding at the tea tables will be Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Martin Schutze, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Miss Alice Roullier, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. John Shapley, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, and Mrs. Charles H. Swift.

The marriage of Miss Beatrice Iralson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max L. Iralson of Chicago, to Leonard Carlton Van Wie of New York City took place yesterday at the Miami Beach residence of the bride's parents. After a honeymoon in Palm Beach Mr. and Mrs. Van Wie will reside in New York.

Stell Andersen and Silvio Scionti Return; Playing Upholds Praise

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Having journeyed about this country and as far from it as Rome and Milan, Stell Andersen and Silvio Scionti returned to Kimball hall last night to give a recital in the form in which they have been specializing, that of two pianos. In the course of their travels they would seem to have garnered a good many favorable printed opinions, many of which were reproduced upon their program.

There is no need to disturb or contradict any of them. If it were possible it would be pleasant to add to the number. Appearing under the auspices of Gamma chapter of Phi Beta fraternity, they appeared both jointly and singly, a group for the two pianos, a solo group by Miss Andersen, Castelnuovo-Tedesco's "Alt Wien" for the two, a solo group for Mr. Scionti, finally a dual finale in Chabrier's "Espana." They were soundly and deservedly applauded.

The Chicago Mendelssohn club at Orchestra hall was assisted by a soloist of more than usual merit. He was John Goss, baritone. Claiming England as his home, he devoted himself to the proposition that English is a good language to sing, and he did much to prove his case. His voice was mellow, flexible, and of good quality, but what was of greatest importance was that every English syllable came plainly back to the last row of seats, and in the process made itself sound as though it were a language of high culture, which, of course, it is. He sang songs of an olden time, another group of seachanties, in which he is a specialist, and also assisted the club with a solo in one of their choruses.

The club, directed by Calvin Lampert, used an interesting group of Finnish student songs early in the program. Later they sang the Chorus of Peers from Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe," and this, with its unfailing humor and high spirits, was encored.

Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will be out of the city next week seeking a much needed rest. In his absence Eric DeLamarter will take the baton for the Tuesday, Friday, and Saturday concerts, sharing the program with the Russian modernist, Serge Prokofieff, who will appear as composer, pianist, and guest conductor.

Girl Born to Pope's Niece; He May Be Godfather

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 20.—Pope Pius' niece, Marchesa Maria Luisa Persichetti Ugolini, this morning gave birth to a girl, Maria Pia. The pontiff dispatched Msgr. Caccia, the papal steward, to convey his benediction and felicitations. It is considered likely that the pope will be the child's godfather. The marchesa's husband is counselor of the Nicaraguan delegation to the Holy See.

Here's Latest Whisper from Paris: Curls Are Coming Back!

by Gabriele Tanqueray

Not everything just off the boat is all that it is represented to be. But this tidbit of ours, which is the first bit of news we've heard in some time about coiffures, has authentic backing, although just off the boat from Paris.

"Paris," it reads, "has broken out in a rash of curls!"

Curls over the ears, curls low on the neck, curls high on the neck, curls high on th ehead, curls over the forehead! Women surely are on the road to revival of the femme devastatingly femme, is it not so?

Certainly, the way women take to doing their hair does reflect the times, its manners, its habit of thought and activities exactly as architecture does. At least so it has ever been in history. Being the case, then, are we not permitted to construe the curl trend to a desire to abandon everything of the garcon-flapper period for good and all?

We suspected it would happen. Women tried to hold out against the new dress mode with its long hemline and its belted waistline, but an evening in any dining place convinces one that whatever will power they may possess in order to hold out against other temptations fashion can disrupt.

I wonder if at some not far distant era powdered hair will not come in again. My understanding is that it appeared first around the end of the 16th century, when short, curly hair was being worn.

If you read the history of coiffures you are impressed with the relation of hairdress to the seriousness and the frivolity of their particular periods. Also, you are impressed with the exaggerated lengths to which hairdressing went during some of the frivolous periods. Marie Antoinette is accused of having turned the heads of the ladies of her court into miniature gardens, allegories, sea scapes, pyramids on which tall forests of feathers waved, coiffures which obliged women to kneel in their carriages and which sent ladies' maids scurrying to the top of little ladders to put the final touches to a pompadour.

Let's pray, for the good job's sake, that the curls are not a forerunner of still more elaborate coiffures yet to come! In the meantime, let's try a curl or two!

Italian War Hero Joins the Order of St. Dominic

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 20.—An impressive ceremony took place yesterday when Vincenzo d'Ischia, an Italian army captain and war hero, entered the Order of St. Dominic. While the 80 year old father and members of the family looked on, the war veteran donned the white robe and black hood of the Dominican novitiate, proceeded to the high altar, which was ablaze with candles which were placed above the tomb of St. Catherine of Siena.

Here D'Ischia prostrated himself at full length, with his arms spread out on the stone floor.

With tears streaming down his face he was embraced by a prior and his relatives. After "Te Deum Laudamus" had been sung he disappeared to begin his novitiate of a year. During the ritual he adopted the name of Paolo Nola, after the saint of his home town.

GIRL'S JACKET SUIT.

The jacket suit is one of the most popular modes for girls for classroom wear. The skirt is plaited at either side of the front and back and attached to a long waisted bodice. The little jacket and skirt are made of the same material, while the bodice is of a contrasting color. Brown and beige wool jersey, using the beige for the bodice; tomato red wool crêpe for the bodice, with the jacket and skirt of navy blue wool jersey, and printed and plain velveteen are all attractive.

The pattern, 2969, comes in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 8 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material with 1¼ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

Ex-President Irion of Elmhurst College to Be Honored Today

Dr. Daniel Irion, president emeritus of Elmhurst college, today will hold a double celebration of his 75th birthday and the 53d anniversary of his association with the college. He became an instructor in Greek and Hebrew there on his 22d birthday, Feb 21, 1877.

A feature of the celebration will be the dedication of the 75 room dormitory to be known as Irion hall and the unveiling of a bronze plaque on the new building. Dr. Timothy Lehmann, president of the college, will give a testimonial dinner in honor of Dr. Irion in the college dining hall this evening.

Dr. Irion was elected president of Elmhurst college in 1886 and served actively until 1919. Then he retired. He was a member of the first graduating class of fourteen students and during his administration saw the college grow from a pre-theological school with an enrollment of 32 students to a recognized college. All of the present buildings on the campus were erected during his fifty years.

Live in the Present; Enjoy the Children, Is Wise Counsel

by Mrs. Ginkus Washington Bevans

My dear Mrs. Bevans: I especially like your emphasis on enjoying our children as we go along, even though their training and upbringing is a weighty matter. My oldest child is 11 and I'm realizing how quickly we grow up—next year high school and then only four years, and college.

I can't understand how some mothers are so ready to leave their small children to the care of more or less incompetent maids that they may play golf or bridge. Surely, such interests may wait until later when the mother's time is freer. I find that I really needs to be on one's guard or club work or church work will take more than its legitimate due of time."

To the woman whose vital interest is outside her home, such a letter as the above will have no appeal. But to those to whom the upbringing of their children is merely a duty to be conscientiously performed it also will have no appeal. But to those whose children are a personal happiness, an ever-living interest, desirable companion, and a job worthy of all one's intellect, time, and emotions—it will strike a responsive chord.

"Why didn't I know how happy I was in the old house in Washington Park when all the children were small," says one mother I know. "Ten years flew by so," says another, "and I always kept thinking I must manage so as to enjoy the present more and not be in such a hurry—but I never did."

"I wish I'd known how fast the years would go," says still another, "for then I would have savored the children more when they were little and how fast they were growing up, too."

Of course, the business of every mother takes much of our thought and energy. And of course we don't want to be maudlin about the passing years. But we can strike something of a balance between the two by living the present as much as possible with all our interest and soul.

Beach Says Scouting Is Curb for Boys Crime by Youths

Chicago's future crime rate depends on the increase in the present enrollments in areas where outfits of youthful delinquency, declared Frank J. Loesch, former assistant state's attorney and president in the Union League club, urged by business and professional men, raising $1,250,000 to expand the Boy Scouts ranks during a four year period.

"The great problem in the reduction of crime at present," said Mr. Loesch, "is the boy problem. The time we can detach the boy from crime the easier it will be to reduce negligible quantity in the future. The more boys who join the scouts and receive training in citizenship within scouting has selected for themselves its work, the cleaner will Chicago be in the near future.

"The survey by the University of Chicago indicated that the greatest delinquency among youth is in the congested areas adjoining the river. The proportion of delinquency decreases rapidly as one gets into better neighborhoods. The same may be said to be true of the mature criminal.

Additional subscriptions totaling $486,000 were reported by forty-five workers at the luncheon. This makes the total to date of $486,000. George M. Bowers presided.

BEGIN INSTALLING OF $90,000 PROJECTOR IN ADLER PLANETARIUM

Installation of the $90,000 Zeiss projector in the new Adler planetarium in Grant park, has been started, Prof. Philip Fox, director, announced yesterday. Paul Lange, sent here by the Zeiss company of Jena, Germany, is assembling the 3,000 parts of the huge dumbbell shaped machine, which will reflect the planets and stars on a vaulted dome.

One hundred workmen were employed for six months in constructing the three ton projector, according to Mr. Lange, who expects to complete the installation within five weeks. The $1,000,000 planetarium, given to the city by Max Adler, will be formally opened late in April.

Bernard Shaw Tells of Own Tragedies in "Old Vic" of the '70s

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—George Bernard Shaw's "past," especially in those distant days when fame was a stranger to him, has provided piquant revelations. It seems he was a member of an orchestra 50 years ago at London's historic Shakespearean theater, "the Old Vic." Later when stage manager there he was very nearly thrown out by a prima donna.

As two of Mr. Shaw's plays are being produced at that theater next Monday, he writes to the management: "The revival of 'The Dark Lady' and 'Androcles and the Lion' will be my first performance under the very distinguished management of Miss Lilian Baylis, but it will not be my first appearance at the 'Old Vic.'

"Toward the end of the '70s, before Miss Baylis was born, I made my debut and also took my farewell as what the Italians call the maestro in the orchestra of the Old Vic under the baton of a certain Sig. Samuelli by filling up gaps in anything but—but—the full band on the grand piano at a performance of detached acts of 'Faust' and 'Il Trovatore' for the improvement of the masses.

"I flatter myself that the anvil chorus seldom if ever has gone with more spirit than on that occasion; anyhow, if the masses were not improved it was not my fault.

"I also acted as stage manager on one or two similar occasions. As the ringer of the church bell during the Miserere in 'Il Trovatore' I was such a failure that the prima donna struck the rehearsals and silenced me. But what could I do with a length of gas pipe on a string for the bell and an old poker to hit it with? Miss Baylis may therefore announce my appearance at the Old Vic after 50 years' interval. I am probably the only survivor of the previous occasion."

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)
